TO SPEAK HERE—Dr. Nathan Rotenstreich, Israeli philosopher and writer, is scheduled to speak here next week while a guest of the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation of North Carolina. In addition to a talk to a class in religion and a night meeting sponsored by the Dept. of Philosophy, he will also make addresses at N.C. State College and Woman's College.

Polgar Show Proceeds Benefits Campus Chest

Advance sale of tickets for the Dr. Polgar "Fun With the Mind" show being presented for the benefit of the Campus Chest on the evening of Oct. 29 has topped any previous program Polgar has ever presented on campus, reports Chairman Richard Love.

A possible explanation for this, says Love, is the fact that Dr. Polgar is no stranger to many students and local citizens, who have enjoyed his appearances here and television "guest" appearances with Arthur Godfrey, Steve Allen, Dave Garroway, Garry Moore and Arlene Francis.

Through his performance is based on the scientific subjects of telepathy, hypnosis, and remarkable feats of memory. Polgar's sparkling wit and showmanship provide an evening loaded with laughs.

He is the first to spoof the old Black-Magic, evil-eye type of hypnotism. "My job is entertainment," he says. And entertain he does.

Look Magazine said about Polgar: "Every year he appears before over 300 audiences in the United States, leaving them happily befuddled by his implausible feats."

Chairman Love says there are still some tickets available for Polgar's show at Memorial Hall, and they can be purchased at the cashier's counter in the Y and also at the information desk in Graham Memorial.

Residents in town may purchase tickets at Danziger's or at Pace's in Glen Lenox. Tickets are on sale for $2, but students presenting an ID card may purchase tickets for $1.

Rockets To The Moon
LOS ANGELES, Oct. 17—(AP)—The Examiner says it has been told that Russia will try to hit the moon with rockets Nov. 7.

The newspaper's science editor, Christian Clausen, wrote today that the information came from a European scientist "who has talked to rocket experts who have escaped from the huge Russian rocket and missile base at Peenemunde in Germany." The scientist's name was not given.

Clausen said his source told him the Soviets will aim three of their huge rockets at the moon from a launching base on the Caspian Sea, "the same spot whence the Red satellite was sent aloft."

Flu Outbreak
WINSTON-SALEM, Oct. 17 (AP)—Wake Forest College reported today its 220th case of flu since the campus was hit by an outbreak about two weeks ago.

College officials are presuming the flu is of the Asian variety although only two cases have been definitely diagnosed. Infirmary quarters are remaining busy since new cases are coming in as fast as others are being released.

Three new cases of flu were reported at Salem College and Salem Academy. The small infirmary already was filled. There were 15 Academy students and five college students in the infirmary. Four other students from the college have gone home at the request of their parents.

Nobel Prize
STOCKHOLM, Oct. 17—(AP)—French Author Albert Camus, advocate of the classical Greek philosophy of reason in an angry age, today won the 1957 Nobel prize for literature.

The Royal Swedish Academy of Literature cited him for "his important literary production, which with clear-sighted earnestness illuminates the problems of the human conscience in our times."

Legislature Meets, Introduce One Bill

Ask Lenoir Hall Investigation Bill

Representative Pat Adams (SP) introduced last night at the Student Legislature a bill to set up a committee "to investigate the negligence of the duties of the management of Lenoir Hall."

The second article of the bill stated, "The Student Legislature send a request to the N.C. State Board of Health for frequent sanitation inspections of Lenoir Hall without prior notice to the management."

None of the bills from the meeting of a week ago got out of their respective committees. The bill to grant the Carolina Symposium additional funds was held in committee for further study.

None of the other standing committees were able to meet because they lacked quorums. "Obviously the flu bug has taken its toll," said Speaker Don Furtado.

The bill to allow the Carolina Symposium to keep funds appropriated in the Bank of Chapel Hill was allowed to die quietly under Student Body President Evans' veto.

Speaker Furtado announced that there were two vacancies for the Student Party on the finance committee.

He also reminded the members that if they had more than one unexcused absence from a regular legislature meeting or committee meeting, then they would have to drop out of the legislature.

Representatives who "cut-out" are not eligible to run again for a year he said.

SP members Patty Wall, Pat Hammer, Al Walters, Denton Lotz, Dave Jones, and Denis Rinzier along with Marian Ellis (UP) were sworn into the Student Legislature.

Nineteen legislators were absent. Twelve were from the University Party, and the remaining seven were members of the Student Party. The legislature is made up of 50 representatives.

The flu epidemic seems to be waning according to campus medical authorities. On a tour of dorms, fraternities, and sororities doctors visited approximately 750 students.

Lenoir Hall's effort to supply the students in the dorms sick with soup is reported "to be going well."

Chancellor Aycock visited Lewis Dorm last night. He reported the student morale seemed good.

SP Will Nominate At Monday Meeting

Nominations for the fall elections will take place at the Student Party meeting on Monday at 7:30 p.m. in Roland Parker Lounges 1 and 2.

Nominations will be made for Men's Dorm Districts 1, 2 and 3; church groups. McGovern will speak at the Community Church on Sunday morning. He will visit the Canterbury Club's supper meeting that night. Morgan will visit the Wesley Foundation's supper meeting.

The Student Party will also elect a new treasurer and appoint campaign officials at this meeting.

Student government officials announced yesterday that 50 dollars will be allotted each men's and women's dormitory for TV maintenance this year. The money is to come from $1,300 appropriated into the Student Activities Fund from dormitory vending machine profits.

The repair work will be done according to a contract let to Dollar Radio and TV Service; the policy, as planned, is to have TV sets ordinarily repaired in two days.

Procedure for repair work is that any dorm president or student body treasurer Bob Carter may report TV break downs, and that the procedure will be handled through the student government and not through the IDC.

After repairs have been made, bills will be sent directly from Dollar to treasurer Carter. Bills will not pass through individual dorm administrations for the sake of expediency.

However, if dormitories overspend the allotted $50, the overdraw will be taken from individual dorm social funds.

Y Forum Will Open UN Week

The arrival of William L. McGovern and Edward P. Morgan on the UNC campus Monday will usher in United Nations Week.

Morgan, well-known ABC commentator, and McGovern, prominent attorney for the Washington, D. C. firm of Arnold, Fortas, and Porter, will be at UNC in connection with the YW-YMCA Forum on "Human Rights: A Challenge to America."

This meeting will be 8 p. m., and the public has been invited.

However, other meetings, study groups, and discussions will be held Sunday, Monday, and Tuesday.

McGovern will lead discussion groups at 3:30 p. m. Monday and Tuesday on "Civil Rights and the National Security Program." These meetings are tentatively planned to assemble in Roland Parker lounges in Graham Memorial and are open to interested students only through application to the Y.

Applications may be left at or phoned in the Y building.

Miss Betty Carolyn Huffman, YW chairman of the forum, stated that these groups would be of particular interest to students majoring in political science, international affairs, history and journalism, and urged those students to make an effort to apply and attend.

An informal discussion on "Human Freedom and Education" is planned for Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in the faculty lounge of the Morehead Planetarium. Refreshments will be served.

Both men will visit classes on Monday and Tuesday mornings, and will make several visits to for Town Men's Districts 1, 3 and 4. Nominations will also be received for dorm women, town, and freshman class officers.

The Student Party will also elect a new treasurer and appoint campaign officials at this meeting.

Royal Couple Arrives For Washington Visit

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17—(AP)—This government may have been lickered on its planning for a Sputnik, but when it comes to planning a welcome fit for a queen it's mighty hard to beat.

It's not known here whether Queen Elizabeth said, as she accepted the invitation, "Now don't you folks fix up anything extra for us." If she did, nobody paid any attention.

Eisenhower, smiling and bowing, met her at the aircraft's door. A 21-gun salute echoed and the strains of "God Save the Queen" and "The Star Spangled Banner" were played in the full scale military welcome.

Elizabeth, her husband and Eisenhower then moved in triumph procession from the airport to the White House. Hundreds of thousands cheered, clapped and waved British Union Jacks as the three rode by in Eisenhower's bubbletop limousine.

The weather, as if taking part also in the event, fitted itself to Elizabeth's schedule.

Threatening rain held up during her hour-long procession. Then, later, it fell in a dreary drizzle from leaden skies when she and Philip went to Arlington National Cemetery.

There, an unsmiling Elizabeth laid identical laurel wreaths, festooned with red and white carnations, at the tomb of the unknown soldier and at the Canadian cross.

Elizabeth, smiling broadly, followed by the queen and the queen consort, were seen smiling broadly.

Dr. Marvin E. Chapin, who performed the operation, removed 28 teeth from the mouth of an 11 year old girl.

Senior dental students and students from the department of anesthesiology at North Carolina Memorial Hospital viewed the operation.

The primary purpose of the operation was to demonstrate techniques of administering general anesthetics for oral surgery.

Following the training period, the Foreign Service worker receives his appointment for service abroad.

Brandon told the group that starting salaries are scaled according to the officer's qualifications, experience and age, and they range from $4,750 to $5,350 per year.

A career ambassador may receive as much as $20,000 yearly.

Brandon also said that all transportation costs, housing or allowances for rent, and clothes allowance for certain climates are paid by the U.S. government.

In mentioning the benefits of Foreign Service, Brandon maintained that "you never have a chance to be bored." A member of the Foreign Service for 15 years and an officer on four different continents, he noted that the total turnover in the service per year is less than seven per cent.

Applications for the one-day written exam must be received by the Broad of Examiners in Washington before Oct. 23. Form blanks may be picked up in the Placement Service office within the next few days.

Roving Doctors Are Calling On Patients

Carolina students suffering from the current "respiratory infections" have been urged not to attend classes. This advice came from Dr. O. David Garvin, district health officer for Orange-Person-Chatham-Lee counties.

Though not specifically singling out UNC students, Dr. Garvin said that medical authorities agree on a simple treatment for flu-like cases. This treatment includes aspirin, fluids and rest.

The health official especially urged rest, since he believes the peak of flu cases will come within the next two weeks. He said that the cases may temporarily subside over the weekend.

The number of flu cases in the University Infirmary jumped to 32 yesterday. There were 65 hospitalized Wednesday.

According to a report from Ray Jefferies, assistant to the Dean of Student Affairs, 692 students in dormitories, sororities and fraternities had been reported in bed and not attending classes on Wednesday. This figure does not include town men.

A team of 17 doctors visiting students in dormitories yesterday reportedly saw well over 692 students.

University Physician Dr. E. M. Hedgpeth said that there were less cases treated yesterday than Wednesday, but he did not supply further comment on the situation. He mentioned that the infirmary will inform students when more expected Asian flu vaccine arrives.

Health Officer Garvin said that private physicians in Chapel Hill have had Asian flu vaccine, but have given out. Dr. Garvin did not know when the doctors will receive any additional doses of the vaccine.

The situation in the public schools in the four counties has not warranted closing down classes, but Dr. Garvin said as many as 50 per cent of the students in some schools were absent this week.

One of the big problems accompanying the outbreak of flu-like cases here at the University is getting food to the sick students in dormitories.

Ray Jefferies worked with volunteers from dormitories last night to take soup and fruit juices to bed-ridden students. Large containers were brought in from Durham to facilitate getting the food to them. Previously, it was late in the afternoon yesterday before some of the sick students got any lunch because of a lack of food containers.

Spencer Dormitory, where some coeds eat their meals, was sending out food yesterday.

Also some of the women's dormitories have been supplying fruit juice to the girls from the dorms' own finances.

From Woman's College comes this report: because of a high incidence of influenza on the campus, WC has canceled examinations for today and tomorrow and has set up an early lights-out schedule.

There are 120 patients in the WC infirmary with many others sick in the various dormitories. Classes are being held as usual but the girls have been advised to rest as much as possible.

In Durham County, the health superintendent estimated there must be about 10,000 cases of some kind of influenza in the county.

Symposium Head Calls For More Participation

Carolina Symposium Chairman Sonny Hallford yesterday called on all students, faculty members and townspeople who are interested in the 1958 Symposium to sign up for committee in student government offices at Graham Memorial.

Hallford made the request in the following statement submitted yesterday to The Daily Tar Heel:

"I would like to extend, on behalf of the Carolina Symposium, a cordial invitation to all interested students, faculty members and townspeople who would like to serve on one of the symposium committees to come by the student government office in Graham Memorial and sign their names to the committee interest sheets.

"One can contact Miss Staples, executive secretary of student government, who will show him the committees which are offered. We need good and capable committee heads as well as committee members. I strongly urge you to let us know your interest as soon as possible.

"The committees are classroom and Departmental seminar committee, organization and Administration committee, handbook committee, social hospitality committee, finance committee, physical arrangements committee, publicity committee, exhibits committee and office staff.

The functions of these committees will be briefly outlined on the interest sheets. This request does not apply to those who have already expressed their choices."

Ford Foundation Announces Grants

The Ford Foundation has announced grants to graduate students in economics and business administration to 26 colleges and universities, including the UNC, State College and Duke University.
