WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said Wednesday it is the duty of all Americans to comply with the Supreme Court's integration rulings.

Di Backs Bill On Recognition Of Exile Algeria

By ELLEN STEIN

The Dialectic Senate Tuesday night unanimously approved a bill advocating that the United States recognize the exile government in Algeria.

The bill presented a short history of the question to date. It stressed the imposition of French domination in Algeria which has resulted in violence and a denial of "inalienable rights" to the Algerian people; these acting as an incentive for revolutionary attempts and finally the establishment of an exile government by several Algerian leaders.

The initial argument for the affirmative was that "it is the responsibility of the United States to recognize this government in order that our advocacy of the principle of 'Government of the People' be adhered to."

Curtis Gans acknowledged that the exile government which was established in Cairo will be "allied with Nasser who wants economic self-sufficiency and will continue to play Russia against the United States."

But Gans also pointed out that France is certainly not powerful enough to make a difference.

Further elaboration was given to the subject of the injustice of Colonialism, which denies self-determination and national rights.

The argument for the negative side was developed upon the theory that Algeria does not want to be free. David Matthews supported his view by referring to the recent Algerian vote overwhelming in favor of the De Gaulle constitution.

However, Gary Greer, speaker for the affirmative, reported that the vote had no relation to Algerian freedom. Furthermore, he stated that the people of Algeria expressed their desire for freedom "by giving their lives to combat fascism, totalitarianism, and force."

Student Brass May Still Enroll In NRO School

New student officers are still being enrolled in the 1958-59 term of the Chapel Hill Naval Reserve Officers School, according to School Director, CDR James E. Wadsworth.

The local NROS offers the opportunity for officers in Naval Reserve to increase their service proficiency while earning credit toward promotion and retirement.

"We are anxious to contact all new Naval Reserve officers who have recently moved to Chapel Hill and inform them of the local reserve program and the advantages it offers," Wadsworth said.

The Naval Reserve Officers School meets every Monday night throughout the school year from 7:30 until 10 o'clock at the local Naval ROTC Army. A variety of courses are offered for officers of all ranks and designations.

Interested Naval Reserve Officers should contact CDR Wadsworth at 9-2566 during the day and at 2621 after 6 o'clock in the evening.

"Any other course, as I have said before," Eisenhower said in a news conference statement, "would be fraught with grave consequences to our nation."

The President didn't spell out the extent to which his administration might go in backing up the Supreme Court's decrees with more than words.

Nor in discussing the most pressing foreign policy issue of the day did he spell out what practical steps might be expected to follow any cease-fire in the Formosa Strait area.

"We shall have, if we have a cease-fire," Eisenhower said, "an opportunity to negotiate in good faith and that, I think, is about all you can say."

As a soldier, Eisenhower said, he believes it wasn't a good thing for the Chinese Nationalists to concentrate such large forces in the offshore islands of Quemoy and Matsu. But he also said he was not so sure demilitarization of the islands would solve the Far Eastern problem.

"As you well know," the President said, "the basic issue, as we see it, is to avoid retreat in the face of force."

Looking ruddy and robust after a vacation at Newport, R. I., Eisenhower walked through a drizzle from the White House to the news conference room in a building across the street.

At the start, he volunteered three brief announcements: He is going to Walter Reed Army hospital this weekend—not because of any new illness but for his annual check-up.

This was a national day of prayer and he hoped newsmen would remind the people of it. (The President and Mrs. Eisenhower attended services later at National Presbyterian Church.)

man of the University Traffic and Safety Committee, the group presented a number of ideas which will go into a reorganization proposal.

Under the reorganization suggested the traffic violations would be handled by a campus security office and violation fees would be collected by the University instead of the Chapel Hill police.

Failure to register a car would net a suggested fee of $10 and failure to display registration sticker would involve a fee of $5.

Ray Jefferies, assistant dean of student affairs, pointed out that mere registration is not sufficient. A registered car must display the registration sticker, he said.

Under the reorganization, false registration would remain a violation of the Honor Code. Appeals would be permitted for other violations.

Use of Emerson Field for commuters through the day time hours was suggested as a temporary relief. Underground parking facilities and parking buildings were mentioned as possibilities in future construction.

The committee will meet again Monday at 2 p.m. to draw up a proposal which will be presented to Dean of Student Affairs Fred Weaver.
