

Covering The University Campus

BI-PARTISAN BOARD

The Bi-Partisan Selection Board will meet Wednesday from 3 to 7 p.m. in the Woodhouse Conference Room to interview all prospective candidates for seats on the Women's Honor Council.

All girls interested in running for a seat on the council have been requested to sign for interviews on the list posted on Woodhouse Conference Room door. There will be three seats available in the spring elections.

CAROLINA QUARTERLY

Back copies of the Carolina Quarterly are needed to fill library orders. The copies needed are Vol. 9, No. 1 and 2. Copies of these should be left at the Quarterly office in Graham Memorial. Twenty cents will be paid for each copy.

PHYSICS COLLOQUIUM

Dr. Otto Schnepp, of the Israel Institute of Technology, will speak at a joint Physics Colloquium Wednesday at 8 p.m., on "Electronic Spectra of Molecular Crystals."

The meeting will be in Room 206, Phillips Hall.

JOB OPPORTUNITY

The International Cooperation Administration is sending a representative to the campus Wednesday to talk with students interested in careers with the various agencies of the Administration.

Robert I. Biren, director of Management Planning, will discuss opportunities at a meeting in 210 Gardner Hall at 2 p.m.

PHARMACY LECTURE

John R. Kenny Jr., assistant director of the Trade Division of E. R. Squibb & Sons, will address the Student Branches of the North Carolina Pharmaceutical Association and the American Pharmaceutical Association at the UNC School of Pharmacy today.

Kenny will speak in the Howell Hall Auditorium at 8 p.m. His subject will be "The Challenges and Opportunities in Pharmacy Today."

NOBEL WINNER

1956 Nobel Prize winner for medicine and physiology Dr. Dickinson W. Richards will deliver two lectures here in the Clinic Auditorium of the UNC Medical School. Dr. Richards will address the Durham-Orange County Heart Association today at 8 p.m. His subject will be "Cor Pulmonale." Wednesday he will deliver a talk on "Vulvular Emphysema" to faculty and students at 4 p.m.

MEDICINE LECTURE

Dr. Lewis R. Wolberg will be visiting lecturer at the Department of Psychiatry of the UNC School of Medicine Wednesday and Thursday, March 19-20.

Dr. Wolberg, director of the Postgraduate Center of Psychotherapy of New York City, will speak Wednesday at 8 p.m. on "Modern Trends in Hypnosis."

His wife, Dr. Arlene Wolberg, will conduct a seminar for members of the house staff Thursday at 12:30 p.m. Her subject will be "Dynamics and Therapy of the Borderline Patient."

PHI CHI LECTURE

The Phi Chi Medical Fraternity

Annual Lecture will be held at the UNC School of Medicine Thursday at 4 p.m.

This year's speaker will be Dr. Michael Balint, consulting psychiatrist of the Tavistock Clinic of London, England. His subject will be "Opening Moves in Psychotherapy." The lecture will be given in the Clinic Auditorium of the UNC School of Medicine.

PSYCHOLOGY SEMINAR

Dr. Fillmore H. Sanford, national mental health leader for the University of Texas, will address the UNC Psychology Department Seminar on Friday at 4:30 p.m. in Gardner Hall.

The subject for discussion "The Role of the Behavioral Sciences in the Space Age" will be in conjunction with the Carolina Symposium on Public Affairs.

FRESHMAN CAMP

The Freshman Camp Planning Committee will meet tonight at 6:30 in 200 Carroll Hall. All men students interested in serving as counselors at next fall's camp have been urged to attend.

SENATOR ARRIVES — Sen. Harry Jackson smiles as he is greeted at the Raleigh-Durham Airport Sunday afternoon by symposium and faculty members. From left to right are Al Goldsmith, treasurer of the Carolina Symposium which sponsored Jackson's visit here; Jackson; and Dr. Gordon Cleveland and Earle Wallace, members of the Political science dept. faculty.

Sloan Lists Edit Plans

Charlie Sloan, candidate for editor of The Daily Tar Heel in the coming spring elections, today issued the following statement:

"Here are some details of the editorial and business staff daily meetings I recommended last year and mentioned in the first of these statements last week.

"The meetings would include the editor, managing editor, news editor, sports editor, business manager and advertising manager. A meeting place other than The Daily Tar Heel office would be selected to avoid the interruptions of ringing telephones and people trying to conduct business before the office opens each day. A reporter would remain in the office to answer the telephone and take messages.

"Discussion at such meetings would range from complaints one person might have concerning another's department to planning special issues or editions of the paper.

Purpose
"The most obvious purpose of these conference is to assure smoother operation of the staff, resulting in a better coordinated newspaper. There are other benefits of such meetings. They offer everybody on the administrative side of the staff the opportunity to hear new ideas at the same time.

"Complaints can be ironed out quietly instead of shouting from one end of the office to the other—disputes which do not create the best impression on outsiders who are in the office.

"My plan for daily editorial and business staff meetings form only part of a program for making The Daily Tar Heel an even better paper. I have already discussed the dorm stringer system, and in future statements I will go into detail on other plans I would like to see utilized.

"I am confident that these plans can be worked out because I have served in the capacity of acting editor, as well as in every other position on the writing side of The Daily Tar Heel.

Honor & Student Council Selections Board To Meet

The Bi-Partisan Selections Board will interview candidates for the Men's Honor Council and for the Student Council today. The meeting will be held in the Council Room on the second floor of Graham Memorial from 3 p.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Our Superior Paper-backs Combine Intellectual Maturity With Financial Ecstasy . . .

The Intimate Bookshop

205 E. Franklin St. Open Till 10 P.M.

Banquet

(Continued from page 1)

ial Hall to sit in specially roped off sections of the Hall reserved for them.

Although the house was far from full, the crowd of over 1,000 thrilled to the words of the three speakers. Hodges acted as key-note and talked of the role of North Carolina in survival. Dunham was next to appear and delivered a high powered, semi-technical speech on the medical aspects of atomic energy, presenting the positive and negative aspects of exposure.

The crowd got its biggest kick of the evening when Jackson assumed the rostrum and delivered a blistering oration concerning his observations from a recent trip to Russia. He pointed out that the people of the Soviet Union are catching us in every industrial aspect and are surging ahead militarily. Jackson warned that we can reverse the trend, but that it will take a concerted effort on the part of the people.

Yesterday morning, an overflow, standing room-only crowd swarmed Carroll Hall to hear Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama. He addressed the large gathering on "America's Position in Today's Troubled World."

And so the Symposium Week is now underway and will continue to provide Chapel Hill with this concentrated flow of culture. There are still many main meetings and seminars to attend as the week is just beginning.

Furtado Clarifies Views On Fraternities At UNC

Don Furtado, Student Party candidate for Student Body President in the coming spring elections, today issued a statement concerning fraternity life at the University.

His full statement, the first in a series of articles in which Furtado will state his views on various issues at UNC, follows:

"In the past few weeks, a great deal of attention has been focused on our social fraternities. Much of this attention has been due to rather spectacular accounts of Carolina fraternity social life by a number of state newspapers.

"During this same period little credit has been given to our fraternities for their many contributions, such as the tremendous amount of charity work done by the IFC and individual fraternities throughout the year.

"However, it cannot be denied that this critical attention has shown that, in truth, problems do exist, such as our present coed visiting agreement and the presence of book reports and term papers in fraternity files. Such problems should and can be solved through the coordinated efforts of the IFC, the rest of student government, and the administration.

"By adding the President of the IFC to the Student Body President's cabinet, I feel that this coordination can be greatly increased. An investigation of the feasibility of strengthening the IFC Court might bring to light some means of improving individual conduct.

"The fraternities and their governing body, the IFC, must never isolate themselves from the remainder of the student community, for it is to the advantage of every fraternity member as well as to the advantage of the entire campus for them to strive to become an integral part of a working student government team.

"The conscientious concern that has been shown by Bill Redding and the members of the IFC in several instances during the past year has shown their willingness to work to solve our existing problems.

"This concern must continue in the coming year."

Bill Kincaid Named To Daily Tar Heel Post

Bill Kincaid, a journalism major and junior from Lenoir, has been appointed assistant news editor of The Daily Tar Heel, News Editor Paul Rule announced Monday.

Kincaid will perform the duties of Ann Frye who resigned the position to pursue her campaign for the position of editor of the paper.

Schrunk Named Head Of Campaign For Gans

Curtis Gans, candidate for editor of The Daily Tar Heel, has appointed Walter Schrunk, former News Editor of The Daily Tar Heel, chairman of his campaign advisory board.

Schrunk, a junior journalism major, worked for over a year on The Daily Tar Heel, and is currently working on the Durham Morning Herald.

Also appointed to Gans' campaign staff were Paul Carr, Ann Harvey, and Bill Sugg.

Carr, a former SP member, and a candidate last year for president of the senior class, will help Gans out in the dormitory districts.

Miss Harvey, a junior and a UP legislator, was a former member of the Newspaper Research Committee. She will assist Gans in the women's areas.

CCUN Chairman Sugg will aid Gans in the fraternity areas.

Gans outlined a program for better coverage of news on campus in a statement made today.

"A stringer system involving the dormitories is not enough. When I outlined last week, a program for a stringer system, I coupled it with a news tip system as well as a fuller coverage of intramurals."

"The Daily Tar Heel is a student newspaper, and must try to cover the campus as adequately as possible.

"A stringer system must incorporate a man in each dormitory, fraternity and sorority, as well as people in all activities and departments of the University. There should be a person that the staff of the paper can contact in the History Department, Graham Memorial Activities Board, as well as smaller groups such as the Elisha Mitchell Society.

"A news tip system where the editor pays the person who calls in the best story in any month a small cash award, should bring in some interesting and unusual stories.

"There has been a crying need in the past for better intramural and minor sports coverage. This must be rectified to equal the past coverage of major sports that the sports department has done well."

"If these things are done to aid news coverage, I feel from the point of view of news coverage, The Daily Tar Heel can be the best college paper. I feel that I can bring out this type of paper," Gans stated.

Sig Eps Attend High Point Meet

Seven officers of N. C. Delta of Sigma Phi Epsilon attended the annual Sig Ep Leadership School, held Saturday at High Point College. Together with representatives from the seven other chapters in District V, the Carolinas, the men from UNC received training on rush, pledge programs and finance.

Dean U. S. Dubach, a member of Oregon Alpha of Sigma Phi Epsilon, spoke to the meeting on the values and needs of the fraternity. During his five-day stay in the state, he will visit the Carolina chapter Wednesday and speak to file members.

Attending were Bobby Burrough, president; Jack Reed, vice-president; Cliff Paderick, historian; Bennie Baucum, comptroller; Ed Dowland, secretary; John Garver, social chairman; and Ned Todd, rush.

University Club Meeting Is Postponed

The University Club meeting scheduled for tonight at 7:30 o'clock has been postponed until next Tuesday, because of the Symposium. At the March 25 meeting the club will make three awards, elect club officers for the coming year and hear Carter Jones and John Whitty, candidates for head cheer leader.

CLASSIFIEDS

1956 BUICK CENTURY — 4 DOOR Hardtop 2 tone, full power equip. $1795.00. See at Walker's Gulf Service, Franklin Street, Chapel Hill. Call owner 7-2821 day, 2796 evening. (1-1221-6)

1957 MGA SPORTS CONVERTIBLE. Radio and heater, wire wheels, whitewall tires, 14,000 miles. Price $2195. Terms arranged. Call or see Carl Hatley, 219 Stacy, tel. 8-9037.

JUST ONE LOOK AT LIFE INSURANCE is not enough. Let a Northwestern Mutual agent show you the difference in cost and contracts.

THOMPSON & DeBERRY Telephone 9-3691

Far East

(Continued from page 1)

Sparkman pointed out that there was indeed a growing trend to neutrality characterized by the Ceylonese who want to become the "Switzerland of the Far East." He said further that the ambassadors of the U. S. in these areas are pursuing, at least in three cases, completely contradictory policies with regards to neutrality.

He talked of a discussion he had with United Arab State President Nasser, in which Nasser pointed out that the reason the Soviet Union has had so much influence recently was that they did not hesitate with aid as the U. S. did.

He added that he left Nasser with the feeling that the United Arab State president had gone too far toward the Russian orbit and probably would be unable to return to the cause of the free world.

Symposium

(Continued from page 1)

Cowley expressed the desire that man, instead of trying to develop new things that might lead to destruction, might turn to concentration upon continuing the good things that we already have. Here, he said, literature enters in as an encouragement for survival, both on the individual and national levels.

On the individual level, Cowley said, literature can aid in survival by strengthening our will to survive and by re-affirming our values; by setting our sights on a larger world than the everyday world that we see about us. On the national level, literature aids in cultural transmission by humanizing the country in which we live, by creating a nationally characteristic language and by creating myths by which our cultural and historical past may be preserved.

Professor Julian Hartt, Neah Potter Professor of Philosophical Theology of Yale Divinity School and Chairman of the Dept. of Religion, Yale College, spoke on "Our Cultural Heritage: Theological Aspects."

In effect, Hartt indicated that for our moral survival we must have a true return to religious values, not just a false piety which springs out of sudden desperation at the chaos of our present world.

Ann Frye

(Continued from page 1)

would be a good editor, certain criteria must be set up. And experience has proved in the past to be the most reliable criterion.

Experience

"The Tar Heel is not the only journalistic experience I have had. Previously I worked on the Woman's College newspaper and was appointed news editor my sophomore year. In my hometown (Hickory) I have worked for a local radio station, writing news and commercials, summers and holidays since my junior year in high school. In addition, I was editor of my high school newspaper and contributed news articles to the local daily paper.

"High scholastic average, I feel, is also important for the good editor, since this indicates a desire for knowledge, if not intelligence itself. My straight A record here this fall semester shows the high value I place on scholarship.

"In future statements, I will comment further on issues at hand which will be prominent after the spring election, such as fraternities in general and athletics, and on definite plans for staff organization, news coverage and other internal aspects of The Daily Tar Heel."

Petite Dramatique Cast Named

The cast of "Antigone" by Jean Anouilh, the third production of the Petites Dramatiques, has been announced by Peter O'Sullivan, director.

Starring as Antigone will be Amanda Meiggs with Taylor Williams as the Chorus. Others in the cast will be Alvin Fox as Creon, Beau Ryan as Ismene, Lucy Ann Dunlap as the Nurse, Harold Williamson as Haemon, Ken Callendar as Jonas, Lore Schuller as Eurydice, and John Steed and Bill Pfefferkorn as the guards. This play will be presented on April 13 and 14.

THE NEW YORK LIFE AGENT ON YOUR CAMPUS IS A GOOD MAN TO KNOW

George L. Coxhead

UNC, '42 Campus Representative

A Mutual Company nylic Founded 1845

NEW YORK LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY

DAILY CROSSWORD

ACROSS

- Potato (dia)
- Abbeys
- Miss Horne
- Dismissal (slang)
- Soil
- Sacrifices (baseball)
- Smell
- Basketball goal
- Want
- Serf
- Compass point (abbr.)
- Elver fisherman
- Dock war-rant (abbr.)
- Pinch
- Public notice
- Bracing
- Thus
- Wealthy
- Rich desert
- Bears the expense
- Skin disorder
- City (Aia.)
- Smoke-filled fogs
- Killed
- Skin opening
- Throw
- Alder trees

DOWN

- Tiny avalanches
- Ex-president (Arg.)
- Disloyal
- Period of time
- Ancient Hebrew title for father
- Cat, e.g.
- Benedictines
- Go to
- Information (slang)
- Fret
- Newspaper credits
- City (Nev.)
- Heroic
- Branch of learning
- Most terrible
- London river
- Nose
- Scoreches
- Metallic rocks
- Stringed instrument
- Yesterday's Answer
- Fruit of the oak
- Marbles
- Resort

where there's life ... there's

Budweiser.

KING OF BEERS
ANHEUSER-BUSCH, INC. • ST. LOUIS • BEMARK • LOS ANGELES