Nixon Heads Home; Ike Plans Welcome

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—Vice President Nixon cut short the tail end of his riot-ridden South American good will tour and took off late Wednesday for Puerto Rico. He is due in Washington at 10 a.m. today.

Venezuela's government sent out troops, tanks and armored cars to give Nixon and his wife a safe send-off.

A bullet-proof limousine was provided for their trip from the U. S. Embassy to Caracas Airport. It was at the airport that anti-United States demonstrators launched their spitting and stoning attack when the Nixons arrived Tuesday from Bogota, Colombia.

Clubs, stones and eggs battered their cars in street rioting. Today police cleared the streets.

(What do some UNC history and political science professors think of the Nixon treatment? Of Ike's move? See page 3.)

Nixon planned to have dinner in San Juan with Gov. Luis Munoz Marin.

Munoz Marin has been hailed by U. S. senators as an outstanding spokesman for Latin America. The Vice President's desire to talk with him may relate to recommendations Nixon is expected to prepare on the basis of his tour.

The original schedule called for Nixon to leave Caracas at 12:50 a.m. Thursday. But he had cancelled programmed events after the mob violence and spent most of his time at the embassy residence—U. S. territory.

With the Puerto Rican stopover, his return to Washington will conform to the original schedule of 10 a.m. Thursday.

He and his party took off at 5:09 p.m.

Rumors that he was leaving ahead of time were widespread, but the exact hour had been kept secret. This was to frustrate rioters, though the city was calm and quiet today.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower will join personally in what is planned as a roaring welcome for Vice President Nixon and his wife when they return today from their ill-starred South American tour.

The White House announced Wednesday night Eisenhower will be at the airport to greet the Nixons, victims of abusive treatment by mobs in Venezuela and Peru.

A big homecoming demonstration was being urged on all sides as a symbol of national unity against discourtesy and hostility abroad.

At first the president was uncertain whether his work schedule would permit him to be on hand when the Nixons arrive at noon (EDT). But he said he would try to make it.

While it would be creating a precedent, because of my admiration for his (Nixon's) calmness and fortitude and his courage in very trying circumstances, I would like to make some special gesture," Eisenhower told his news conference.

The White House also announced later that the President had authorized all federal departments to let government workers off so they could go to the airport or help swell the crowds in the streets.

The Vice President and his wife were stoned, spat upon and jostled during yesterday's demonstration in Caracas, the Venezuelan capital.

At the end of his session today, the House unanimously adopted a resolution commending Nixon for his "courageous and dignified conduct" during the South American incidents.

Many members of Congress will travel to the airport in a body to join in the welcome. Eisenhower will be flanked by members of his cabinet and other senior government officials.

Feud Over UNC Control Unresolved

An effort to patch up differences between the UNC trustees and the State Board of Higher Education has failed—at least for the present.

This fact will be emphasized when the trustees report to the board of trustees at a meeting in Raleigh May 26.

The report is expected to reaffirm the trustees' position that the Board of Higher Education has wandered onto trustee authority and the trustees dislike it.

The executive committee voted 11-0 to adopt the report at a closed meeting held Monday in the Governor's office.

Gov. DISPLEASED
Officials have learned that Gov. Hodges was displeased with the report and wanted to delay its submission to the trustees until this fall.

The report was submitted by a subcommittee headed by Thomas Pearsall of Rocky Mount.

The net result of the report, originally planned as a report on efforts to compromise differences between the trustees and the board, will emphasize "no progress."

Another report to be made by the trustees may add even more fuel to the fire.

This one will come from a faculty committee appointed at the request of the trustees to examine administrative procedures as affected by the Board of Higher Education.

Unless future compromise efforts prove successful, the issue is certain to be tossed into the lap of the 1959 General Assembly. The Board of Higher Education may thus have to fight for its existence.

FEUD SOURCE
Friction developed when the trustees called for construction of housing units for married undergraduates at State College.

The Board of Higher Education cut the number of housing units. Trustee W. C. Harris Jr. of Raleigh charged that the Board had usurped authority of the trustees.

Board spokesmen answered that they were only complying with the housing act, which required the board's okay before the units could be built.

Thus far the major dispute is the trustee claim that the Board of Higher Education has supplanted boards of trustees.

Daily Tar Heel Staff To Hold Meeting Today
There will be a meeting of all members of The Daily Tar Heel staff in the news room today at 4 p.m.

Editor Curtis Gans has urged all present and prospective members of The Daily Tar Heel staff to attend the meeting.

DR. HAYDON
leaving for Europe

Dr. Haydon To Leave For Europe

Kenan professor and chairman of the UNC music department, Dr. Glen Haydon, has been granted a Kenan leave of absence to continue work on a research project in Europe.

Announcement of Dr. Haydon's leave was made by Chancellor William B. Aycock following approval of the Board of Trustees and Consolidated University President William C. Friday.

LEAVE MAY 27
Dr. and Mrs. Haydon will sail Tuesday, May 27, from New York for Bremerhaven, Germany. During their stay in Germany, Dr. Haydon will attend the meeting of the International Musicological Society in Cologne when he will discuss a phase of his research.

The Haydons also plan a visit with their son and his family who are in Germany this year while Dr. Glen B. Haydon, a physician, is doing research in pathology under a National Science Foundation grant.

Other stops on their trip include Holland, Belgium, England, France, Austria, Switzerland, Spain, Portugal and Italy. Dr. Haydon and his wife will return to Chapel Hill in January, 1959.

HYMN CYCLES
The trip to Europe will enable Dr. Haydon to gather material for his research on polyphonic hymns, a project which he began in 1951. The study deals with hymn cycles of the Catholic church year.

The project undertaken by Dr. Haydon involves preparing a historical account of each hymn cycle which contains between 30 and 45 individual songs, transcribing the music and writing a critical discussion on the works.

Dr. Haydon explained he is concentrating on hymn cycles known during the first half of the 16th century. He has already completed work on two of the four hymn cycles of that period.

Debating Societies' Halls Won't Become Classrooms; Godfrey Squelches Rumor

By PRINGLE PIPKIN
A latent rumor that the University intended to convert the halls of the Dialectic Senate and the Philanthropic Literary Society into classrooms was squelched yesterday.

Dean James L. Godfrey, chairman of the University Space Committee, said the societies would not be disturbed but the University could use the space if it had it.

A move to put these organizations into Person Hall after the Art Dept. leaves originated with a request from these societies to the Space Committee last year.

John Brooks, Phi president, said the move would provide an equal exchange of space. Person Hall would provide smaller debating halls better suited for the present societies.

PHI
In Person Hall the organizations would have a gallery to hang about 70 of their 90 portraits of renewed alumni and professors. Placing these organizations in this building was also expected to involve fewer alternations than necessary for a conventional classroom.

Recently there has been talk of putting the Di and the Phi in Gerard Hall. Under such a plan the societies would ask for full authority over the use of the building.

The hall would also have to be altered to make it a debating hall. "I don't think that the situation has been given any serious thought," Brooks commented.

Another current rumor is that the two debating societies would move to the new student union when it is completed.

Brooks said the Phi had discussed this proposal with the directors of Graham Memorial.

In the new student union the debating societies would only be allowed to use rooms but would not have jurisdiction over them. "The new facilities will be far less than what we now have," Brooks said.

At the present time the furnishings and the rooms of the debating societies are owned by them through a specific agreement with the University, according to Brooks.

U. S. Nuclear Testing Should Not Be Stopped

The Philanthropic Literary Society Tuesday night decided it was necessary for the United States to continue nuclear testing.

A bill calling for immediate cessation of all tests was defeated, seven to four.

In introducing the bill, Rep. Don Jacobs said that cessation of the present tests in the Pacific and all other tests would be "the first step toward outlawing the utter destruction of mankind." He saw the testing of bombs as "productive of dangerous radiations" that can do permanent harm to the genetic makeup of man.

Rep. Stan Black said "the fight between Russia and the U. S. can only bring a peace in which victor and vanquished are destroyed." He called for passage of the bill on the moral issue.

Rep. Bill Fackert claimed the tests should be stopped. The money saved should be spent on feeding and clothing the millions of India, China, and Africa, he said.

After introducing as an exhibit some radioactive glass, Rep. Henry Gould lambasted the bill on the grounds that Russia can never be trusted to discontinue tests. Rep. Carl Matheson said the "U. S. is the bulwark of Democracy and must not desert the Western nations." If we lose our technological abilities, the others "will be open to Soviet conquest," he said.

Rep. Bill Jackson said the U. S., in continuing to test small weapons, is "assuming that Russia will press many small wars in the future, and force must be met with force."

After stating that the U. S. must be as well equipped as Russia to maintain security, Rep. Bob Morely said "Atomic weapons are not bad in themselves; it is the people who use them."

Rep. Bill Linsberry catalogued the effects of radiation at Hiroshima and cited the world reaction to this as proof that the opinions of uncommitted nations will force Russia to keep their agreements if we cease testing.

In the voting Phi representatives defeated the bill seven to four. A vote of all those present was against passage seven to six. Rep. Bill Jackson was declared Speaker of the Evening.

Cuban Professor Here For Craige Lectures

A noted Cuban professor of constitutional law is here this week to conduct a series of seminars on revolutions and revolutionary movements with particular reference to Latin America.

Dr. Ramon Infesta, University of Havana professor has come here as Burton Craige Visiting Lecturer in Jurisprudence.

The guest of the Political Science Dept., he will also lecture on topics in comparative constitutional law and political systems to political science classes.

SECOND TIME

The present visit to Chapel Hill is the second as Burton Craige Lecturer for Dr. Infesta, who served in a similar capacity in April of 1957. He is one of the most distinguished jurists in Latin America, holding among other important posts in public life the presidency of the Permanent Committee on Constitutional Law of Bar Association of Havana and membership on the Executive Committee of the Cuban Society on Constitutional Law.

He serves regularly as a special visiting professor in the School of Political and Social Sciences of the University of Mexico.

Upon his return to Cuba after his visit to Chapel Hill in 1957, Dr. Infesta published a series of articles on the University in the Havana newspaper El Mundo. These called attention to the special cultural and scholarly facilities of the University, in particular the collections of Public Documents and their importance in the comparative study of political and constitutional systems.

He is an honorary member of the Advisory Board of the Bureau of Public Documents Collection and Research established at UNC under the directorship of Prof. W. S. Jenkins in 1956.

IDC Body Considers Changes In Structure

The Interdormitory Council Court Revision Committee met Tuesday to consider proposed changes in the IDC Court structure.

A plan for district courts was discussed. This plan entails the establishment of several district courts which would be composed of the dorm presidents and IDC representatives from the district. It would be presided over by a member of the IDC Court.

A house council plan was also discussed thoroughly. This plan would be on an individual dormitory basis. The individual courts would be composed of the executive committee of each dormitory.

Hilly Goldman, president of Cobb dormitory, and Curtis Gans, editor of The Daily Tar Heel, appeared before the committee and expressed their view.

Letters are being written to representative schools throughout the South to obtain information about their dormitory judicial structure.

Members of the Revision Committee are Otto Funderburk, Doug Bayliff, Walt Poole, Phil Edwards and H. E. Holland.

These meetings are open to the public and all interested persons have been urged to attend.

Concert Series Will Present Four Performances Next Year

The Chapel Hill Concert Series has slated four performances for its 1958-59 season.

All four performances are scheduled for Memorial Hall.

Leonard Warren, baritone, will appear in Chapel Hill on October 6. Warren made his Metropolitan debut in 1939 and since that time has dominated the baritone roster of that opera house. He is noted for his concert radio and television appearances, as well as his portrayals in opera.

Beryl Senofsky will appear here on January 7. Winner of the 1955 Grand Prize of the Queen Elizabeth of Belgium International Contest, Senofsky is the first American-born and trained violinist to gain this international recognition.

On February 11 the New Orleans Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra Alexander Hilsberg, conductor, will be in Chapel Hill.

In 1956, the orchestra was selected by the State Dept. to play a concert tour in 16 Latin American countries. Its reception there and its sparkling North American performances have made it a top-rated concert attraction.

Louis Kentner, pianist, will appear here on March 2. Kentner has won acclaim as a major artist in recital, at the world's music festivals and with leading orchestras throughout Europe, Asia and South America. He is celebrated for having one of the most extensive repertoires of any living instrumentalist.
