Law School Observing Law Day This Evening

"Law Day—USA," as proclaimed for May 1, 1958 by President Eisenhower, will be observed in the final program of the Heck Lecture Series featuring North Carolina Attorney General Malcolm Bule Seawell and Dean Brandis at 8:30 p.m. Thursday in the UNC Law School Courtroom.

Mr. Seawell will be the main speaker for the evening.

This program will be carried over WUNC-TV from 9 p.m. until 10 p.m. with the regular "Ideas" program.

Son of the late Supreme Court Justice and North Carolina Attorney General, A.A.F. Seawell and Mrs. Seawell, who resides in Chapel Hill, Mr. Seawell, 49, is a graduate of Sanford High School where he won his first debating contest.

After receiving his B.A. at UNC in 1931 and his LL.B. from the UNC Law School in 1933, he became a member of the staff of the Institute of Government in 1934 and a member of the State Parole Commission where he served from 1935 until 1938.

He served in the Office of Secretary of War in Washington during World War II and was appointed Superior Court Judge in 1935 after several years of private practice and other positions.

Governor Hodges appointed him Attorney General of North Carolina in March, 1958.

He won state-wide recognition in 1952 when the Imperial Wizard of the Ku Klux Klan was sent to prison on charges of conspiracy and assault while Mr. Seawell was serving as Solicitor. This action ended the KKK terror in that area of the state during that period.

Mr. Seawell was married after the war to the former Frances Poole. They have two children: Malcolm B. Jr. who is a preministerial student at Davidson College and a daughter, Terrell.

Council Deletes Portions Of Recommended Coed Rules

By STAN BLACK
The Women's Residence Council passed most of the previously proposed rules for freshmen women in a meeting Tuesday night, striking out the lights-out section and the beach-weekend permission section, and changing Saturday night closing hours from 12 p.m. to 1 a.m.
Lillian Shannonhouse, chairman of WRC, issued the following statement along with the rules:

"Women's Residence Council, after re-evaluation and reconsideration of the Freshman Rules, has reached its final decision. The following are the rules which we feel both necessary and adequate for governing the freshman women on the campus of UNC. These rules are, however, subject to the approval of the Administration."
In commenting on the rules, she said that she thought that they would be put under the Honor System, with authority residing in the dormitory administrations. She emphasized that there would be nothing resembling a monitor system. The rules are still subject to the final approval of the Deans of Nursing and Women.

Several women students associated with the Women's Residence Council either present or former members commented on the rules.

Mary Montgomery supported the rules because "freshmen nurses need less strenuous rules and the entering freshmen women need guidance. The rules will work no hardship on their social life."

Jean Sutherland, a Nursing student, said that she "wouldn't support them just as a liberalization of nurses' rules, but only because all freshmen need them. There should be equality in the rules."

Sue Ballentine, a Pharmacy student, stated, "The proposed closing hours are understandable and lenient enough to allow sufficient social life. Closed study seems unnecessary to me, but much thought has been given to this phase of the rules. WRC is mature and their proposals should be respected."

Annie Lawrie Gard supported the rules, although "more than likely changes will be made next year, as the rules are not permanent. The changes could be either way."

Paddy Wall, secretary of the student body, stated, "Although I hate to see the freedom which I feel offers freshmen girls the opportunity to mature by making their own decisions concerning their study and dating habits taken away, I feel that Residence Council has considered carefully and that the new rules may be beneficial. I hope that the students will support these rules and make the atmosphere as pleasant as possible for the new freshmen."

Carter, Mitchell, Zeh Take Top GM Positions

Bob Carter, Jack Mitchell and Betty Zeh were selected to serve in the three highest posts of Graham Memorial Activities Board yesterday.
Carter will serve as president, Mitchell as vice president and Miss Zeh as secretary, according to an announcement by Benny Thomas, the outgoing president.

The new president is a junior from Selma and has been active in campus affairs during his three years at Carolina. He served this year as treasurer of the Student Body, and is a member of the Student party. He is a Morehead Scholar, former member of the Student Legislature and ran for President of the Student Body in the recent spring elections. He is a member of the Order of the Grail.

Mitchell is a freshman from Chattanooga, Tenn. and a member of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity. He will serve as an Orientation Counselor in the fall as well as participating in the work of the YMCA Freshmen Camp. He worked this year as Business Manager for Sound and Fury, as Director of the "Christmas Round the World" pageant and as Stage Manager for the Carolina Cavalcade of Talent.

Miss Zeh is a member of the Alpha Gamma Delta sorority. She has been active this year as a member of the Student Legislature, Student Party and on the Office Committee of GMAB. She will serve as an orientation counselor in the fall.
Carter said upon notification of his selection, "I consider it a great honor to have been selected for the position of President of GMAB. Benny Thomas has done a tremendous job this year in planning and organizing GMAB and I hope the new Board can continue this fine work."
I would like to urge all interested students to come and fill out an application for the positions open on the Activities Board. Interviews will be held next week and I hope to have appointments made for the chairman of each GMAB committee by next week."

Thomas also added, "I feel that Bob, Jack, and Betty are certainly qualified and capable to carry out the responsibilities that they have assumed. I am well pleased with this slate of officers to head GMAB for next year, and I believe that the programming of our student union is in good hands."

NEED FOR A UNION

GM Outdated At Completion

By AL RESCH
This article is the second in a series of four describing the need for a new Student Union on the UNC campus.

Even before Graham Memorial was completed, it was already outdated because of a double in the enrollment between the time when it was first proposed and when it was finished in 1931.

With the constant increase in enrollment since 1931, there has been created a greater need than ever for what could be called a "center of campus activities."

When the semester system was instituted into the University system of education, there was created a situation which has never been solved. The students were now limited in what could be done during the weekends. In general, there was no improvement in living conditions to keep the students in Chapel Hill.

It has been said that one of the reasons for converting to the semester system was to keep the people on campus over the weekend. It was pointed out that when the University was on the quarter system, a student could get a long way from school and many times neither the officials of the school or the parents had any idea where the students were.

Now the question arises, what are the students going to do on campus or around the town of Chapel Hill.

At the present time Chapel Hill offers little in the way of entertainment to the students of the University. There are two movies, numerous beer parlors or eating establishments but not a place in the city limits of Chapel Hill which offers the students a chance to take dates for an evening of dancing.

There is even a city ordinance in the town of Chapel Hill which prohibits the building of a pool room or bowling alley for public use.

With the student's right to possess cars undergoing limitations possible elimination, socially speaking the person who does not belong to a fraternity has real dating problems.

When a person belongs to one of these social institutions such as a fraternity, he has no real need for a car. It is when the student neither has a car nor is in a fraternity that problems arise.

Chapel Hill just doesn't offer enough facilities to make dating enjoyable to many of the students. This is where the new union could help. It could furnish a place to dance with a snack bar near at hand; it could furnish music rooms and it could have a main lounge where the couple could be entertained.

It may be said that the Rendezvous room in Graham Memorial is never used so what is the need of a place if the people are not going to use it. The answer to this problem is that apparently the atmosphere around the Rendezvous room is not as it should be for a person to take a date. With the Pool Room just next door, many students spend their nights playing the game. They are all boys, and are constantly milling around outside the opened door of the Rendezvous Room.

Many people think that this is no place to take a date.

With girls' hours being 1 a.m. on the weekends, the problem has been increased. Graham Memorial is locked up before the time for the girls to be back at the dorms. Until recently not a single eating place outside a sandwich shop near the police station remained open into the morning hours.

Though the fraternities serve to fill the needs of many people's desire for social recreation, they lack in their creating of an atmosphere for study. Dormitories are often noisy and people find it hard to study there.

Recreation is not all that a new union would offer as a service to the students who took advantage of it. As has been stressed for years, the students need a place in which there would be an atmosphere for studying. A reading room in the new Union would help to solve this need.

The library has long been considered the center of study on the University campus, but even it has faults, the main one being that it closes at such an early hour that the students are forced to go elsewhere in order to find suitable places to study.

One of the needs of the students that could easily be answered is that of furnishing a place where people could meet. When parents of boys come to see them, the father comes into the dorm while the mother sits patiently in the car.

With the building of a new student union which was located centrally, the parents could go there

Few Jury Applications, Reports Council Chief

Hugh Patterson, Men's Honor Council chairman, released a statement yesterday, urging students to apply for membership on the Men's Council.

Patterson said, "A week ago, a concerted effort was made by many men on this campus to acquaint the student body with the new reorganization on the Men's and Women's Honor Councils. At that time many students expressed the desire of wanting to become a juror in the future. During the past two days, interviews have been held to select students who wish to be jurors but few people have been interviewed."

"As this lack of participation might be the result of deficient knowledge on the students' parts as to the requirements to be met and the procedure to be followed in becoming a juror, I will try to present this information now."

"Any student at the University of North Carolina is eligible to be a juror provided that he wishes to be one. A student need not have had any previous experience on an Honor Council to be considered for a position on the permanent jury list.

"If a student wishes to become a juror, he should go to the Student Government office Thursday or Friday afternoon and fill out an application blank which he will find there. Then he should wait to be interviewed by members of the Honor System Commission who are holding interviews in the Woodhouse Conference Room of Graham Memorial from 2 to 4:30. Thursday and Friday afternoons of this week. A student to be prepared for these interviews need only have a good basic understanding of the Honor System and of the new reorganization of the Councils.

"The function of a juror during a trial is to question the defendant concerning the case at hand and to decide the innocence or guilt of that individual.

LOCAL REALTORS ANSWER

Contractors Tackling Problem

By DAVIS YOUNG and KEN FRIEDMAN
This is the third article concerning the sewage conditions in the Isley St.-Stinson St.-N. Columbia St. area of Chapel Hill.

Today you are reading statements from two local realtors and comments from a local contractor who is putting in some sewage lines in the neighborhood being discussed in this series of articles. These statements refute many of

"We've corrected any problem involving anybody's house we rent. We have taken steps to remedy any problems as soon as possible.

"The sewage problem is solved for the neighborhood. The new line has picked up everything on Stinson, Isley and N. Columbia is being worked on now.

"The sewage problem is solved for the neighborhood. The new line has picked up everything on Stinson, Isley and N. Columbia is being worked on now.

"The entire area is now on a gravity flow sewer," Kutz went on to say that the open sewage most definitely had existed. However, he observed that it was cleared up as soon as possible.

He said that the health board is very strict and has always "made me fix every septic tank when anything is wrong."

He said in response to a question about the students that he felt that "I am performing a service to the students and the community."

He admitted that at one time 19 families were without sewage in the area due to the faultiness of the pump.

John Foushee of the Foushee-Olsen Co. of 108 N. Columbia St. was the other realtor Daily Tar Heel reporters talked with in conjunction with this story. Neither of the people giving statements to the Daily Tar Heel rent from him, but two of the four unused statements originated from his tenants.

He said, "We have tried to get the individual property owners to go in together. We manage two houses on Stinson St. and have been over with Dobson, the Health Commissioner and the University Construction Co. in an effort to straighten out this situation."

"They have agreed to permit us to tap onto the sewer at a cost of $200 per house with an additional tap fee of $25 to the city of Chapel Hill.

I rent, is not here, but he has authorized me to hook onto the sewer line at his expense.

"We would most certainly inform a customer of the water problem now, before he moved into the information.

When I rented them, I did not know of the water problem. The rain this year has been a factor in the problem. There has been more septic tank trouble in the past winter than ever before."

Mr. Edward Fields of the University Construction Co., which is in the process of digging some of the sewage lines in the neighborhood, said he was aware that a woman had fallen into a ditch dug by his company and that he had informed her that "she had no business being that near to it."

He went on to say that he is not compelled to rope off or light up any construction that his company is doing when it is on private property. He claimed that the spot where she fell was private property.

As to his knowledge about the sewage situation in the neighborhood being discussed, he said, "I don't know a thing in the world (Tomorrow in the fourth installment, comments from the Health Office and the Chapel Hill Building Inspector on the situation as well as a statement from the county seat—Hillsboro will be printed.

the words that you read yesterday from some of the residents of this neighborhood. In some ways they are serving as a rebuttal.

Yesterday there were two statements that claimed that there is a very definite sewage problem in this neighborhood. The Daily Tar Heel other statements similar to these other statements similar to these two which were held out due to a lack of space.

The first comment is from Kutz Realtors of 1408 E. Franklin St. The first of yesterday's statements came from a person renting from Kutz. When contacted, Kutz issued the following release to the paper:
