Dr. Hooper's Organ Recital Is Week Away

GMAB's music committee has scheduled an organ recital for its second Petite Musicale of the fall series. The one-man concert by Dr. Francis Hooper, outstanding Midwestern organist, will be held next Sunday at 8 p.m. in Gerrard Hall.

Among the program pieces will be three sonatas by Scarlatti, as well as Hugo's Ballad and Lambert's Fireside.

Dr. Hooper is noted for his demonstration of an organ's flexibility rather than its power, and for his sensitive feeling for effects which avoid sentimentality in romantic passages.

Dr. Hooper, a WWII veteran who gives recitals in the United States and England. In addition to his recitals, he heads the organ department of the University of Louisville.

SHOWN ABOVE IS DR. FRANCIS HOOPER, noted concert organist, who will bring his talent to GMAB's second Petite Musicale next Sunday evening when he presents a recital of organ music at Gerrard Hall.

Terps Pull Upset On Tar Heels In 21-7 Victory Before Royalty

Huge Crowd Is Honored By Royalty

By DAVIS YOUNG

Queen Elizabeth and Prince Phillip honored a cheering crowd of over 43,000 with their presence at the University of Maryland—University of North Carolina game yesterday in College Park, Maryland.

Festivities started well in advance of her majesty's arrival at 2 p.m. An hour and a half before game time there were already thousands milling through the stands in anticipation of the day's featured event.

The huge throng hailed from as far west as Illinois and from all parts of the east and southeast. It was obvious to all that they had not come to view the game alone, but rather to catch at least a glimpse of the most publicized personality in the world.

As the Tar Heel band came on the field shortly before the Queen's arrival, there were hundreds of detectives and law enforcement agents lining the field in a precautionary measure. Every possible care was taken to make the Queen's entrance and stay safe and enjoyable.

At 1:30 chartered cars started arriving on the field and bringing many of the nation's dignitaries to the Queen's box on the fifty yard line of the Carolina side. First to arrive were the board of regents of the University of Maryland, various deans from Maryland and the President of the Maryland student body.

Shortly afterwards, Chancellor William Aycock and President William Friday of Carolina along with their families were escorted on the field. The ambassadors of the Commonwealth nations were introduced along with other embassy men of lesser importance.

Governor Luther Hodges and Governor Theodore McKeldin along with their respective families were driven on to the field with Hodges receiving a tremendous ovation from the Carolina fans. He later brought a roar from the crowd as he rose from his seat next to the Queen to lead a fast course of "Dixie."

The Queen's entrance on the field along with the members of her party was a tremendous thrill for the crowd. She was attired in a red suit with matching hat and was every bit as stunning as expected. Phillip came dressed in a conservative blue suit and darker blue hat. The crowd cheered wildly for several minutes as the royal pair circled the field in the presidents' car.

She seemed to enjoy the game at spots. But she appeared to be far more impressed by cheer leaders, majorettes, card stunts and the antics of a couple of governors—than the efforts of 22 muscular chaps in scarlet or white jerseys to shove each other around a hundred yards of sod.

Her majesty, always something of a diplomat, was about the most neutral person in the place. She was downright stolid, in fact, when North Carolina went over for a touchdown just before the end of the first quarter.

She did rise half way out of her chair when Maryland intercepted a pass and threatened at the close of the half. But that probably was so she could see around Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin of Maryland, who was on his feet waving his arms and rooting like a madman.

Chicken and ham sandwiches were offered the Queen between halves—no hot dogs. But she passed up coffee from a paper cup.

She didn't look overly excited when Maryland tied the game up in the third quarter. What brought a grin to her face was the way McKeldin hopped up, doffed his hat and insisted on a handshake

Shown above is halfback Daley Goff, of the UNC Tar Heels, who scored the only touchdown in UNC's defeat by Maryland Saturday in the Queen attended game at College Park. The Tarps upset the Tar Heels 21-7.

Maryland Stars In Second Half With Vital Win

By BILL KING
Special To The Daily Tar Heel

COLLEGE PARK, MD. — The Maryland Terrapins unleashed an amazing second half offensive attack after spotting Carolina a 7-0 lead to completely stun Jim Tatum's warriors, 21-7 before a full house of 34,000 which included Queen Elizabeth and Prince Phillip in Byrd Stadium yesterday.

It was probably the greatest reversal of form since Jane Russell turned her back on the outlaw as the Tar Heels dominated action in the first half and seemed well on their way to winning a fourth straight football game.

But such was not the case, and a caravan of over 1,000 Carolina students sat shivering in 54 degrees weather as the Tarps broke lose for three tallies and threw up an almost impregnable defense in the final two quarters.

It was a sad finale to an otherwise wonderful weekend for the Carolina partisans who made this trip to give the Queen and Phillip a royal athletic welcome to the United States. But nothing can be taken away from the inspired Tarps, who last week beat Wake Forest 27-0.

The play that proved the turning point of the ball game came with 10:20 left in the fourth quarter and featured a second string Maryland halfback named Ted Kershner.

The count at that point was 7-7. The Tarps had the ball on their own 19, when suddenly Kershner alternates were chosen to fill out the group's roster. This legislature, the only one in the United States, meets each year to let representatives from each college present and vote on bills of state and national importance. An award, won by UNC last year, is given for the best bill introduced.

Highlight of the 1957 session, which will have full radio-TV coverage, is to be an address by Gov. Luther Hodges. Delegates from UNC are selected only after a close screening which includes tests on current events and parliamentary procedure, followed by a personal interview before a selection board.

The next meeting of delegates and alternates will be held Wednesday at 9 p.m. in the Roland Parker lounge to discuss bills to be presented.

Y's Forum On Human Rights Begins Today

A public luncheon in Lenoir Hall today at 12:30 p.m.

The Political Science Fraternity will hold a luncheon for Morgan today.

Edward P. Morgan and William L. McGovern, spokesmen for civil liberties, will begin a three-day series of talks here today in connection with a YW-YMCA sponsored forum on human rights.

The highlight of the three-day talks will come tomorrow night when Morgan and McGovern discuss "Human Rights: Their Challenge to America" in Carroll Hall at 8 o'clock.

McGovern, Washington, D. C. attorney, will speak this morning at the Community Church and tonight at 8 o'clock before the Canterbury Club, Episcopal student group. McGovern's law firm has represented defendants in many civil liberties cases recently given Congressional hearings.

Morgan, well-known ABC radio-television commentator, will address a supper meeting of the Wesley Foundation, Methodist student group, tonight.

While on campus, both men will visit and speak at several class meetings Monday and Tuesday mornings. In addition, McGovern will lead discussing groups Monday and Tuesday afternoons at 3:30 in the Assembly Room of the Library on "The Relationship of the Government Loyalty Program to Constitutional Rights and National Security."

McGovern will be the guest at

Whitfield, Adams Are Named To Head Group

Pat Adams and Whit Whitfield were named Wednesday night to head the 20-student delegation to the 21-year-old State Student Legislature in Raleigh, Nov. 7, 8, and 9.

In addition to Adams and Whitfield who will act as chairman and vice-chairman, other officers selected include, Miss Connie Bernstein secretary, Brandon Kincaid, treasurer, and Dave Reid and Tom Long, Senators.

Other delegates chosen at the organizational meeting were: Sonny Evans, John Brooks, Marion Harris, Miss Alice Eller, Larry McElroy, Jim Holmes, Charlie Deane, Don Furtado, Jim Tolbert, Sam Poole, Bob Carter, Chuck Flaek, Quincy Ayscue and Joel Fleishman.

To insure that the UNC delegation remains the largest from any of the participating Carolina colleges, 21 primary and secondary

World In Brief

Textile Workers

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18 (AP)—Lloyd Klenert quit as secretary-treasurer of the United States Textile Workers (UTW) today as the union moved to avoid possible AFL-CIO ouster on corruption charges.

There were indications the present AFL-CIO may accept the changes in UPW leadership and rely on President Anthony Valente to run the union on a reform basis. The UTW earlier had adopted AFL-CIO ethical practices codes.

New Highways

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18 (AP)—The government announced today the addition of 2,102 miles of new routes to the national interstate highway system.

The new routes will provide a more direct linkage of the North Atlantic seaboard and provide major new routes in the far west.

The designation is important to the states, because the Federal Highway Aid Act provides that the federal government pays 90 per cent of the cost of such roads.

Eisenhower Visit

LONDON, Oct. 18 (AP)—The Daily Express said today that Queen Elizabeth II has invited President Eisenhower to come to London next year and implied that the President has accepted.

The newspaper said an announcement is expected during the Queen's stay in Washington.

One London event of 1958 will be the dedication of the new American Memorial Chapel in St. Paul's Cathedral, built to honor American servicemen who served in Britain during World War II.

Melvin West Missing

MOREHEAD CITY, N. C., Oct. 19 (TP)—The U. S. Coast Guard at Norfolk, Va. today ordered an alert of all ships for some trace of Melvin West, 28-year-old disc jockey who started a 580-mile ocean trip for Bermuda Thursday in a 15-foot outboard motorboat. His course was off the shipping lanes.

The adventurer, an experienced sailor, was overdue several hours, and could not have radioed for help because he had only receiving equipment aboard, no transmitter.

Summit Conference

LONDON, Oct. 19 (AP)—Moscow suggested today that Britain and the United States call Russia into an East-West summit conference aimed at restoring calm along the troubled border between Turkey and Syria.

Moscow radiotimed its suggestion to coincide with a call by British Communist Party Secretary John Gollan for summit talks "to stop war breaking out" in the Middle East.

Day-And-Night

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 19 (AP)—The U. N. General Assembly, it was said today, may hold day-and-night debate next week for quick disposal of Syrian-Soviet charges that Turkey plans to attack Syria with U. S. help.

Meanwhile the idea of sending a commission to investigate the situation seemed to have won wide acceptance. Various delegations consulted on the terms of a resolution to set up the commission.

A usually well informed diplomat said the president of the 82-nation assembly had in mind to call morning, afternoon and night meetings Tuesday and Wednesday if necessary to reach a decision by Thursday.

Yugoslavia

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles is reported to be making a careful appraisal of United States support for Yugoslavia.

The question is whether that Communist country has kept enough independence of Russia to justify continuing American aid.

The United States and its British and French allies may be approaching the brink of another Cold War defeat at the hands of smart and aggressive Soviet leadership on the Yugoslav issue. Officials here are not prepared to concede a setback now but they are uneasy about the future.

Pilot Safe

CORUNA, Spain, Oct. 19 (AP)—An American pilot trying to set a new nonstop distance record for light planes dunked his ice-covered ship into the Atlantic Ocean at dawn today on a flight from Galveston, Tex., to Rome. He was only 40 miles from land but 830 from Rome.

William Wyatt, 25-year-old ex-Marine from Dallas, was plucked from the sea by a Spanish fishing vessel he had signaled with a mirror from the air. He was uninjured and his plane, a single engine Mooney Mark 20, was towed ashore.

ICBM Shot Sputnik

MOSCOW, Oct. 19 (AP)—A leading Soviet scientist said today the Soviet Union's Intercontinental Ballistic Missile shot the earth satellite—Sputnik—into space.

Prof. Y. A. Pobedonostov, a doctor of technical sciences, said in the weekly political magazine New Times the ICBM "made it possible within a month to launch the Soviet earth satellite."

Queen Not Enthusiastic Over Football Game

COLLEGE PARK MD., Oct. 19 (AP)—Her August Britannic Majesty, delighted and a bit baffled by tens of thousands of people acting like crazy, took in an American football game today.

Hunched under mink coat and blanket, Queen Elizabeth and 43,000 other spectators spent the afternoon watching Maryland defeat North Carolina 21-7 in Maryland's horseshoe stadium.

She seemed to enjoy the game at spots. But she appeared to be far more impressed by cheer leaders, majorettes, card stunts and the antics of a couple of governors—than the efforts of 22 muscular chaps in scarlet or white jerseys to shove each other around a hundred yards of sod.

Maryland tied the score with only 2:10 left in the third quarter. The Terp defense had kept the Tar Heels back into their own territory for the entire quarter. On fourth down, the Tar Heels were on their own 37. Goff went back to kick but the center was low and he chose to run, getting only a yard.

The Tarps took over and went over for the score eleven plays later. Quarterback Bob Rusevlyan sneaked it over from the one. The big play was a 15-yard run by sophomore halfback Gene Verardi.
