

UN Shelves Red China By Slimmest Margin

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — The United States succeeded yesterday in again getting the United Nations to sidetrack the question of Red China's membership. But the margin of victory was the lowest on record.

By a vote of 44 to 28 the 81-nation General Assembly approved a U. S. proposal to postpone the issue for another year. Nine nations abstained.

Last year the vote was 48 for, 27 against and 6 abstentions.

In approving the U. S. proposal the assembly rejected India's request that the assembly open full-scale debate on Red China's representation. It also decided against considering any proposals for excluding the Chinese Nationalists or to seat the representatives of Peiping.

By its vote the assembly endorsed the action of its powerful steering committee. It approved the U. S. proposal by a 12-7 vote last Friday.

This time the United States had the support of slightly over 54 per cent of the U.N. members on the postponement move.

It compared with 71.6 per cent in 1954, 70 per cent in 1955, and a little over 59 per cent in 1956 and 1957. The drop in 1956 and 1957 was due to the increase in the U.N. membership by 21 nations, including four Soviet bloc and six Asian nations.

Perhaps one of the most significant developments in the assembly debate this year was the fact the United States fought almost single-handedly for its proposal.

Sorority Rush Second Round Starts Tonight

Sorority rush goes into the second round of parties today after completion of the first round last night with three parties.

Invitations for the second round parties may be picked up in Roland Parker Lounges today from 12:30 to 3:15 p.m. Three parties will be attended from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. Thursday and Friday by girls going through the second round.

Saturday afternoon, from 1:30 to 5:15, the third round of parties will be held. Invitations for these will also be handed out in Roland Parker Lounges. They may be picked up on Saturday morning from 9:15 to 11:15.

Federal Court Again Rebuffs Virginia Plan

RICHMOND, Va. — Another federal court rebuff yesterday brought Virginia to the point on no return in its plans to seize and keep closed Norfolk's six white secondary schools.

Chief Judge Simon E. Sobeloff of the 4th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals removed any question of the state's next step when he turned down a request for a year's stay of a U. S. Court order directing admission of 17 Negroes to three high schools and three junior high schools.

The decision at Baltimore came as no surprise to Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. and Atty. Gen. A. S. Harrison Jr. They felt the result of the request had been telegraphed in advance by Sobeloff's refusal to stay similar cases involving Warren County and Charlottesville schools.

Almond told a news conference the state law that closes schools rather than permit racially mixed classrooms would probably be invoked in the Norfolk case today. He said he thought he should confer first with Norfolk School Officials as a matter of courtesy.

State shuttering of the Norfolk schools will affect an additional 10,000 pupils, more than treble the number already idled by closure of Warren County's only high school — at Front Royal, Va. — and the two schools at Charlottesville. And it will provide a far broader testing of sentiment on whether no public schools is preferable to public schools with a degree of integration.

Yack Pictures

Yackety Yack pictures for seniors, student nurses and law will be taken today through Friday.

Juniors, September 29 through October 3; sophomores, October 6 through October 10; freshmen, October 13 through October 17; medical and dental, October 20 through October 24; and nursing, pharmacy and dental hygiene, October 27 through October 31.

Nine Authors Secured For Project Of Radio, TV, Motion Pictures

Nine distinguished American authors have been secured for a series of national network broadcasts to originate in Chapel Hill entitled

"American Ideas in the 20th Century."

The broadcasts will start in October.

The programs will be broadcast over 75 network stations affiliated with NBC.

Elmer Oettinger, director of the NBC-financed project, said thirty-minute dramatic sketches will be written by such authors as Pearl Buck, Paul Green, Richard Adler, Frances Gray Patton, Bernice Kelly Harris, Harry Golden, Kermit Hunter, Betty Smith and Gerald Johnson.

Johnson is a Tar Heel native who was an editorial writer for the Baltimore Evening Sun and has lately been an autobiographer and writer of magazine articles. Johnson came to Chapel Hill this past week and has acted as narrator and moderator for his play "Principle of Limits."

The main point of Johnson's sketch is that "no matter how popular a President of the United States might be, there is a limit beyond which he cannot push his popularity."

Dr. Clark At Meeting In Princeton, N. J.

Dr. Henry T. Clark Jr., administrator of the UNC Division of Health Affairs, will attend a meeting of university medical administrators at Princeton, N. J. this weekend.

The UNC Division of Health Affairs is composed of the Schools of Dentistry, Medicine, Nursing, Pharmacy, Public Health and N. C. Memorial Hospital.

FOURTEEN TAR HEELS ATTEND

NSA Congress Praised By Delegates

By ED ROWLAND
(This is the first in two articles on the National Student Assn. Congress.)

The University of North Carolina, long a leader in the National Student Assn., sent a larger number of persons to the eleventh national congress this summer than ever before.

Held at Ohio Wesleyan University August 20-29, the Congress has been praised by the 14 persons attending from Carolina as one of the best ever held.

A six-person delegation headed by Student Body President Don Furtado and NSA Coordinator Ed Levy attended seminars, discussions and informal talks during the congress. They almost uniformly praised the meeting for its atmosphere of liberality and exchange of ideas.

One of the striking features discovered by the delegates was the problems faced on the UNC campus are not unique. Yet as Don Furtado said, "More words will not be enough to solve the problems we face."

UNC'S DELEGATES

UNC's delegates, in addition to Furtado and Levy, were Curtis Gans, Daily Tar Heel editor; Paddy Sue Wall, secretary of student government; Frank Elkins, member of the president's cabinet; John Brooks, president of the Phi.

Alternate delegates were Gary Greer, student legislator and Di President; Roger Foushee, legislator; Lillian Shannonhouse, chairman of the Women's Residence Council; Diana Johnson, president of Panhellenic Council; Ralph Cummings, vice-president of the student body; and Charlie Gray, treasurer of student government.

Observers were Glenna Meginnis and Joel Fleishman. Miss Meginnis had the status of alternate alternate.

Each delegate and alternate selected one of the commissions to attend during the entire Congress. They were international affairs, student government, educational affairs, and student affairs. Each commission was divided into sub-commissions for more informal talks and exchange of ideas.

Paddy Sue Wall, who was elected secretary of the campus honor and self-discipline sub-commission, said that other schools were very interested in the campus code and honor system as it is in effect here. "Our new jury system was of Furtado said he realized after particular interest," she added. Miss Wall said that while she realizes the university should become more active in the regional and sectional NSA, "what we learned is to be shared with students on campus. This will make our student organizations more effective by the interest in the congress created for the benefit of the whole student body."

Furtado, after attending the international affairs commission meetings, said, "My greatest gain was that it made me more cognizant of the tremendous problems facing the nation now — both national and international. The greatest service done was to put me in the proper frame of mind for this year's work."

PRE MEETING CONFERENCE

Furtado joined 250 other presidents of student bodies for a three day conference preceding the main meeting. He said that in instances of common problems like establishing an atmosphere of study UNC is not alone. "In one case it is large classes, limited facilities and lack of tradition that hamper the creation of such an atmosphere. At other schools these things plus some others have produced the same result."

IFC Refuses Opportunity To Write Rush Statements

The Interfraternity Council has said no to separate letters on the question, "Why should a rush pledge my fraternity?"

The decision was made at the IFC meeting Monday night.

IFC President Tucker Yates said The Daily Tar Heel asked that each fraternity president submit a 100-word statement in answer to the question.

According to Yates, this was discussed at length by all representatives, and the general opinion was that 24 separate statements of similar length would be merely repetitive and lacking in genuine value.

"We felt that an article submitted by the IFC concerning fraternities and rush in general would be much more informative and beneficial to all rushees," Yates said.

"Certainly each fraternity president isn't so naive as to believe that his fraternity is the best for every rushee. The rushee is merely asked to carefully scrutinize each fraternity house and make his own decision as to which fraternity is best for him," he added.

Yates said he speaks for the entire IFC when he says that it wholeheartedly appreciates the interest and cooperation which The Daily Tar Heel has shown in helping it carry out rush week in the best possible manner.

Daily Tar Heel Editor Curtis Gans said yesterday he had planned to devote a full page to the statements on the first day of rush.

"I think (the IFC) has lost itself an opportunity for more complete and accurate coverage," Gans said.

He commented that he believes all the fraternities should be able to write individual statements. "The differences between (the fraternities) should be more than which Greek letters they use," he added.

Gans said he planned on using the statements in line with his program to give thorough coverage to rush and the present fraternity situation on campus.

In other business at the IFC meeting Bob Bender, chairman of rush within the IFC, gave a run down of rules together with days designated for having invitations and bids in.

Bender also stressed the importance of complying with the rush rules.

Walter Fitts, vice president of the IFC, said that this year's social calendar will be submitted to assistant dean of student affairs, Sam Magill, for approval. Fitts also said that a social committee under the leadership of the vice president is to be set up.

The members of the committee will be the social chairmen from the different fraternities.

President Tucker Yates also reminded each fraternity to make arrangements with Sam Magill concerning faculty advisers. Yates also stated that a permanent address should be made for intra-campus mail.

Student Party Meeting Set For Tonight In GM

The Student Party will hold its first meeting of the year tonight at 7 o'clock in the Rendezvous Room of Graham Memorial.

The primary purpose of the meeting, according to Student Party Chairman Leon Holt, will be "to get acquainted with new students that are interested in student government."

Plans call for a brief meeting, during which Holt will give a historical sketch of the party. John Brooks, secretary to Student Body President, Don Furtado, will outline the Party organization and purposes.

A social hour will follow the meeting.

Chairman Holt said, "We feel there are a lot of students here who have taken part in student government in high school who could contribute a lot to student government here at Carolina. We feel this is a good opportunity for them to start since the Student Party draws from all segments of the campus."

Holt added, "Membership in the Student Party presents an opportunity to establish numerous contacts on campus. We would especially like to see students take a more active part in student government and fill the positions they are capable of filling."

Last spring's election marked the third consecutive year that Student Party nominees won a majority of positions at the head of student government, Holt said. Party members currently serving are Don Furtado, student body president; Ralph Cummings, vice president; and Paddy Wall, student body secretary.

Student Parking Rules Clarified By Jefferies

One new parking regulation has been put into effect this fall, according to Ray Jefferies, assistant to the dean of student affairs.

Sophomores who are in the General College and have a C average may keep cars, but their cars must be parked in the Bell Tower Parking lot between the hours of 7 a.m. and 3 p.m.

During this time the cars may not be parked on the campus or on any of the streets adjacent to the campus.

Specifically, cars with Bell Tower Parking stickers can not park on or within an area bounded by the following streets: Rosemary Street to Boundary Street, Boundary Street to Country Club Road, Country Club Road to Ridge Road, Ridge Road to Manning Drive, Manning Drive to Pittsboro Street, Pittsboro Street to Cameron Avenue, Cameron Avenue to Mallette Street, Mallette Street to W. Franklin Street, W. Franklin Street to Church Street and Church Street to Rosemary Street.

The only exception to this rule is that sophomores may park in the private lots of the fraternities within this area.

Those who are attending the University for their third year, but are still in General College and do not have a C average, may not have a car. The only exception to this rule is for the student to have begun his academic career before fall, 1956.

University police will patrol the University Campus proper. Areas outside of the main campus will be patrolled regularly by special University police.

Violators will be held accountable to the Student Traffic Court. "In my opinion one who registers a car illegally for someone else is violating the Honor Code," Jefferies said yesterday. So far about 2,500 cars have been registered.

Before school began letters were sent to those students who were ineligible to register a car. Other students and parents were also sent a copy of the automobile regulations.

Met Baritone Warren Starts Concert Series

Leonard Warren, noted baritone of the Metropolitan Opera, will lead off the 1958-59 Chapel Hill Concert Series with a program in Memorial Hall Oct. 6.

Students will be admitted free to the concert upon presentation of ID cards. Student wives will be admitted for $1.

Warren has been a member of the Metropolitan since 1939. Acclaimed on several continents as a leading baritone, he was chosen to appear in the Soviet Union last spring in a new cultural exchange program.

While in Moscow, Warren gave two recitals besides one performance of "Rigoletto" at the Soviet capital's famed Bolshoe Theatre.

Besides visiting Moscow, Warren gave several performances and recitals in other Soviet cities.

In other programs scheduled this season, the Concert Series will present, on Jan. 7, Berl Senofsky, violinist and winner of the 1955 Grand Prize of the Queen Elisabeth of Belgium International Contest. He is the first American-born and American trained violinist to gain this international recognition.

The New Orleans Philharmonic-Symphony Orchestra with Alexander Hilsberg conducting will appear Feb. 11.

The 85-member orchestra and its conductor was selected by the United States Department of State in 1956 to visit 16 Latin American countries on a concert tour. Its reception there and in North American countries more recently have made it a popular concert attraction.

Louis Kentner, pianist, will be presented in the final concert on March 2.

Batten Named Narrator At Morehead Planetarium

James W. Batten of Goldsboro has joined the narrating staff of the Morehead Planetarium, Manager A. F. Jenzano has announced.

Batten is a UNC graduate, a World War II Navy veteran and a member of the National Science Teachers Assn. He is listed in "Who's Who in American Education."

Prior to coming to Chapel Hill, Batten headed the New Hanover High School in Wilmington and taught at Wilmington College. He also taught at Kenly, Princeton, Micro and Smithfield.

Batten will be a narrator for the special Planetarium demonstrations for school children.

"We are fortunate to obtain a man of Mr. Batten's scientific background to narrate school programs which are designed to interest children in the study of science," Manager Jenzano said.
