

Aycock To Be Installed During Colorful Ceremonies Today

By ANN FRYE

University Day today will be celebrated in all pomp and circumstance at installation ceremonies of William Brantley Aycock as chancellor of UNC in Kenan Stadium, beginning at 10:30 a.m.

The installation today marks the first such ceremonies for a Carolina Chancellor. Former Chancellor Robert House was known as dean when he entered the office.

University students and staff members will be enabled to attend the ceremonies. Classes will end at 9:50 a.m. and University offices will close at 10 a.m.

Many out-of-town guests are expected today in Chapel Hill, including North Carolina and University officials.

Governor Luther Hodges will be on hand to deliver the investiture. The oath of office will be administered Chancellor Aycock by North Carolina Supreme Court Chief Justice J. Wallace Winborne.

Television stations WUNC-TV (of the University), WSOB-TV (Charlotte) and WTVD (Durham) will be televising the ceremonies, beginning at 11 a.m. with the procession of the platform party and faculty.

In case of rain, the installation will be held in Memorial Hall and the faculty procession will be eliminated.

Chancellor Aycock was appointed to this administrative post last February 25 by the trustees of the Consolidated University on recommendation of President William Friday and trustee committees.

A luncheon after the installation and a number of exhibits in various parts of the campus are being held in honor of the new chancellor.

The Law School is displaying Chancellor Aycock's legal writings. (Aycock was formerly dean of the Law School). A portrait and material on Chancellor Aycock is included in an exhibit in the Library, which is also showing selections from the Preston Davie collection of early Americans (rare manuscripts and books).

An exhibit of the publication of Dr. Blackwell Robinson's book on the founder of the University, "William R. Davie," will be open to the public after noon today in the offices of the University Press.

The Morehead Planetarium will hold two special showings of today's presentation at 2 and 4 p.m.

President Friday will preside over today's installation ceremonies. Eli (Sonny) Evans, president of the Carolina student body, will extend greetings from the student body during the ceremonies.

Representing the Alumni Association during the installation will be James Webb. Greetings from the trustees will come from Victor Bryant of the executive committee, and Kenan Prof. Fletcher M. Green of the Department of History will extend greetings from the faculty. Duke University President Hollis Edens will represent the North Carolina College Conference.

A concert by the University Band will be held before the ceremonies begin. Both the band and University Glee Club will take part in the installation program.

Marshals for the installation will be Dr. J. C. Lyons for the faculty and George Ragsdale, senior class president, for the students.

Carolina students will serve as hosts and hostesses at the exhibits and at a luncheon around 1 p.m. today in Lenoir Hall for out-of-town guests.

WEATHER

Partly cloudy and cool with scattered light rain or drizzle. Sunday, partly cloudy and continued cool. High temperatures today, generally in 60s.

Carolina's Powerful Tar Heels Down Miami's Hurricanes 20-13

Tar Heels Take In Florida Sun After Game

MIAMI BEACH FLA. — It's quite an interesting experience to follow a football team around and watch it as it performs its tasks according to a strict schedule in preparing for a football game.

The Tar Heels have been following just such a schedule since their arrival in this beautiful and extravagant land of sunshine, Cadillas and Northerners down on pleasure trips.

There are many diversions here, especially along Collins Avenue where there are over 450 luxurious hotels and numerous night-clubs etc. The Tar Heels are being housed along this street (Shore Club) but prior to last night's game have not had the opportunity to see the sights.

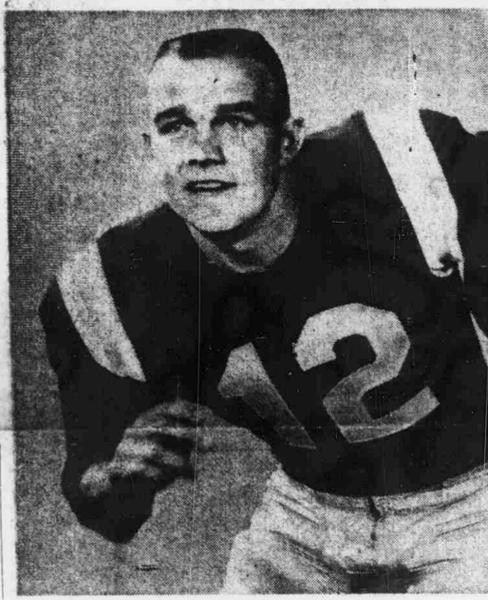

One of the fallacies of a night game in a place like this is that there are so many temptations which must be avoided all day prior to the game. But the Tar Heels have followed completely the rules which were set for their own good so they would be at their best at game time.

As a reward win or lose the players will be allowed to spend the day here today on their own, and this is certainly a treat they deserve. Deep sea fishing for those who want it is on the schedule for today and many of the players have been anxiously awaiting a crack at the famous Miami Beach sea inhabitants.

Weather-wise, the team is experiencing typical Florida weather. The temperature has been consistently in the high 80's during the day and at this writing the forecast for the game is around 75 degrees with a chance of scattered showers.

As mentioned before, many of the people here are from the North and, as should be expected are getting a big kick out of the North Carolina accents. Some of the boys have made it a point to accentuate their accent and the Guests love it.

The people here have been greatly impressed with the team for their friendliness and its clean-cut dress. The Tar Heels don't have much Tar Heelia support on hand, but the northern influx and native Floridians have given them great moral support.

PILOTS WINNING DRIVE—Curtis Hathaway was the man at the helm of the Tar Heels mid-way in the third quarter when they made their final game clinching score. Hathaway sneaked over from the three after a brilliant passing attack during a 49-yard drive.

Team Plays To Crowd Of 47,166

(Special To The Daily Tar Heel)

MIAMI, Fla.—Carolina's powerful Tar Heels withstood a strong Miami attack in the second half and showed an Orange Bowl crowd of 47,166 how football is played in Tar Heelia by downing the Hurricanes 20-13 here last night.

The win was number three in a row for the Tar Heels but Jim Tatum's club could never be sure until the final gun as the two clubs battled ruggedly on the verdant Orange Bowl turf here in beautiful Miami.

UNC Neighbors Struck By Flu

RALEIGH, Oct. 11 (AP) — Influenza has struck four colleges here but the reported cases have not been identified as Asian flu.

The colleges affected are Shaw University and St. Augustine College, Negro schools, and Meredith and Peace, both Woman's colleges.

During the past week according to Dr. William Senter, physician for the two Woman's colleges, there have been 75 cases of flu at Meredith and 25 at Peace.

Officials at Shaw University stated their 14 hospital beds had been filled since the Sept. 28 football game with Virginia Union College when the epidemic apparently got started.

At St. Augustine College, 25 cases were reported this past week. At other Raleigh Colleges little or no incidence of flu was noted. At North Carolina State College less than 25 victims had been reported out of a student body of 6,000.

At all of the stricken institutions, medical authorities reported the incidence continues to increase and shows no tendency to let up.

At Shaw there was no exact tally of the number of students stricken but one of the nurses at the infirmary said it was "a large number."

Dr. Senter stated that girls at Meredith and Peace who live in Raleigh are being sent home in order to make room for other victims in the infirmaries.

'No Mementos' Official Says

No formal presentation of the North Carolina state flag to Queen Elizabeth will be made at the UNC Maryland ameg according to student government officials.

An official ruling from the Chief Protocol Officer of the State Dept. is responsible for the change in plans David Jones vice-president of the University Club, announced Friday afternoon. Twenty-six other schools had also planned to participate in half-time ceremonies.

Despite this change a large UNC banner a copy of the Yackety Yack and two stuffed "Carolina rams" will be sent to the Queen as previously planned.

The two UNC football co-captains will be presented to the Queen and possibly other members of the Carolina student body will be given the opportunity to meet the Royal visitors.

Carolina was apparently unbothered by the 78 degree heat and the Tar Heels opened up a running and passing attack that was too much for the highly-regarded Floridians. The Tar Heel defense was tough in the clutches as it survived numerous Miami thrusts, any of which could have changed the entire complexion of this thrilling gridiron battle under the lights.

One by air and two by ground. That's the way the Tar Heels turned the trick in moving into the elite gridiron powers of the nation. For Miami, it was a heart-breaking loss which could have gone either way. The Tar Heels steadily-improving halfback from High Point, Jim Schuler was responsible for the first Carolina tally and it came with 8:25 remaining in the initial period.

The Tar Heels backed the Floridians into their own end zone in setting up the first score. Fullback Bill Sandie was forced to kick and Schuler took it on the Miami 42 and raced back to the 26. Don Coker, playing for Daley Goff who saw no action, then busted up the middle to the 16, thus setting the stage for Schuler to shine. On the next play, the speedy halfback moved off right tackle on the quick opener and raced across the goal line untouched. It was a terrific bit of blocking on the part of the Carolina right side. Phil Blazer added the extra point and Carolina led, 7-0.

The Tar Heels did it again in the second quarter after neither team was able to do much in the way of penetration for the rest of the first period.

The second Carolina score came on a beautiful two-play pass series featuring Emil DeCantis and halfback Ron Marquette who turned ed in perhaps the greatest game of his career. Carolina got possession of the ball on its own 22 and after Coker had gained two yards DeCantis ran wide and hurled a beautiful 43-yard pass to Marquette on the Miami 33. On the very next play the situation was reversed and this time it was Marquette who ran wide and passed to DeCantis. Emil gathered it in on the ten and raced over with the second Carolina score. Attorney William McGovern To Participate On Forum Here

MARY MOORE MASON

William L. McGovern, Washington, D. C. attorney, will be on the campus Oct. 18-22 in connection with the Human Rights Forums, sponsored by the Public Affairs Committee of the YW-YMCA.

The law firm of which McGovern is a member, is well-known for defense of its members in the recent Congressional hearings which have been concerned with human rights.

McGovern, a graduate of Yale, has also served as an assistant to Attorney General of the U. S. and the specially appointed Deputy Assistant Attorney General of Georgia for the trial of an inter-territorial rate case.

Edward P. Morgan, well-known ABC radio and T. V. news commentator, will visit the campus with McGovern and take part in the program on human rights. He will broadcast his program, "Edward P. Morgan News" from Durham on the evenings that he is here.

The highlight of the program will be a forum on Monday night, Oct. 21, at 8 o'clock in Carroll Hall Auditorium. At this time both men will speak on "Human Rights: Their Challenge to America."

McGovern will lead discussion groups at 3:30 p. m. Monday and Tuesday on "Civil Rights and the National Security Program." These meetings are tentatively planned to assemble in Roland Parker lounges in Graham Memorial and are open to interested students only through application to the Y.

Applications may be left at or phoned in the Y building.

Miss Betty Carolyn Huffman, YW chairman of the forum, stated that these groups would be of particular interest to students majoring in political science, international affairs, history and journalism, and urged those students to make an effort to attend.

An informal discussion on "Human Freedom and Education" is planned for Tuesday evening, Oct. 22, at 8 o'clock in the faculty lounge of the Morehead Planetarium. Refreshments will be served.

Both men will visit classes on Monday and Tuesday mornings, and will make several visits to church groups. McGovern will speak at the Community Church on Sunday morning. He will visit the Canterbury Club's supper meeting that night. Morgan will visit the Wesley Foundation's supper meeting.

World In Brief

Missile Fired

MISSILE TEST CENTER, CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla., Oct. 11—(AP)—A huge missile, apparently the Air Force's Thor, churned up clouds of smoke and dust today and disappeared into hazy blue skies over the Atlantic Ocean in about three minutes.

The Thor, if it was such, is an intermediate range ballistic missile designed to fly a minimum of 1,900 miles.

If this was a Thor, it was the second apparently successful launching of an Air Force IRBM. There have been five known firings. Three were flops.

Sputnik Believed Seen Over UNC

By BILL CHESHIRE

Sputnik — Russia's man-made moon — has been sighted passing over Chapel Hill, according to reports from the Chapel Hill Airport.

The sighting — possibly the first in the Southern United States — was said to have been made between 3:30 and 5:30 p. m. Wednesday by three amateur pilots, one a UNC senior.

The student, Bill Mudd, said he and two other pilots watched the object for about three minutes as it traveled in a southeasterly direction over Chapel Hill. He described the object as "a pin point of reflection about 3 o'clock high."

The other pilots were identified as Charlie Daves and Bob Barron, both from Raleigh.

Mudd said the object appeared to be much faster and higher than the B-57's commonly seen over the airport. He also stated that it left no vapor trail usually associated with high-flying jet aircraft.

He said he and the other pilots watched the object until the reflection of the sun on it suddenly vanished. All three pilots believed the object to be the satellite, he said. Morehead Planetarium Director Anthony F. Jenzano said he did not expect the Russian moon to be visible in this latitude until early next week, possibly Monday or Tuesday.

He explained that the "moon" will be easily visible only at sunrise and sunset.

He recommended that "moon watchers" use binoculars in preference to powerful telescopes, since binoculars provide a larger field of vision for locating such small objects.
