Thanksgiving Thump'

The fellows over at Cobb Dorm got into the Thanksgiving spirit this past weekend when they entertained at their "Thanksgiving Thump" in the social room and selected Zona Quinn, a WC student as "Sweetheart of Cobb Dorm."

Adding to the festivities were 140 WC girls who made the trip down from Greensboro for the occasion. For entertainment Jim Crisp's combo provided music for dancing with Hoke Simpson featured at intermission.

The nine contestants—all from WC—and their escorts were Sarah Long with Bill Bailey, Louise Schimmellennig with Hilly Goldman, Sally Joyner with Jim Gaskins, Dot Sizemore with Rush Bradshaw, Terry Munford with Jim Barbee, Becky Rhodes with Don Starlings, Catherine Jenrette with Charlie Thompson, Marsha Reynolds with Gene Johnson, and the winner, Zona Quinn with Gary Cline.

Zona was crowned by Joy Doughtry, also a WC student, who was escorted by Al Goldstein, last year's sweetheart.

KD Pledge Elect

To get their activities organized, the KD pledges recently elected their officers for the coming year. Toy Johnson of Chapel Hill is the president, Lynn Armstrong of Ridgewood, N. J., vice president; Malley Davis of Odessa, Del., secretary; and Murph Connell of Raleigh, treasurer.

Sigma Nus & 'Atomic Bombs'

Saturday night found the Sigma Nus and their dates partying out at "The Shack" with their cohorts, the first year med students. From 7:30 to 8 p.m. the group held a "Happy Half Hour," a time to "get to know your date" and the med students.

From then on it was party, party with music being presented by Sam Atwater and the "Atomic Bombs."

'BEAT DOOK' PARADE—Friday will be the big parade day for UNC students when dorms, fraternities and sororities show off their thoughts on the Dook game in the form of floats. Typical of "Beat Dook" parades of the past are these two entries which appeared in last year's event, the day before the Carolina-Duke game in Kenan Stadium. An annual event, the parade and selection of a "Beat Dook" Queen is sponsored by Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity.

Fellows Give Views On What Every Woman Should Know

Ye coeds that are alter bound Be skillful as ye flirt around It seems these boys have well in mind The type of girl they hope to find Have you bought the latest issue of your favorite bridal magazine? Were you seen last week admiring diamonds in local jewelry stores? Are you hoping for a piece setting in silver this Christmas? These are all symptoms of a common disease known as "Altairitis." An unique and sparkling emerald-cut diamond, preferably 2 carats, has been known to cure the severest cases. To speed up recovery on campus and to increase the sounds of wedding bells, several UNC gentlemen have willingly prescribed the qualities they most admire and hope to find in the girl they marry. Bill Horner, journalism student from Sanford, wants a "party doll." "She must be sweet, friendly and un-sophisticated and have a lot of common sense. She must like to party and she must be fairly good looking." Jim McLees, dental student from Greensboro, recognizes the demands of his profession and the need for an understanding companion. "I want someone who has a great deal of patience—not a brain, but fairly intelligent. She must be friendly and well-rounded." For those of you interested in the medical profession, Frank Ramos, premed student from Durham, says: "She must be independent and individualistic—with an active and liberal mind, capable of seeing the best in things about her. Above all, she must be a good mother to my children." With the same ideas in mind, Bob Hall, senior from Statesville, ignores looks and says: "I prefer a girl with diversified interests—one who is a liberal thinker and who is keenly aware of her responsibilities as a future mother and homemaker. I want a wife that is humble, benevolent, and who has a natural love for mankind." It seems that the most accepted type of girl is one who is friendly, understanding and well-rounded. Don Hearn, freshman Morehead scholar from Laurinburg, isn't particularly attracted by intelligence. "She must be sweet, lovable and fairly good looking. Specifically, I want a girl who is versatile and with whom I can have fun doing anything." Joe Heavner, sophomore from Lincolnton, says: "I want a girl who is congenial, versatile and natural. Long hair is the outstanding feminine trait, with the exception of facial features." Most of the boys have subjected looks to other qualities such as personality and intelligence. It is interesting to note a couple of opinions on beauty. To lend a European view to the discussion, Jean Pierre Boissavit, graduate student from France, was questioned. "I expect intelligence and moral standards more than anything else in a woman. Beauty is enjoyable, but I am afraid it does not last." Roger Foushee, sophomore from Burlington, gives his interpretation of beauty: "I must admit that beauty, which Mother Nature bestows on a girl, is the first eye-catcher. However, this soon fades into the background as ability to converse, intelligence and personality become more important in the final decision." Joe Clapp, business major from Greensboro, says: "I want my girl to be fairly attractive, but mostly neat. She must be intelligent, affectionate, understanding and a good companion." Well coeds, these are but a few prescriptions which should bring immediate results. They are the wonder drugs! Try at least two of the suggestions and you will be well on the road to recovery. It would be wise to have your case of "Altairitis" under control before the next epidemic occurs in the spring.

Public Health Division Chief Slated To Speak Here Monday

Dr. James R. Shaw, chief of the Division of Indian Health, U. S. Public Health Service, Washington, D. C., will be guest speaker at the Student-Faculty Seminar of the UNC School of Public Health Monday, Nov. 25. Attending the seminar will be students, faculty and invited guests from official and voluntary health agencies. The meeting will be held at 2:30 p.m. in the Louis R. Wilson Library Assembly Room. While in Chapel Hill, Dr. Shaw and his associates will confer with faculty members of the School of Public Health concerning the school's contract with the Indian Service. This contract is for the training of Indian village health educators. This project, conducted under the auspices of the Department of Public Health Education of the UNC School of Public Health, utilizes the Albuquerque, N. M. regional headquarters of the Indian Service and the reservations in that area as a field teaching center.
