Buddy Morrow And Orchestra To Be Feature At Mardi Gras

By CHARLIE SLOAN
Buddy Morrow, elaborate decoration and a new location will spark the second annual Mardi Gras weekend.

Scheduled for Feb. 28 and March 1, the event has been designed to give the entire campus a major dance weekend.

Morrow's group is probably best known for its recordings of Night Train and One Mint Julep. Featured vocalist for the organization is Betty Ann Blake.

Mardi Gras Committee Chairman Gerry Boudreau announced the committee's choice adding that additional attractions have been planned, but are yet to be signed.

Weekend Agenda
The weekend will consist of a dance Friday night, the 28th, and a concert Friday afternoon from 2 o'clock to 5. A concert will also be held Saturday, Feb. 1 from 3 to 5 p.m.

This year's dance will be held in the Tin Can. Boudreau explained that the old gym is being used because it will be easier to decorate. Over one thousand dollars have been allotted for the decorations.

The elaborate and expensive decorations have been planned in response to comments that dances at Carolina in the past have lacked atmosphere.

Tickets
The weekend will cost each couple three dollars. Boudreau pointed out that the actual price per couple should be about eight dollars. The difference in the cost of the weekend is being made up by Graham Memorial Activities Board.

Tickets are available at the GM information desk and Y Court. Other plates where they may be purchased will be announced later.

Accused Firebug Committed To Dix Hill For Observation

Bound Over For April 28 Court Term

By BILL KINCAID

Richard Satterwhite, 21-year-old medical student, who has admitted to officers that he set the series of fires on the UNC campus, has been taken to the State Hospital in Raleigh for observation.

Judge Leo Carr ordered him committed to Dix Hill Saturday night for an observation period not to exceed 60 days.

Satterwhite was taken into custody Friday night after local police had traced an intruder who broke into the home of W. D. Carmichael Jr., University vice president, on Thursday afternoon.

Held Without Bond

The youth was ordered held without privilege of bond on a charge of arson for the April 28 term of Superior Court. He was also placed under $10,000 bond on charges of breaking and entering.

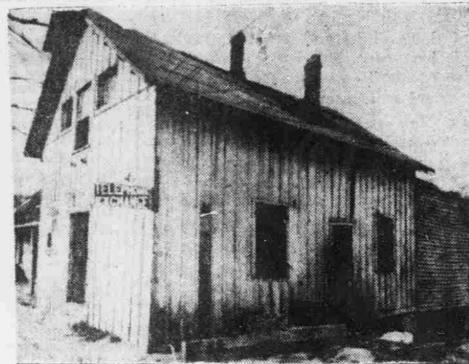

Officers said he admitted that he set 10 fires and attempted to set two others in Chapel Hill since Jan. 8. Signed confessions have been obtained in the MacPherson and Carmichael cases.

All the fires did minor damage except one in Swain Hall. The Swain Hall fire caused damages estimated at $60,000.

Officers said Satterwhite claims he is beset by strange and uncontrollable urges to start fires. He said that he had felt a compulsion to set the fires. Earlier in his life he relieved built up tensions by breaking bottles and driving his car. He added that lately he had turned to setting fires.

Carmichael Break-in

Satterwhite was found in the Carmichael house by Mrs. Carmichael when she was returning (See FIREBUG, page 3)

ORIGINAL PHONE COMPANY

Local Phone Company To Double Present Size

The Chapel Hill Telephone Company, owned by the University will double the size of its telephone building and install new equipment to provide 1,000 new lines and interceptor apparatus, according to an announcement by Chancellor William B. Aycock and Business Manager J. A. Branch.

The estimated cost of the additions will be $300,000.

Construction of the addition to the present telephone company building and the new installations will be completed next fall. Grey Calbreath is superintendent of the Telephone Company for the University.

The expansion has been approved by the Department of Administration of the North Carolina Budget Office in Raleigh after a survey by University officials, the State Utilities Commission, the Southern Bell Telephone Company, the General Telephone Company and the Automatic Electric Sales Company, manufacturers of exchange equipment.

One result of the new lines will be elimination of a number of multi-party lines and availability of additional private lines. Many Chapel Hill telephones are on four-party lines and a few on eight-party lines.

The interceptor equipment will permit callers who are dialing numbers which have been changed, and to help the callers in dialing the correct numbers.

The action came after a thorough study of needs of the telephone system and represents the first step in a ten-year improvement plan.

The construction and additions will be done at no cost to the taxpayers. The Chapel Hill Telephone Company will amortize the costs from receipts.

The University bought the telephone company from local private owners 30 years ago.

The growth of the telephone company in the past 20 years has paralleled the growth of the community and the University. There were about 1,000 telephones in Chapel Hill in 1936. At present there are 8,735 phones in use, or eight times the number of two decades ago. The largest increase has come in the past five years when the number of telephones here has doubled.

Chapel Hill was the first medium-sized town in the state to have an automatic telephone exchange system, and was one of the first towns of this size in the nation to have such installation.

SP Hears Discussion By Johnson

By PRINGLE PIPKIN

General College Dean Cecil Johnson discussed and named the problems connected with the present General College adviser system last night at a Student Party meeting.

He said that the advisers were available at other times than at registration but that students often did not take the initiative in coming "in between times."

With the exception of those students who signed up for a course which is not available, he said that most of the other people in drop-add lines had failed in some academic obligation.

There are now 12 advisers and one dean for the General College, which now has 2,200 students. The advisers, who have to give up about a quarter of their teaching time are paid a stipend of $800 in addition to their regular salary.

Dean Johnson said that, if the advisers had fewer students under their care, they could do a better job. However, there is a financial problem.

He said that a bid had been placed to increase the number of advisers to meet the expected increase in enrollment; however, the ratio between students and advisers will remain about the same.

It is also difficult to find qualified men who are willing to give up research time to be an adviser and whom the department chairmen are willing to let divert some of their time from teaching the department.

Each adviser is chosen because "he is a fine person for the students to deal with." The present system was originated in the mid-1930's by President Frank Graham.

Dean Johnson said that several years ago the University tried having one faculty counselor for every 20 students. However, "the results as a whole were quite discouraging," he explained.

Jim Pittman introduced a resolution which urged, "that the Dean of General College and the Dean of Student Affairs consider this problem as a mutual one which can only be solved by the coordination of the responsibilities and duties of the Dorm Counselors and the academic advisers."

The resolution failed, but a resolution by Gary Greer to set up a SP committee to study the problem more fully was passed.

By acclamation Betty Huffman was elected to a seat in Dorm Women's District and Christie Farnham to the SP Advisory Board.

Recital Tonight Will Dedicate Organ Console

Robert Baker, outstanding American organist, will be the guest artist at a special recital tonight at Hill Music Hall. The occasion will be the dedication of the building's new Reuter Organ Console. The public is invited to attend without charge.

A teacher of organ at the Union Theological Seminary, Dr. Baker is also organist at the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church and the Temple Emanuel in New York. He has appeared on many University campuses as recitalist and lecturer.

Tonight's program is divided into three groups of compositions, beginning with the Baroque period.

Also to be included are works by Dietrich Buxtehude, Jean Philippe Rameau, Darius Milhaud, Cesar Franck, Jean Langlais, Alfred Hollins, Samuel Barber, Johann Christian Rinck and Joseph Jongen.
