Consolidated University Officers Move Into Old Institute Building

By ANN FRYE
President William Friday and other Consolidated University officers moved to new quarters in the former Institute of Government building on East Franklin St. yesterday.

Formerly housed in the east wing of first floor, South Building, the Consolidated University now operates in a three-story building.

Remodeling of the building was in the form of re-painting, petting, carpeting and new furnishings.

On first floor, there are the reception room, President Friday's office, Vice President William D. Carmichael's and William Whyburn's office and secretary offices.

located in the center north side, is furnished with yellow and light orange plastic chairs, a yellow rug and yellow and brown draperies. The walls are of Philippine mahogany.

Vice President Carmichael's office, on the northwest side, has an oak-paneled wall. The chairs and rug are green. From his old office in South Building, the vice president brought his desk and book press lamp.

A birch-paneled room on the southeast side is occupied by Vice President Whyburn. Furniture in this office consists of green and yellow plastic chairs and a green carpet.

er north side, has a long table and green plastic chairs. The wall is of cherry paneling.

Business Managers' Office
The office of Business Manager Shepard, on the northwest side, is furnished with yellow chairs and rugs with gold, brown and white draperies.

Teague, who is a special assistant to President Friday, is in an office on the southwest side. Furnishings in there include green rugs and yellow plastic chairs.

When the position of provost (who would be in charge of educational offerings and activities) is filled, he will have an office in

APO Textbook Trading Post To Open Jan. 31

A textbook "trading post" will be operated by Alpha Phi Omega service fraternity to enable students to sell used books, according to Bill Jolly, president.

The service will be offered Jan. 31-Feb. 4 in the Cabinet Room of the YMCA. Books brought to the post between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. during the four day period will be sold by APO at the price requested by the owner plus a small handling charge.

T. S. Eliot's 'Cocktail Party' Is Next Petite Dramatique

T. S. Eliot's "The Cocktail Party" will be the second Petite Dramatique production of the year. The play will be presented in Graham Memorial's Main Lounge, Sunday and Monday, nights, Feb. 16-17.

According to director Jack Jackson, this is the first time that an Eliot play has been attempted on the UNC campus.

Playing the role of Edward will be Peter Sinclair, instructor in the Department of Economics, who has previously appeared in the Playmaker productions "The Crucible" and "The Lark." He has also acted in the Durham Theatre Guild.

Betty Rhodes, dramatic major from Kinston, will play the part of Lavinia. Miss Rhodes appeared recently in the Petite Dramatique production of "Judith" and the Playmaker production of "The Lark."

The part of Peter will be played by Russell Link, a dramatic art student from Jamaica, N. Y., who has had roles in Playmaker productions of "Midsummer Night's Dream," "Anastasia," and "Peer Gynt."

Betty Sinclair, formerly a member of the Montreal Repertory Company, is to take the part of Celia. Mrs. Sinclair originally came from Kent, England, and has been drama critic for the Chapel Hill Weekly.

The role of Alex will be portrayed by Sam Baker, graduate English student from Greensboro. Baker played in last year's Petite Dramatique production of "Caligula" and took part in the Playmaker productions of "The Shoe-

Class Ducat Pickup Set

A schedule for picking up class tickets for the coming spring semester was announced today as classes came to a close in preparation for final examinations next week.

There still was no official estimate concerning enrollment for the next term, although it was expected to continue above the 7,000 figure. Just over 7,000 students are currently enrolled at the University.

It was pointed out today that class tickets for the coming semester will be withheld if a student has failed to pay his room rent or to settle his account for the current term. This does not, however, apply to women students.

Students can pay their fees at the cashier's office in South Building on Jan. 30 from 8:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. and on Jan. 31 from 7 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Officials said that preregistered students can pick up class tickets for the spring semester at the Naval Armory Jan. 30 from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. and on Jan. 31 from 7:30 a.m. to 8:30 a.m. New students will register Jan. 30 from 8:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. in Hanes Hall.

Pre-registered and newly-registered students who wish to do so can pay their fees by letter under the following alphabetical system:

A. L.—Feb. 18th; B. M.—Feb. 19th; C. N. O.—Feb. 20th; D. E. P. Q.—Feb. 25th; F. R.—Feb. 26; G. S.—Feb. 27th; H. I. T. U. V.—March 4th; J. K. W. X. Y. Z.—March 5th.

Dental, law, Public health and medical students must pay their fees the first week of registration. Students on the G. I. bill can make arrangements to pay one third of their fees Feb. 21, one third March 21, and one third April 21.

There will be a late fee charge of $5 if fees have not been paid by March 15.

Summer Projects

All students who have participated in summer services projects for any agency are requested to stop by or call the YMCA office and leave their names.

TYRONE POWER—Among the three stars in Bernard Shaw's "Back to Methuselah," which the Carolina Playmakers will bring to Chapel Hill Feb. 28 and March 1 in Memorial Hall, is Tyrone Power. Others in starring roles are Faye Emerson and Arthur Treacher.

Tyrone Power To Star In Playmaker Feature

The Theatre Guild-Arnold Moss presentation of Moss's new condensation of Bernard Shaw's "Back to Methuselah," starring Tyrone Power, Faye Emerson and Arthur Treacher, has been booked by the Carolina Playmakers to appear in Memorial Hall for two evenings, Feb. 28 and March 1.

In addition to its three stars, the production will feature Valerie Bettis, Arnold Moss, and Roger Evan Boxill.

These six players will enact a total of nineteen roles.

Moss will be the only member of the cast to be seen in one role only, that of Bernard Shaw himself.

"Back to Methuselah" is Shaw's comic parable of the serious subject of longevity that was performed over the course of three evenings when it was first given in New York in February, 1922.

Moss has condensed the five plays of the "Methuselah cycle" into one normal-length evening, a condensation that was warmly received last summer in vernal-season theatres stretching from Boston to Chicago.

The show is presently touring the East prior to a Broadway opening on March 17.

Tickets for the show will be available Feb. 3 in the Business Office of the Carolina Playmakers. Prices for the production will be $2.20, $3.30, $4.40.

Demand May Be Down 28 Per Cent This Year

June college graduates will probably face the roughest job-finding situation since 1949, a personnel official from big industry told UNC students Thursday night at a "Career" meeting.

Robert B. Savin of Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Company addressed UNC seniors and graduate students under sponsorship of the UNC Placement Service, which is directed by Joe M. Galloway.

"The demand for June graduates may be down 28 per cent from last year's figures, according to one recent estimate," Savin said. "They will all find jobs, but placement for some may not come until late summer or early autumn."

Savin expressed the opinion that most large companies have developed a "social conscience," feeling that an employee whose work is competent deserves job security.

"The investment in a man is too great to let him go after several years of training and experience, unless he is definitely incompetent."

Qualifications

Commenting on comparative qualifications of liberal arts graduates and those trained in business administration, Savin said: "My personal observation has been that the business-trained graduate may have an easier initial adjustment, simply because his knowledge of business terminology and techniques is greater."

"But the liberal arts student with natural ability will develop quickly, and by the end of the first year's employment the two men's progress will be equal."

Formal Training

Savin said that some business areas such as accounting, must of necessity require formal training, "but a history major can learn to sell as well as a business major can."

Personnel officials do try to determine exactly why a liberal arts graduate majored in a certain field—because he felt a great interest in that subject, or whether he drifted into it from lack of interest, Savin added.

Getting prospective graduates to organize their thinking about vocational interests and job procurement is the biggest problem facing personnel recruiters, Savin said.

He urged students to investigate an organization before seeking employment, and to have definite ideas of job preferences.

Last Paper

The Daily Tar Heel will suspend publication for the remainder of this semester after today's issue. The next paper will be published Saturday, Feb. 1.

news in brief

Potato Soup

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17 (AP)—The special potato soup Rep. Kearns (R-Pa.) wants on the Capitol menu got a trial test today. The chef who made it commented "not so hot," but then he said he's not a soup eater.

Anyway, the gallon and a half was all gone by 12:30 p.m. and chef Everett Stewart said most of the tasters "tell me it's very good."

But he wasn't convinced. "It's a fair soup," he said, but "I think it could be improved."

Kearns tried a plate in his office and pronounced: "Oh, it's wonderful."

Secret

LONDON, Jan. 17 (AP)—Moscow Radio announced tonight that Nikita Khrushchev has been on a secret visit to Poland.

The announcement said he spent three days there and had "conversations with leaders of the Polish Communist Party and the government of the Polish People's Republic."

TO ATTEND MEET
Mr. Elizabeth L. Kemble, dean of the UNC School of Nursing, will attend a meeting of the American Nurses' Association Committee of Research and Studies. The committee will meet in New York City, Jan. 24 and 25 to consider research studies.
