Fire Damage To Presbyterian Church Set At $195,000; Rebuilding Planned

Chest Drive Set Today

The Campus Chest launches its drive today to attain a $2,000 goal. Within the next week every student will be contacted personally by a representative of the solicitation committee.

In order to publicize the drive a jazz band will play in Lenoir Hall at meal time March 26, and the brown and gold campus chest will be there.

Joe Quigg, UNC basketball star, will explain the Campus Chest, during the half-time of tonight's basketball game. Throughout the week there will be an information booth in Y Court.

Responsibility

"Students at Carolina should feel a real sense of responsibility to the Campus Chest. It is not a question of whether to give, but rather how much to give," commented Libby McCord, chairman of the Campus Chest.

She continued, "As members of the world university community, we should realize the needs of our fellow student and, therefore, through the Campus Chest meet these needs."

One half of the money collected will be turned over to the World University Service, which is a unique "student to student" aid program for those in other countries.

The National Scholarship Service and Fund for Negro Students will receive the remainder of the budget. This organization aids Negroes to go to the any US college or university whose admission policy is not exclusive.

Sorority Open House

The six sororities on campus which compose the Panhellenic Council—Alpha Delta Pi, Alpha Gamma Delta, Chi Omega, Delta Delta Delta, Kappa Delta, and Pi Beta Phi—will have an open house for all fraternity and dorm men this Tuesday night from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Invitations to the open houses, which will be at the respective sorority houses, have already been sent out to all dorms and fraternities on campus.

Error

It was erroneously reported in yesterday's paper that Al Goldsmith (UP) introduced a bill to require any future National Student Association Coordinator to attend at least one NSA convention before he can be eligible for the position.

Actually Goldsmith's bill would delete this requirement from an early bill. This requirement was deleted from the Student Constitution the last time it was revised, but the Student Legislature bill had not been changed.

'Cocktail Party' Marks First T. S. Eliot Play Presented Here

Formal dress will be the order of the evening, at least for the cast of "The Cocktail Party," for the second Petite Dramatique of the year to be presented Sunday and Monday nights at 8 p. m. in Gerrard Hall.

Producer of the play and chairman of the Graham Memorial Activities Board's Petite Dramatique Committee Seamon Gottlieb announced that the public is invited for both performances, and that there will be no admission charge.

Jack Jackson, graduate dramatic art student and director of the play, said that because this is the first time that a T. S. Eliot play has been presented on the UNC campus, the play represents a distinct challenge.

Jackson announced that the play, originally scheduled for last Sunday and Monday, would be put on this week because the examination period and the beginning of spring semester caused a break in rehearsals.

The play cast will include Peter Sinclair, economics instructor, as Edward; Betty Rhodes, a junior from Kingston, as Lavinia; Russell Link, a senior from Jamaica, N. Y., as Peter; Betty Sinclair, formerly

Duke Tickets

The athletic business office has announced that tickets for the Carolina-Duke basketball game at Durham Feb. 28, are available at the ticket window at Woolen Gym for $2.50.

The office has only a limited number of the tickets and will have to discontinue sales after Monday afternoon.

Insurance Covers Charred Wreckage

Plans for rebuilding of the fire-damaged Chapel Hill Presbyterian Church were being made Friday, even as the charred wreckage of the stately 35-year-old church was still smoking.

Tentative estimates of the damage caused by a midnight fire Thursday were scaled down closer to the figure of $195,000 which is covered in fire insurance on the building. The church officers met with their minister, the Rev. Vance Barron, Friday evening to consider various reconstruction possibilities.

Origin of the flames has not been determined, but Fire Chief J. S. Boone said they apparently spread from a fire in the church basement boiler room.

The church was used last night for an adult supper. The Rev. Mr. Barron said he was the last to leave and closed the building at about 9:30 p.m.

Shortly after 11:30 Chapel Hill Police Patrolmen W. F. Hester and Gene Cozart said they were driving toward downtown Chapel Hill in front of the church when they noticed smoke. Turning into an alley beside the building they noticed flames coming from the basement window in the furnace room, and immediately turned in a fire alarm via their car radio.

Soars Through Chancel
During the succeeding 90 minutes the flames soared up from the basement through the chancel in the 350 seat church auditorium, enveloping the pipe organ and quickly destroying the newly-decorated pulpit area. Quickly the blaze leaped into the loft above the sanctuary and raced through all the wood eaves to the steeple at the front of the building.

About 1 a.m. the holocaust reached its crescendo as the 65-foot spire roared to the earth, sending hundreds of spectators and firemen scurrying for safety. Sub-freezing temperatures froze thousands of gallons of water which were poured on the flames, and created a slippery situation for salvage workers around the church yard.

The main effort of the Fire Department was successfully concentrated in preventing the flames from spreading into the two story Sunday School section at the rear of the church. All Church records and almost all equipment was saved in this area by bucket-brigade type lines of students who carried out a major share of the rescue operation.

Presbyterians Feel Loss

Presbyterians across the state felt a stake in the loss of the Chapel Hill church, inasmuch as a $350,000 building expansion program, financed by individual contributions throughout the Synod of North Carolina, is scheduled to begin here imminently.

Of course the entire building matter was being reconsidered here now because of the total loss of the sanctuary of the church and the serious damage to the remainder of the building.

The possibility existed that the entire building might be replaced.

Tremors Cease

WILMINGTON, N. C., Feb. 21 (AP)—No earth tremors shook the Wilmington area today and a UNC geologist theorized that four previous quakes were man-made.

No houses shook, no windows rattled, no dishes danced and no one's legs vibrated today as they had Monday through Thursday as a result of four earth tremors that left this coastal section in an uproar.

AFROTC Juniors Take Over Senior Offices

An Air Force ROTC Understudy Program began this week with the juniors assuming the positions of the senior officers for a two-week period.

The purpose of the program is to prepare juniors for the duties and responsibilities they will have next year as AFROTC officers.

Presbyterian Events

The Chapel Hill Presbyterian Church will hold its Sunday morning service at 11 o'clock in Carroll Hall. The Westminster Fellowship will meet Sunday at 6 p.m. in the South dining room in Lenoir Hall. Dr. Maurice Natanson of the UNC philosophy department will speak on existentialism. Those Sunday School classes held in the church will meet at their regular time in the Hill House, 210 W. Cameron St.

During the next two weeks the juniors will actually take charge of the corps and carry on all of its functions, under the guidance and directions of the senior officers.

The other understudies are Robert J. Knox, executive officer; William S. Godwin, operations officer; William E. Parker, adjutant; James A. Caldwell, group inspector; Luther J. Davis Jr., information services officer;

Dan D. Drummond, material officer; David A. Ellis, personnel officer; William S. Bailey, squadron I commander; Neil C. Mullen, squadron II commander; Bogden M. Zlotnicki, flight "A" commander; Donald Kemper, flight "B" commander; David C. Scurlock, flight "C" commander; Larry A. Stephenson, flight "D" commander; Eric G. Jacobsen, drill squad and John A. Lashley, band squad.

Mardi Gras Events Set

Two days of activities will be available to Mardi Gras ticket holders this year.

Graham Memorial Activities Board has planned a full schedule for Saturday afternoon and evening to help make the all campus event a complete social weekend.

For their three dollars students will be entitled to the concert and dance on Friday, Feb. 28, and to enjoy the services in Graham Memorial's basement free of charge on Saturday afternoon. This includes free music in the Rendezvous room and free games in the Pool Room for students and their dates from 2-5 p.m.

During this period the ground floor of GM will be open only to couples holding Mardi Gras tickets.

Saturday night, participants in the campus Mardi Gras celebration will be able to attend a Bermuda dance in Cobb basement from 8 to 12.

The weekend is open to all students. Dress for the dance Friday night will be dark suits and cocktail dresses.

Both the concert and dance will be held in the Tin Can. The concert has been scheduled from 3-5 and the dance from 8-12.

Tickets for the event are available at Graham Memorial, Kemps, Stevens-Shepard, Campus Cleaners and from Gerry Boudreau, Benny Thomas, Don Howard, Jim Menzel and Ray Briggs.

SP To Begin Nominations

The Student Party will meet Monday night at 7:30 in Carroll Hall in order to begin making nominations for the spring elections.

Student Legislators from Town Men's 1, 2, 3, 4 will be nominated at this meeting.

Leon Holt, vice-chairman of the party, said, "anyone who is interested in running should certainly be there and should bring someone to speak for him."

Tar Heels Face Maryland Terps In Crucial Contest Tonight

By BILL KING

Frank McGuire and his Carolina Tar Heels have a score to settle with Bud Millikan and his Maryland Terps. The opportunity comes tonight at 8 o'clock when the Tar Heels and the Terps get together for a mighty important Atlantic Coast Conference tilt in Woolen Gym.

It was Maryland which handed the Tar Heels their first conference loss in two years up at College Park Jan. 11 and what was more humiliating was the final score, 74-61. From there the Tar Heels went on to drop ACC tests to N. C. State and Duke.

This is the season finale for the Tar Heels and it's the biggest one they've played here all year. Still in the scramble for first place in the regular season, Carolina needs this one badly in order to challenge Duke for the leadership when the Tar Heels close out their regular season in Durham next Friday. Duke and Maryland played last night.

Record

Carolina comes into this one tonight with a 9-3 conference mark and 16-5 for the season. Excluding the Duke-Maryland game last night, the Terps have an 8-3 conference mark and have won 15 while losing four for the season.

Carolina won what was perhaps their best victory of the season Tuesday when it downed N. C. State, 81-69 in Raleigh thus avenging an earlier setback at the hands of the Raleigh club. Now the Tar Heels need a win over Maryland and another over Duke to break even with the three clubs they lost to during the regular season.

This one won't be easy for the Heels. Maryland brings a starting lineup with five men averaging in the double figures, plus some outstanding reserve material. Charles McNeil is the top man for the Terps with a 12.2 average but Al Bunge, Nick Davis, John Nacinek and Tom Young all have averages of 10 or better and that's the Terps' starting lineup.

Powerful Counterpunch

The Tar Heels, however, have a powerful counterpunch. First of all there's the ACC's leading scorer and rebounder Pete Brennan. Then there's the third high scorer in the conference Tommy Kearns. Add to that Bobby Cunningham, a scoring threat of late and always tops on defense, steadily improving center Dick Kepley, sophomore forward star Lee Shaffer and Johnny come lately Harvey Salz and you have a "top six" that could get the revenge the Tar Heels want so badly.

Kearns, Brennan, Cunningham and reserve Roy Searcy close out their home career in this one and they'd like nothing better than to close it on a sweet note.

This one has all the earmarks of a real thriller and a capacity crowd of over 5,500 is assured. A freshman game between the Carolina Tar Babies and Wake Forest Deaclets will begin at 6 o'clock.
