

Basketball Tournament Schedule Announced

The Carolina basketball team this winter will participate in three tournaments and appear in three games at the Charlotte Coliseum, it was disclosed by the schedule announced by Director of Athletics C. P. (Chuck) Erickson.

In addition to their regular dates in the Dixie Classic and Atlantic Coast Conference tournament, the Tar Heels will play in the Blue Grass Festival at Louisville, Ky., Dec. 19-20. Last season they competed in the Kentucky Invitational.

The other long trip they will make will be to Chicago to meet Loyola on Feb. 14.

Notre Dame, met in Chicago last season, will be played in the Charlotte Coliseum on Jan. 3. The Tar Heels will have a two-day stay in Charlotte Jan. 30-31, when they meet Clemson and South Carolina there.

Tatum Comments After Game

"Disappointed, but not ashamed." Those were the words of Sunny Jim Tatum after his Carolina football team had been beaten by the Clemson Tigers last Saturday in Clemson.

In the lockerroom after the game, amidst a hushed atmosphere of players quietly getting undressed and preparing to leave for home, Tatum was surrounded by a group of sportswriters.

"Well, what can you say," he started. "We played a great game out there today, but the best team won. They came from behind and kept their heads, and that took poise."

"I can't say if it was the best game we have ever played, but it was certainly one of the best. I'll tell you one thing — I hope we don't play anybody better than Clemson."

When asked if he was surprised at the performance of the Clemson second unit, Tatum replied, "No, we weren't surprised by their second unit. After all, they beat Virginia last week."

Tatum stated that the Tar Heels were hurting specifically at fullback. Bob Shupin was out some 19 minutes when lime was kicked into his eye. He said that the Clemson spread formation with split ends hurt Carolina in the second half.

"They have two of the greatest fullbacks I have ever seen." But I think our boys did a great job of containing both of their quarterbacks, who are fine runners.

Someone asked Big Jim if he thought the Tar Heels were at all fooled by the Clemson split end formation, or any other. "We were at no time fooled by this or any other formation. We just had to play it that way," he remarked. By playing it "that way" he explained that the linebackers had to pull in to stop the running of the Clemson fullbacks, which set up the Tiger passing game.

"I'll tell you something else," Tatum said. "Clemson might not have looked good last week, and they may not look great next week, but this afternoon they were a great football team."

Later on, Tatum climbed the stairs of the field house, in search of Frank Howard whom he wished to congratulate. In Howard's office he stated, "I don't think it's a good Clemson team, I think it's a great Clemson team."

Coach Howard told Tatum that, "You got a great football team, Jim."

Tatum told Howard he thought he had made excellent use of the material he had available. He also remarked that the coaches were surprised at the Clemson tackles, both on offense and defense.

Howard replied, "Last week week when Pat Preston scouted us, he told the press that we had a great backfield, but he had seen better lines coached by me. I put that up on the bulletin board. What that statement did was make a bunch of sluggish linemen un-sluggish."

When asked if he was happy about beating Jim Tatum for the first time, Howard cracked, "Of course I'm happy to beat old Jim for the first time. But you can bet on this — I don't think Jim Tatum will lose no more."

The Carolina Tar Heels have lost their second football game in two weeks. The first week they fumbled the game away, looking anything like a football team only in spots. The next week they were sharp, co-ordinated, unit.

The next week they played a truly great game, and lost. Against Clemson the Tar Heels fought on even terms throughout the afternoon. The statistics at the end of the contest bear this out. Is Clemson a better football team than Carolina? Saturday they were.

COULD HAVE GONE EITHER WAY

The Tar Heels could have won the game as easily as they lost it. Ask any one of the over 40,000 fans who jammed their way into the new Clemson Memorial Stadium.

Who got the breaks? As it turned out, nobody. Carolina recovered one Clemson fumble and intercepted one Tiger pass. The Tar Heels did not fumble once, nor did they have one single pass picked off. Clemson's first two touchdowns came on rather odd situations, some would call it getting the breaks.

FIRST TD ON BLOCKED KICK

The first touchdown came as a result of a blocked quick kick. As Don Coker started to kick the ball, Clemson's left guard, Jim Paine, crashed through the line and deflected the ball. Teammate Jim Padgett grabbed it on the fly and ran the remaining thirty yards for the score.

The second Tiger touchdown, which enabled them to go into the dressing room at halftime tied up 14-14, was scored just at the end of the half. The Tigers had run steadily toward the Tar Heel goal. On the preceding play, the fullback had tried the center of the Carolina line from 1 yard out and was thrown back. As the seconds ticked off on the clock, the Tigers hurriedly broke from the huddle and called the play.

LESS THAN A SECOND

Doug Cline went over from less than a yard out. Some said the clock had run out. It appeared that this was true from the press box, and Jim Tatum was one of those who thought so. This much is for sure — there was less than one second left when the ball was snapped.

The other two touchdowns the Tigers scored were on sustained drives. The last, and winning, score came with just 2:56 left in the ball game. The Tar Heels never caught up.

We are not crying over the first two Clemson touchdowns. We are stating that the Tar Heels played a great game, and deserved to win as much as did the Tigers.

There was no one player who stood out above all others on the Carolina side of the ledger. They all played well. For this reason there is no Athlete of the Week in this issue of The Daily Tar Heel. To single out one man in such a game would be to slight many others.

EVERYONE WAS GOOD

Sophomore John Schroeder, who caught the first touchdown pass, played well. So did sophomore Sonny Folkemer, who threw it. Both Jack Cummings and Nelson Lowe called an excellent game. Backfielders Bob Shupin, Don Coker, Moe DeCantis, Wade Smith, and Jim Schuler all performed with equal talent.

Ronnie Koes, Phil Blazer, Al Goldstein, Mac Turlington, and Fred Swearingen played a great game in the line, and this is only to mention a few names at random.

One thing is certain — if the Tar Heels play the rest of their games as well as they did against Clemson, the opposition can watch out. Southern Cal furnishes the opposition this week, and the Tar Heels have lost two straight. Somebody's going to get burned.
