118 CANDIDATES SEEK OFFICE IN TODAY'S VOTE

Party Heads Urge Students To Vote

An open letter to the student body, aimed at increasing voting in today's election, was issued Monday by Fat Adams, chairman of the Student Party, and Syd Shuford, chairman of the University Party. The letter read as follows:
"Today you will vote for your Student Government leaders for the coming school year. We have fought hard for our side, and we have differed on many things, but we cannot differ in urging each or you to exercise your privilege today and cast your ballot for the candidates of your choice.

Can Express Opinions
"It is hard for many of us to realize just how lucky we are to be able to hold opinions of our own and to express these opinions through the ballot box.
"Mr. Striganov, charge d'affaires of the Soviet Union, said when he was down here for the Carolina Symposium a couple of weeks ago that Russians can have opinions opposed to the Kremlin, but when they try to influence others with these, they are guilty of treason.

Artist Will Show Work Here Soon

Miss Sylvia Carewe, celebrated painter, is exhibiting her work today through April 30 in the Morehead Building. She spoke yesterday, under the sponsorships of the University Art League.

Her work is being brought to UNC through the interest of Ola Maie Foushee, resident of Chapel Hill who met the artist in New York in January and persuaded her to exhibit her work in North Carolina.

She is also planning to exhibit her work at Salem College and in the Student N. C. State College. Her work, described by Time magazine as "visual excitement transposed into semiabstract scenes done with splash and sparkle," has previously been exhibited in Paris, New York, Tel Aviv and Richmond.

Playmaker Tryouts Scheduled Here Today

The Carolina Playmakers have announced that tryouts for three new one-act plays by student playwrights will be held in The Playmakers Theatre at 4 p. m. today. The plays are to be directed by Page Williams, Lucy Ann Dunlap and Lew Goldstein, graduate students in the Department of Dramatic Art. Everyone interested in reading for the plays has been invited to attend the open tryouts.

"Of course, this is impossible here in America, but it could very well become a reality if each and everyone of us fails to do his part in preserving our free democratic system. The roots of our democracy lie in the ballot box. If we preserve the roots the tree will flourish.

Self Government
"Student government was established here nearly a century ago by students and administrators who recognized the value of democratic rule. With the active encouragement of the University, we students have raised our self-government to a place of respect here and throughout the state and nation. We are now among the finest everywhere come to Chapel Hill to study our system.

"Be thankful that you are able to vote. Walk downstairs to the ballot box and cast your ballot for student self-government."

Five Candidates Seek Editorship Of The Tar Heel

By DAVIS YOUNG

Today, five candidates will vie for the editorship of The Daily Tar Heel in what campus political speculators say will be one of the day's most exciting contests.

Ann Frye, Curtis Gans, Pringle Pipkin, Charlie Sloan and John Whitley are all seeking the highest newspaper post. Unlike most major elections, the editorship is decided by a simple plurality rather than a majority. There will be no runoff except in the case of a tie.

Four of the five, Frye, Gans, Pipkin and Sloan have all been endorsed by the Bi-Partisan Selections Board. The fifth candidate, Whitley, failed to gain endorsement from the group. Sloan is the only repeater from last year when he ran a losing race against former editor Neil Bass.

Gans is a junior English major from Waynesville and has worked on the paper for nearly three years. He has served in the capacity of reporter, night editor, proof reader and columnist during this time. He has also been employed by the Asheville Citizens Times in their advertising department and as a sports correspondent for several New York papers. Gans is endorsed by the Student Party.

Pipkin is from Reidsville and has worked for two years as a political reporter and columnist on The Daily Tar Heel. He is a former editor of his high school paper which won a Columbia University Scholastic Press Award and will be employed by The Charleston News Courier in Charleston, S. C. this summer. He is a member of the Beta Theta Pi Fraternity.

Sloan is from Arlington, Va. and has worked here on the campus paper as managing editor, associate editor and news editor. He also substituted as editor for Fred Powledge during his term of office in 1956-56. Sloan has also worked as night editor, proof reader, reporter and columnist. He is a member of Delta Upsilon Fraternity.

Whitley is a sophomore from Thomasville and has not had previous connection with The Daily Tar Heel. However, he has worked for the Thomasville Tribune, High Point Enterprise and as a special writer for Greensboro Daily News, Winston-Salem Journal and The Charlotte Observer. He edited his high school paper and has four years experience as a printer. He is a member of Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity.

Polls To Open At 8 Today; GM To Post Election Results

Campus politicians finished putting their plans and aims on the line last night and their fate is in the hands of the student body today.

Polling places are open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. today, with the results of the election to be posted in Graham Memorial tonight as the votes are counted. All the candidates and Bob Furtado, chairman of the Elections Board, urged students to exercise their voting responsibility.

This spring 60 offices are being contested for by 118 candidates. Heading the list are the three candidates for president of the student body, Bob Carter, Don Furtado and Al Goldsmith.

Goldsmith, nominated by the University Party, is a junior from Lincolnton. He has been active in student politics during his three years here and was floor leader of the party in the Student Legislature this session.

Bob Carter is running independent of party endorsement, although he has been active in the Student Party for three years. He has been treasurer of the student body and vice-president of the IDC in addition to serving in the Legislature. The third candidate, Don Furtado, is the Student Party standard-bearer. He is trying for the post after being vice president of the student body for a year. He won the SP nomination after a spirited fight with the Carter supporters.

The vice president of the student body's post is being fought for by Ralph Cummings (SP) and Jack Lawing (UP). Cummings won the SP bid after the original candidate, John Brooks, was disqualified by the Elections Board. Brooks did not have enough hours in the past two semesters to run and the Board allowed the party to select Cummings after the deadline for entries.

Two coeds Paddy Wall (SP) and Martha "Map" Wilkinson (UP), are running for secretary of the student body. Charlie Gray (UP) and Everett James (SP) are candidates for treasurer of student government. Three students are in the race for president of the senior class, two with party endorsement and one independent. Jim Kelly entered the race late as the independent, running against UP nominee Jeff Hare and SP man Tom Long.

The parties candidates have the field to themselves in the vice presidential contest, the UP supporting Hamp Lefler and the SP backing James Pittman. Two girls hold part nominations for senior class secretary: Susan Campbell (SP) and Betty Root (UP). The UP has entered the only candidate for senior treasurer, John Whitaker.

The social chairman of the class is a race between Sarah Arnold and Betty Kaye Johnson, UP and SP respectively. Three seats on the Student Council are up for grabs between six senior candidates: Bob Bordon, Craven Brewer, Don Millen, John Owens, Eric Roper and Walt Wilson.

The field running for three seats on the Men's Honor Council is even more crowded with 12 students in the race. They are Dick Cashwell, Francis Craighill, Bob Cunningham, Bob Mathews, Tom Rand, Jack Raper and Jimmy Smalley.

A similar situation exists in the race for Women's Honor Council where 11 girls are running for three seats. In the field are Mary Cabell Carlan, Lynne Courtney, Louise Crumbley, Mally Davis, Sue Donisthorpe, Lucy Forsythe, Mary Ann Keith, Ginny Pierce, Susan Purser, Jean Syer and Mary Taylor.

Running for head cheerleader are two boys nominated by the parties, each with previous experience. They are Carter Jones (UP) and John Whitley (SP).

One candidate only is running for positions of National Student Association co-ordinator (Ed Levy) Yackety-Yack Editor (Robert Coake), and president of the Carolina Athletic Association (Wayne Bishop).

The position of president of the Women's Athletic Association is up between two candidates: Jo Carpenter and Ju Ju Stokes. Sue Donisthorpe, Marion Eells, and Martha

UNC Officials Hear IFC Plan At Cabinet Meet

University officials listened with interest and approval yesterday as IFC President Tucker Yates outlined a plan for improving fraternity responsibility on the UNC campus.

Joining other student leaders at a regular Chancellor's Cabinet meeting, Yates traced actions of the IFC since the much publicized "pajama party" a month ago and said steps are being taken to avert a recurrence of such social activity.

"We want most to impress upon every fraternity member the importance of thinking before taking any action as an individual or as a member of the organization to which he belongs," Yates asserted.

That, he said, is the major plan of the IFC in its approach to social problems of fraternities at UNC—problems which, he said, "are reflective of the University."

"Fraternity men are all aware of what's going on," Yates told the Cabinet session, adding that some houses recently have changed long-made plans indicating they will cooperate with the IFC in eliminating their own problems.

Chancellor William B. Aycock was the first to applaud the IFC for its progress in social reform. "I know you're proceeding in the right direction," he said.

The student leaders and administrative officials also talked about improving fraternity-dormitory and fraternity-faculty relations on campus, though no definite steps were taken.

NROTC Group Sees Landing At Lejeune

Twenty-three Carolina midshipmen were on hand to oppose the landing of 12,000 Marines at Camp Lejeune last weekend.

The group, consisting of the senior and junior classes of Marine Option NROTC students, flew by Navy plane to observe the beginning of the Second Marine Division war games which will continue through March.

The midshipmen were able to observe closely the landing of the division and all phases of the drive across the beach. A interesting part of the trip was the bridge built by Marine bridgemen in six hours at night.

A platoon of tanks was taken over by the middies and every man climbed all over them so as not to miss anything. The tankmen answered hundreds of questions for the knowledge hungry midds.

Minter Reminds Ballot Tenders Of Duties

John Minter, UNC Elections Board member, reminded ballot box tenders Monday that the last person tending each ballot box today is supposed to stay with the box until someone picks the boxes up.

Failure to do this can result in the votes in that box not being counted.

Polling places will be open from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m. In order to vote each person must show his identification card and have it stamped.

Minter listed the following places as voting sites for the different University districts:

Town Men's I, Carolina Inn; Town Men's II, Scuttlebutt; Town Men's III, including Glen Lennox, Graham Memorial; Town Men's IV, the office at Victory Village; Town Women, Gerrard Hall.
All dormitory women may vote in their dorms except those in Kenan. Kenan residents may vote in McIver. Residents of Connor will vote in Winston, and Emerson in Ruffin. Other men's dorms will have polling places in them.
Ballot boxes will be placed in the nurses dorms, and all other people living in University owned buildings, such as Memorial Hall, will vote in Old East.

Orientation Application Blanks Due

"Get those counselor applications in as soon as possible." That was word from Men's Orientation chairman Herman Godwin yesterday.

Said Godwin: "Thus far we have received only a small number of applications. We are trying this year to avoid a last minute influx of applications as has been the case in the past.

"I would like to urge all men who are planning to apply for counselor-ship to fill out and return their applications as soon as possible."

"This year the need for good men to carry the Orientation Program is greater than ever due to the many new changes which have evolved here in the past year," he said.

"Anyone who has worked with Orientation previously will tell you that it is not only a service to the University but a rewarding experience for the counselor."

Godwin and his committee will exercise a two-part program for the counselor selections. There will be a general test for all applicants at 7 p.m. April 15 in room 268 Venable.

April 16-23 the committee will hold individual interviews with each applicant. Applicants will be notified by campus mail as to the time of their interviews.

Application blanks and study manuals are now available at the Y.M.C.A., Lenoir Hall, the Library and Graham Memorial. They may also be turned in at these places. The test will come almost directly from the study manual.
