'O. G. H.' Sign Is Not Mass Movement Comments Rennick

By A. PRINGLE PIPKIN

Attacks against the administration of the Wilson Library "is not a mass movement of grad students," Bob Rennick, president of

LARRY TAYLOR
library committee head

the graduate club commented yesterday. The criticism comes from "half a dozen disgruntled persons who frequent the library and feel that certain of the problems there can be solved by tacking up offensive and apparently unidentified symbols on trees and bulletin boards around campus," he explained.

Rennick described most of the grad students as being "pretty satisfied with the running of the library."

The recommendations of the "O.G.H." Committee (erroneously attributed to the Student Library Committee) were discussed by Dr. Jerrold Orne, University Librarian, yesterday.

His statement read: "I have received an anonymous communication from an apparently self-appointed committee of which copy to The Daily Tar Heel is noted.

"In order to assure correctness of facts, and for on other reason, does this communication merit publication."

In answer to the charge there is no graduate student representation on the Student Library Committee, he commented, "the student library committee is appointed by the President of the Student Body, without reference to the Librarian. At the first meeting of the Student Library Committee, he pointed out the lack of graduate student representation."

Concerning the maintenance of Public Documents Collection and the Union Serial file for periodicals, he said, "no student or faculty member has complained directly to me or my staff concerning service of documents" (or periodicals).

In regard to the condition and furnishing of the Grad Study, Dr.

Orne stated, "The sofas were totally unfit for further use. New sofas and lounge chairs are planned and will be obtained as funds permit.

"The painting of the walls was ordered of the Buildings and Grounds Dept. at the time of beginning repair, at least two months ago. The repair department is busy. The monastic atmosphere pleases some, others prefer soft lounges."

Speaking of the separation of reference facilities, he explained, "we realize that a new arrangement may be confusing to some. We believe that given a fair trial, it will be better in the long run. One month of experience is hardly a fair trial."

As far as consideration of the grad students and the faculty was concerned, he pointed out a student could take his problem to the Student Library Committee, "which may call for a full meeting with the Librarian at any time."

"He may also go directly to the Librarian, where the door is open to any who choose to come," he concluded.

Student Body President Don Furtado asserted, "I think that the people (the 'O.G.H.' Committee) will accomplish much more towards their goals if they would try to work with those agencies which are designed to handle that special area."

Furtado termed the markings on the walls as showing "a lack of respect for the property of others. I question the maturity of anyone who would vent his emotions in such a childish manner."

Entertainment Season Opens Next Friday

The Carolina Playmakers will open their forty-first season with a production of the musical play "Oklahoma!" in Memorial Hall October 24-26 at 8:30 p.m.

"Oklahoma!" is a musicalized version of Lynn Riggs' folk comedy, "Green Grow the Lilacs," which was produced by the Theatre Guild in 1930. The musical version has a libretto by Oscar Hammerstein, II, and score by Richard Rodgers. The original production of "Oklahoma!" in 1943 marked the first time that these two collaborated on a play.

With an orchestra under the direction of Gene Strasser, of the music department, the Playmakers production is being directed and designed by Tommy Rezzuto. Choreography is by Foster Fitz-Simons of the dramatic art department who was once a member of the famous Ted Shawn dance group.

In the leading roles of Curley and Laurey are Hunter Tillman and Carolyn Myers. This is Tillman's first performance with the Playmakers. Miss Myers was seen last year as Maggie in "What Every Woman Knows." Lillian Prince, who has appeared with the Theatre Guild in their touring production of "Dark of the Moon," plays the role of Aunt Eller.

Margaret Starnes is Ado Annie and Darwin Soloman is Will Parker. Dan Linney will be seen as Jud Fry; John Sneden, as Ali Hakim; and Jim Potter, as Andrew Carnes. Others in the cast are Donna

Pete Flahive, Joel Fleishman, Harvey Miller, Carl Hinrichs, Gene La Nier, Larry Levine, Russell Link, Evelyn McKnight, Alfred Miller, Bill Monell, Mary Orne, Jane Payne, Tabby Shuler, Betty Rhodes, Fred Sitton, Roy Weaver, Marilyn Zschau and Catherine Orne.

Tickets for "Oklahoma!" are available in the business office of The Carolina Playmakers, 214 Abernethy Hall, and Ledbetter-Pickard, downtown. All seats are reserved for $2.00.

Grad Student To Be On Library Committee Soon

By STAN FISHER

The Student Legislature last night by the passage of special orders enacted a bill entitling graduate students to representation on the Library Committee. The representative will be appointed by the president of the Student Body.

Such representation as provided in the bill is one of the primary aims of a controversy in which signs have appeared purportedly meaning for Head Librarian Jerrold Orne to "go home."

Another bill passed by special orders was a resolution declaring Oct. 21-26 as United Nations week.

The legislature passed unanimously a bill establishing a student Dining Hall committee. The committee when appointed, will have full investigative power and authority to make positive recommendations to the administration of Lenoir Hall and the Student Aid office.

Also passed by the legislature were: a bill to appropriate $325 for the purchase of four typewriters for the Yackety Yack, and an act creating a student government playbill publication.

A bill to establish a policy for student government publication of the Yackety Yack, the appropriation of the necessary funds for such a policy and another bill revising the election laws were held in committee.

A proposal to establish the office of filing clerk for the legislature was referred back to committee for amendment and the revision of legislative bylaws to insure the permanence of the position.

Bills introduced last night were:
(1) A proposal to include the Ram and Ewe and the Carolina Handbook in the Yackety Yack;
(2) A bill appropriating funds for a TV for Whitehead dormitory;
(3) A bill to establish a committee to study the fraternity parking problem;
(4) A proposal changing the method of selecting jurors for trying Honor Council violations;
(5) A bill to delete an amendment

made last year by Charlie Gray to the NSA basic policy declaration on academic freedom;

(6) A bill to establish a study area committee; and
(7) A proposal establishing a committee to investigate the need of bicycle racks.

Homecoming Celebration Starts Today

Carolina's homecoming queen for 1958 and her court will be selected this afternoon from a field of 24 coed entries.

The judging will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the home of Consolidated University President William Friday. Judges are: Mrs. Friday, Mrs. Kay Kyser, Miss Margaret Carmichael, Ty Boyd and Don Furtado.

The judging this afternoon is the first in a series of events for this homecoming weekend.

The dance tonight, co-sponsored by Graham Memorial Activities Board and the University Club, is free to all students from 8 to 12 midnight. Music will be provided by the Embers. The dress will be semi-formal.

Other homecoming activities include displays of dorms and fraternities and sororities. These displays will be judged Saturday morning beginning at 9 o'clock. Representatives of the Interfraternity Council, Interdormitory Council and Carolina Women's Council will select prize-winning displays.

University Club President Dave Jones yesterday released the following list of entries in the homecoming queen contest and their sponsors:

G. M. SLATE

The following activities are scheduled for Graham Memorial today:

Dental Society, 7:30-9:30, Main Lounge; Steering Committee of the Fourth Southern Regional Institute on Hospital Recreation, 1:30-11:00, Grail Room; Political science discussion groups, 9:00-10:00, 11:00-12:00, Woodhouse Conference Room; Drama Committee, 3:00-5:00, Woodhouse Conference Room.

Hearing Set On Selection Of Trustees

A public hearing has been scheduled for Tuesday to discuss changes in the manner of selecting trustees of the Consolidated University of North Carolina.

Robert W. Proctor, chairman of the commission studying the manner of selecting trustees, announced the hearing after a commission meeting Tuesday.

He said the group had considered recommending that the number of trustees be reduced and that appointment be made by both the governor and the General Assembly.

Proctor invited interested persons to send written suggestions to him or to attend the meeting at 2:30 p.m. in the Highway Building auditorium.

There are now 100 elected members plus several ex-officio members such as the Governor and ex-governors on the board. The elected members are chosen for eight year terms by the General Assembly.

Driving On Campus? Check That License

Need your drivers license renewed?

According to state patrolman Henry H. Dunlap, license examiner in Chapel Hill, out-of-state students can have their licenses renewed by writing the department of motor vehicles in their home state.

Most states renew licenses by mail, he said. Students are not required to have a North Carolina license if they are licensed in another state.

Examinations for renewal of North Carolina licenses can be taken on the second floor of the Chapel Hill Town Hall on N. Columbia St. Exams are given by examiner Dunlap Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. The written exam is all that is required for renewal.

Opponents Petitioning Self-Liquidating Plan

Opponents of the self liquidating dormitory plan are circulating a petition in all dormitories as one step in a concentrated effort to abolish this policy.

Under the self liquidating plan, costs are financed through extra room rent. This financing plan is used because the North Carolina Legislature has not appropriated funds for dorm construction.

Rudy Edwards, Interdormitory Council president, said yesterday he feels the extra cost of building construction should not be paid by students.

The petition opposing the self liquidating policy asks Chancellor William Aycock to do what he can to abolish the plan when he goes before the North Carolina General Assembly in February.

Lillian Shannonhouse, Women's Residence Council president, is working with Edwards in distributing petitions.

The IDC is also asking North Carolina newspapers to publicize the self liquidating policy and its effects on student room rent.

Sororities Making Plans For Picnic

The Panhellenic Council this week set Oct. 29 as the date for the annual picnic for sorority pledge classes.

The picnic is to be given by the Stray Greeks. Each pledge class will give a skit.

A Panhellenic reception for Kappa Kappa Gamma Sorority will be held on Nov. 6 from 4 to 5:30. Invitations will be sent out shortly.

A report on the Panhellenic tea was given by Mary Ann Keith.

Jury Duty Interviews Set This Afternoon

Interviews with students interested in serving on the men's and women's juries will be held this afternoon from 2 to 4 o'clock in the Council Room in Graham Memorial.

Applications are available in the student government office.

Conducting the interview sessions are members of the Jury Commission, headed by Ken Hall.

Interviews will be held next week also.

Debate Squad To Meet Virginia In Atomic Weapons Discussion

The UNC Debate Squad will send eight delegates to the University of Virginia discussion tournament today.

The topic of discussion will be: Resolved: that further development of nuclear weapons should be prohibited by international agreement.

The delegates from the Debate Squad are: Charles Carroll, Tally Eddings, Russell Eisenman, Jeffrey Lawrence, Taylor McMillan, Clay Simpson, Rust Sharp and John Snyder.

Some of the possible issues to be used in the discussion are: Does the acceptance of this topic assure a balance of power? Is it to the advantage of the USSR as they are supposedly superior with conventional weapons? What physical effects do nuclear tests have on human beings and other forms of life? At a meeting of the Debate Squad earlier this week, Gen. F. C. Shepard spoke to the members regarding the topic of discussion at the University of Virginia.

He pointed out that it would be almost impossible to develop nuclear weapons if an international inspection team were established and that the possibility of a limited war must be explored before an acceptance of the agreement would be practical.

Bennett Cerf Talks At State This Evening

"Changing Styles in American Humor" will be the topic of a talk by Bennett Cerf, New York publisher, humorist, and TV panelist, in the North Carolina State College Union Building tonight at 8 p.m.

Cerf's appearance at State College is sponsored by the College Union's library committee.

Cerf is the author and editor of humorous books and a magazine and newspaper columnist.

His lecture is open to all members of the State College Union free of charge. There will be an admission charge for all others.

This afternoon at 4 there will be a book autographing session in the Watauga Book Shop.

Eight Social Rooms Will Open Saturday

Social rooms in eight men's dorms will be open Saturday before and after the football game.

IDC President Rudy Edwards announced yesterday that the following men's dorms will open their social rooms to visiting coeds from 12 noon to 1:45 p.m. and after the game until 6 p.m.:

Cobb, Conner, Joyner, Winston, Mangum, Avery, Parker and Teague.

Dept. Of Air Science Adds Two Instructors

Two new officers have been added to the staff of the Department of Air Science. Both Major William D. Locke and Captain William E. Moore began their teaching in air science with the beginning of the fall semester.

Major Locke, from Enfield, N.C., came to Carolina from a station with the Air Force in Europe. With 16 years of service in the Air Force, Locke has earned his Command Pilot wings with more than 3200 hours of flying time. He has had experience in both World War II and the Korean conflict.

In Europe he flew 83 combat missions in the famous P-47. In Japan and Korea he flew 41 combat missions in P-51's and F-80's. While flying combat mission in Korea in 1950 he was shot down and was a POW for 65 days.

In October 1950, some 65 days after his capture, Locke was able to escape and return to freedom. Among his many decorations and awards are the Distinguished Flying Cross, the Air Medal, Korean Service Medal with 3 battle stars and the United States Air Force Service Ribbon.

Captain Moore, a native of West Point, Ga., and a 1951 graduate of the UNC School of Journalism, returned this year to teach in the program through which he received his commission.

He is experienced as a Tactical fighter pilot and has been stationed at several places in the United States as an officer in different capacities. With a strategic fighter squadron in Texas, he served as flying safety officer; with the 79th Fighter Bomber Squadron, he was assistant operations officer, and as the special weapons officer and assistant plans officer he served with the 20th Fighter Bomber Wing Headquarters.

Major Locke is the Air Science III instructor and Captain Moore is the Air Science I instructor.

Policy Group Created By UP To Write Bills

The University Party has created a legislative policy committee to discuss and draw up bills which after passage by the party will be presented to the Student Legislature.

"This measure will involve the University Party more directly with the legislative body and give both parties issues rather than personality on which to campaign," Party Chairman Jack Lawing asserted.

The UP legislators will not be bound by the proposals passed by the party, but the party will have a definite program, Lawing explained.

He declared in the past there has been little differentiation between the parties, and the parties have seldom taken definite stands on issues.

Members of the committee include the party chairman, vice chairman, treasurer, secretary, floorleader, Al Goldsmith, Dave Davis and Martha Wilkinson.
