Pepper Tice Is New Editor Of Quarterly

Pepper Tice has been named Carolina Quarterly editor for next year.

Tice, whose full name is John K. Tice, is a graduate student in the Philosophy Dept. He will replace Christian Lefebvre at the top of the Quarterly's masthead.

"It is my feeling," said Tice of his plans for the magazine, "that the present trends in editorial policy of The Quarterly have made for a magazine which, because of its merit and its breadth of scope, has demonstrated a high degree of responsibility to the University on the part of the staff."

He said he favored "continuing this policy with the belief that it will serve to encourage young artists and scholars as well as offer the public some of the better contemporary short fiction, poetry and creative scholarship."

Anyone who is interested in working on the staff has been urged by Tice to contact him before the end of the semester, "so that I have a staff ready to begin work at the beginning of the fall semester."

While an undergraduate at Carolina Tice made Phi-Beta Kappa and was a varsity swimmer. He majored in English.

The Quarterly editor is appointed by an advisory board composed of five faculty members and the outgoing editor.

Legislature Roundup; First Meeting Is Active

By DAVE JONES

Thursday's night's session of the student legislature had two separate and distinct parts. The first was the formal swearing in of officers, the inaugural address, and the reorganization. The second part was the "new business."

By tradition, the chairman of the Student Council swears in new Student Body officers. Jim Long performed his duties in that capacity with dignity and solemnity. First to be sworn was Charlie Gray, then Paddy Wall. Ralph Cummings automatically became the speaker of the Legislature when he took his oath from Long. At that moment Ex-Vice President Furtado rose, and invited Cummings to assume the chair. He did so.

Don Furtado's oath and address concluded that part of the ceremonies concerning the Executive branch of Student Government. Speaker Cummings then administered the oath of office to the 27 new or reelected legislators, while the guests and the rest of the body stood.

The Speaker announced his appointment of John Brooks as parliamentarian. Then the elected officers were chosen. The University Party has a majority of seats in the 25th assembly, therefore they elect their candidates in caucus prior to the meeting.

The Student Party had only one candidate for any office. They nominated Gary Greer to oppose Charlie Pittman as Speaker Pro Tempore. Pittman was elected. All other offices were chosen by acclamation. They are, Doug Kellam, clerk; Craven Brewer, Chairman Ways and Means; Bob Turner, Chairman Finance; Neil Bowden, Chairman Rules; and David Grigg, Sergeant at Arms.

RW-25-1, the first bill of the session was introduced by Roger Foushee (SP). It is a resolution approving the constitution of the UNC Amateur Radio Club. Rep. Foushee requested Special Orders (immediate consideration by the body acting as a committee as a whole). It was granted and discussion began.

Jim Scott of the Radio Club spoke to outline his plans for the club for the next few weeks. In reply to the question, "Why must we approve your charter tonight?" Scott said that the club would like to elect officers and to draw up a request for an appropriation by next week.

Rep. John Brooks (SP) discussed several technical points in the Speakers Announced For Commencement

Editor Norman Cousins and Theologian Albert C. Outler have been announced as the main speakers for UNC's 164th Commencement Program on June 1 and 2.

Cousins, author and editor of the Saturday Review of Literature for more than 15 years, will deliver the commencement address at graduation exercises in Kenan Stadium on Monday night, June 2.

Gov. Luther Hodges and President William C. Friday of the Consolidated University of North Carolina will be present to confer degrees on the graduates. Presiding at the traditional exercises will be Chancellor William B. Aycock.

Dr. Outler, a former member of the Duke University faculty, will give the baccalaureate sermon on Sunday morning, June 1, in Memorial Hall. He is professor of theology in the Perkins School of Theology at Southern Methodist University in Dallas, Texas.

Class reunions, receptions, concerts and awards programs will be other events of commencement weekend in Chapel Hill. The program gets underway on Saturday, May 31, with class reunion suppers and a reception for all seniors, parents, alumni and faculty.

This year's reunion classes, in addition to the Old Students Club which meets yearly, will be '08, '13, '18, '23, '28, '33, '38, '43, '48 and '53.

New officers of the General Alumni Association will be installed at the annual Alumni Luncheon on June 2. Candidates will be nominated at an Alumni Assembly on April 24 in Chapel Hill, and balloting is carried out by mail.

Special exercises on the afternoon of June 2 are planned by the Schools of Dentistry, Medicine, Nursing and Pharmacy. The awarding of Air Force and Navy ROTC commissions will also be held during the afternoon prior to final graduate exercises.

Cousins joined the Saturday Review staff in 1949 as executive editor, having served previously on the staffs of Current History Magazine and the New York Post.

A native of Union, N. J., he studied at Columbia University's Teachers College. Honorary degrees have been awarded to him by American University, Boston University, Colby College, Denison University, Elmira College and Ripon College.

During 1951 Cousins visited India, Pakistan and Ceylon lecturing under U. S. government sponsorship, and two years later was Japan-America Exchange Lecturer. Among awards bestowed upon him is the Thomas Jefferson Award for Advancement of Democracy in Journalism, given in 1948.

Cousins' writings include "The Good Inheritance: The Democratic Chance," "Talks with Nehru," and "Who Speaks For Man?" He has edited "A Treasury of Democracy" and "An Anthology of the Poetry of Liberty."

Dr. Outler, a native of Thomasville, Ga., did his undergraduate work at Wofford College, received his B.D. degree from Emory University and his Ph.D. from Yale

Jordan Named To Succeed Scott In Senate

RALEIGH (AP) — Gov. Hodges yesterday announced the appointment of B. Everett Jordan of Saxapahaw as U. S. senator to succeed the late W. Kerr Scott.

Jordan, 61, a long-time worker in the state Democratic party, currently is national Democratic committeeman. Hodges pointed out that Jordan, a textile manufacturer, was named state Democratic chairman by Scott during his term as governor.

Hodges said he was pleased that Jordan had accepted the appointment.

J-School Prof Will Appear On TV Monday

William Caldwell, Assistant professor of journalism at UNC, will be featured on "This is Carolina," a series of interviews with outstanding persons associated with the University. The program will be carried by WUNC tomorrow night at 8:30.

Caldwell will discuss "The Press and World Affairs." In his discussion he will cover such topics as the accuracy of today's coverage of the news and the problem of news censorship.

He came to UNC after working with the Minneapolis Daily Star and with the United States Information Service. He served with the U. S. I. S. in Sicily and also served as an information officer in the U. S. Embassy in Rome.

Wednesday—3:30-6; Thursday—2-6; Friday—2-6. Furtado's residence phone is 89033.

Appointments to be made include: Attorney General and two assistants plus a staff of eight; three members of the Consolidated University Student Council; a seventeen member elections board; Campus Chest co-chairmen; a six member NSA committee, a seven member library committee; a three member campus stores committee; a committee to pick the editor of the campus humor magazine and a traffic advisory commission and committee.

Other appointments include: ten cabinet members; the membership of the dance committee; the audit board; three seats, one year, two year and three year, on the Graham Memorial board of directors; a student council member; a campus traffic board; a Victory Village Veterans Affairs Commission; and the Honor System Commission.

The Carolina Forum, the high school honor system, the summer school student government, the NSA delegation to the national convention in August and the clerks of the Men's and Women's council are also on the list of appointments to be made.

NSA Issues Report On Coed Closing Hours

A United States National Student Association report sent yesterday to The Daily Tar Heel, indicated that in schools of similar structure and size to the University of North Carolina, none possessed lights out and closed study regulations.

In some of the schools earlier hours exist for freshman girls during the week, but none had earlier closing hours than 10:30. Weekend closing hours ranged from 12:30 until 2 p.m.

Permission could be granted to freshmen to stay out later than the closing hours in some schools.

Some of the colleges whose rules were taken into account in the report were Indiana, Ohio State, Minnesota, Skidmore, Miami, Michigan, and Brigham Young.

Tri Delt Scholarship

Miss Bee Robertson, Service Projects chairman for the Tri Delt Scholarships, has urged all people who have applications for the Tri Delt scholarships to return them to the Dean of Women's office by Monday afternoon at closing hour.

Pi Kappa Alpha's Pick Their 'Dream Girl'

The selection of Miss Charlotte Ann Pope of Albermarle as Pi Kappa Alpha's "Dream Girl" highlighted their annual "Dream Girl Weekend."

Miss Pope is a junior at UNC where she is majoring in primary education.

The "Dream Girl Weekend" started Friday night with a combo party at the Goat Hill Country Club. Dick Clark's combo provided the music.

Saturday afternoon and Saturday night the group enjoyed a party at Smith's Lake near Durham. The evening was climaxed by a steak supper Saturday night.

Carolina Annual Alumni Assembly Is Scheduled For Next Thursday

University alumni will hold their annual assembly here April 24.

At a luncheon meeting in Carolina Inn James W. Poole, chairman of the Alumni Annual Giving program will give a report. This will be the sixth annual report. In the first five year this program has given over $250,000 to the University.

Alumni President James Webb will preside over the business meeting at a dinner meeting at the Carolina Inn. Candidates for officers of the association to serve during the 1958 and 1959, will be nominated.

The nominating committee met last weekend to select a slate of nominees. They will submit their suggestions for candidates at the dinner meeting.

The dinner meeting will feature a discussion on "The University Studies Itself To See What It Will Look Like in 1970." The discussion will be led by Chancellor Aycock with other University officials participating.

Ten meetings will also be held that day for the class reunion committees. These reunions will be held during graduation at the first of June. There will be about ten classes holding their reunions at this time. The classes will be those whose last number in their date is either three or eight.

The class of 1925 has already started working on their reunion project. They are going to print a booklet that will feature stories, pictures and cartoons written by that class especially for this booklet.

Tuesday Evening Set For Symphony Concert

The UNC Symphony Orchestra under the baton of conductor Earl Slocum will present a concert in Hill Music Hall on Tuesday evening at 8:00 o'clock. Marjorie Still Farrell, pianist, will be the featured soloist in the Rachmaninoff Piano Concerto No. 2 in C-Minor.

This is the 17th concert of the 1957-58 Tuesday Evening Series, sponsored by the University's Department of Music. The public is invited at no admission charge.

The program will open with the Prelude to Humperdinck's Opera Hansel and Gretel, which was first performed in 1893. The second number on the program will be the featured work, the Rachmaninoff Second Piano Concerto with Mrs. Farrell as pianist. A popular work, the concerto is difficult yet highly effective music.

Mrs. Farrell is well known to Chapel Hill audiences, having given in the last few years three recitals in Hill Music Hall as well as a Petite Musicale recital. The pianist began her studies at the age of 7; among her former teachers are Edwin Hughes of New York City and William S. Newman, chairman of the UNC Piano Department.

Mrs. Farrell is currently studying with Jan P. Schinhan of the University Department of Music. Among her awards have been the Percy Craven Weeks Award for 1957 and the Federated Music Club Scholarship for 1957-58. The pianist was soloist with the North Carolina Symphony in 1954, playing the Liszt Concerto in E-flat Major, No. 1.

Following intermission, the orchestra will perform the Grand Canyon Suite by Ferde Grofe. This orchestral suite is one of several by the American composer and was written in 1931. Although the entire work is often performed, the movement, "On the Trail" is the most frequently heard.

Kenan Prof To Attend Meet In Atlanta, Ga.

A UNC Kenan Professor will go to Atlanta, Ga., Wednesday as part of a North Carolina delegation for a discussion of the value of the humanities to business and industry.

The Tar Heel representatives among the group of southern industrialists and scholars will be: Dr. Sturgis E. Leavitt, Kenan Professor of Spanish at UNC; John Harden of Greensboro, Burlington Industries Vice-President; and Dr. Allan H. Gilbert, English professor at Duke University.

Dr. Gilbert is chairman of the Southern Humanities Conference, sponsor of the Atlanta meeting. Nine representatives of industry and six educators will discuss promotion of "an intellectual South which will keep with the industrial South."

Music To Start Hour Earlier On WUNC-FM

For the first time in its broadcasting history, WUNC in Chapel Hill will go on the air one hour earlier (previous time—7 p.m., new time—6 p.m.).

Filling in the extra hour will be programs of semi-classical and classical popular music, plus a five-minute news summary at 6:55.

WUNC is an FM radio station, 91.5 on your dial. It is operated and staffed by students at the University working on a voluntary basis. Studios and transmitter are located on the University campus.

Journalism Award Goes To UNC Alum

Vermont C. Royster, senior associate editor of the Wall Street Journal and UNC graduate, has won the Sigma Delta Chi editorial writing award.

The organization is the national professional journalism fraternity and makes annual awards in 15 categories for outstanding work in press, television, radio and journalistic research.

Royster's award was based on an editorial entitled "The Tragedy of Little Rock. It was written following mob violence over school desegregation and the arrival of Federal troops on the Scene.

He stated that what happened at Little Rock might have been averted if men had acted differently. He added that there had been too much hasty action by all concerned.

Royster won the Pulitzer Prize for editorial writing in 1953.

Dramatique Tryouts Set For Tomorrow

Tryouts for the fourth Petite Dramatique will be held Monday afternoon from noon until 6 p.m. in Roland Parker I of Graham Memorial.

The presentation represents something in the way of an experiment in the nature of poetry reading and poetry dramatization.

The "Poetical Potpourri" will be directed by John Sipp, graduate English student.

Sipp announced that those who wanted to try out could try out as readers, as actors, and also those with any ideas for dramatization are invited.

Sipp added that the listenings would be strictly private, and those who wish to try out should bring their own material.

Robert Frost's "death of a Hired Man," Robert Browning's poetry, and Platonic Dialogues are among the suggestions that have been taken into consideration for production.

The evening's offering will be produced by Seamon Gottlieb, chairman of the Petite Dramatique Committee of Graham Memorial Activities Board.
