Administration Sends UNC's Group To SSL If Asked; Says Aycok

Gov. Hodges Puts Conditions On Capital Use Action 'Nearsightedness,' Says President Furtado

When the UNC delegation attends the State Student Legislature in December, the group will probably be "sponsored" by the University administration.

According to Gov. Luther Hodges and his Council of State, the State Student Legislature may hold its annual session in the State Capitol only if a majority of university and college administrations say they are "sponsoring" the meeting.

This statement from the governor and his council was released in state newspapers Tuesday morning. And this was the first time students here or University officials had been notified of the governor's policy.

Chancellor William B. Aycok said yesterday: "I assume what the council and governor were saying is that they would permit the Capitol to be used if there are a prescribed number of sponsoring organizations."

'HAPPY TO SPONSOR'
"If that is what the resolution means, I would be happy to sponsor a student group from the University at Chapel Hill if the group requests me to do it."

Student Body President Don Furtado called the governor and council's action as "nearsightedness" and "an abandonment of those principles of freedom of speech for which the Legislature was originally designed."

Furtado commented, "I am afraid that at many of the schools 'sponsorship' would carry with it administrative surveillance and would require students to clear their proposals through non-student groups."

He excluded UNC's group from probable administration supervision because, he said, students at Carolina have traditionally been given the right to state their beliefs without fear of administrative repercussions.

APPECIATION
Furtado expressed his appreciation to Chancellor Aycok for the UNC delegation to State Student Legislature.

The policy from the governor and his council apparently was an aftermath of last year's State Student Legislature which raised a ruckus with a racial resolution. The resolution said interracial marriage shouldn't be regulated by law.

Student leaders last year commenting on this resolution said they were not sanctioning mixed marriages, but marriage was a matter of individual choice.

CAUGHT BY SURPRISE
Two members of the UNC Selections Committee (which names the Carolina delegation to SSL) said the governor's statement caught them by surprise.

John Brooks said yesterday he had been expecting official word from the governor concerning the use of the Capitol building for the SSL session Dec. 11, 12, 13.

Both he and Paddy Wall first heard of the restriction through the press releases Tuesday.

SAYS SECRETARY PADDY WALL

Mexico Not Pretty But 'Alive And Warm'

By BEN TAYLOR

Mexico — mud huts, ragged children begging for peanuts, crowded shacks — not exactly your pictured vision of the "land of beauty," is it?

Yet, that's the way a Carolina coed found Mexico this summer when she spent three months there as a Baptist missionary.

Senior Paddy Wall saw Mexico in this stark perspective when she spent three months there as summer missionary to Mexico under auspices of the N. C. Baptist Student Union.

'ALIVE AND WARM'

In her own words, "It wasn't a pretty picture, but it was alive and warm with the friendliness of simple people — and shocking enough to make me ashamed of my American citizenship."

Paddy is secretary of the student body. To list her achievements and different offices held since her transfer from Mars Hill College last year would be a big job, so that will not be attempted here.

AWAKENING NEEDED

Rather, as Paddy herself repeats, the story of Mexico is not one of her or any individual, but is the story of how "America must come to an era of spiritual awakening and social reconstruction if we hope to match even the simple faith of the illiterate farmer in the backwoods of Zacualpan, Morelos."

A factual and vivid account of her summer appeared in the Biblical Recorder in the form of letters to Mrs. Robert Pritchard who, from them, constructed the "Love Thy Neighbor" story in the Sept. 20 issue.

THOROUGH COMMENTARY

The letters are thorough and alive with description and commentary on the benevolent work being done there in the fields of medicine and fellowship.

Her summer took her through the rough border country across the Rio Grande to Mexico City. There she joined a group from the American Friends Service Committee and went with them to Tepoztlan, a small weaving village in the mountains south of the capital city. Then the group went to Zacualpan, Morelos, where they remained for the remainder of the summer.

CITY REFLECTS COUNTRY

Paddy found Mexico City a mirror of the country as most foreigners know it.

"Here in the big city was the Mexico that the American tourist enjoys and remembers — a city of beautiful buildings, monuments, magnificent churches, entertainment, etc.—all for the rich Yankee who admires this false picture of the country as he stumbles over the ragged little Mexican boy begging him to buy chicklets.

IDC By-Laws, Court Revision On Agenda

The Interdormitory Council meeting tonight will deal primarily with the By-Laws and the dorm court revision laws.

The IDC By-Laws have been completely revised and will be read and discussed tonight.

Rudy Edwards, president of the IDC said he is not sure what will be attempted in regard to the dorm court revision laws. He expects proposed changes, amendments and clarifications of the laws passed by the IDC last Wednesday.

Edwards gave this example: what happens if the secrecy of a dormitory court meeting is violated?

The IDC will also consider a new intramural manager program, whereby dorm intramural managers would receive monetary compensation. The program to be presented would set up a committee of IDC president, IDC intramural director, assistant director and other personnel to interview interested parties and select an intramural manager for each dormitory.

Managers would be subject to removal if they did not perform duties satisfactorily.

Other matters to come before the IDC tonight concern dormitory telephones, additional vending machines (candy, milk, cigarettes), and procedure for the blazer sale scheduled for Oct. 29.

Robert Rupen To Give Talk On Mongolia

"Inside Outer Mongolia" will be the topic of a lecture by Dr. Robert A. Rupen tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in Gerrard Hall.

An associate professor in the UNC Political Science Department, Rupen was invited by the Mongolian government to tour the country in August. Few westerners are permitted to venture into this remote land.

Rupen had written a series of articles about Outer Mongolia when the Communist government invited him to see the country himself and see how "incorrectly" he had pictured the land.

The associate professor had visited the Soviet Union in 1956 but had never been to Outer Mongolia.

Rupen went to his political science classes recently dressed in a Mongolian robe with an orange shawl tied around his waist. He showed souvenirs of his tour and told of the primitive way of life of Mongolians.

Rupen's talk is being sponsored

Study Commission Hears Arguments Against Change In Selection Of Trustees

DREAM BALLET DANCER—Dancing the role of Laurey in the dream ballet of 'Oklahoma' will be Miss Dorothy Berea (above), modern dancer who has performed on Broadway. The Carolina Playmakers will give the presentation of the play Friday through Sunday in Memorial Hall at 8:30 p.m.

Five Trustees Want Present Method Kept

Reduction Of Board's Size Is Also Opposed

RALEIGH—(AP)—A study commission Tuesday heard an array of arguments against any change in the method of selecting trustees of the Consolidated University of North Carolina and against reducing the size of the board.

Only five persons appeared to present arguments at a public hearing conducted by the commission, which was created by the last legislature to study possible changes in the method of selecting University trustees.

ALL TRUSTEES

All five were members of the board of trustees. All five opposed any change in the present method under which the UNC trustees are elected by the General Assembly. Four of the five opposed any reduction in the size of the board which now has 100 elected members plus two ex officio members.

Only one of the five, George Watts Hill of Durham, said the board's size made it "unwieldy and cumbersome." He said it might well be reduced in size but still kept large enough to keep it representative of the people.

Others arguing against any change in the size of the board or in the method of selection included: Victor Bryant of Durham, Kemp D. Battle and Thomas J. Pearsall of Rocky Mount and Hill Yarborough of Louisiana.

The study committee had announced in advance of the hearing that it was considering recommending that the size of the board be reduced and that the governor be given the power to appoint a portion of its members.

ABOUT READY

After the hearing, Robert Proctor of Marion, chairman of the study commission, said it was about ready to write its report.

Hill referred to disagreements which burst out in the open sever-

Invitations Are Issued To Alderman Dorm Dance

Engraved invitations have been issued to 300 men students to attend a semi-formal, dance Friday night in Alderman Hall from 9 o'clock to 12 midnight.

Alderman girls will serve as official hostesses and decorations will carry out an Autumn theme. Music will be provided by a combo. Dress for the occasion will include cocktail dresses for coeds and dark suits for men.

Dorothy Berea To Be Dancer In 'Oklahoma'

A modern dancer who has performed in concert on Broadway will appear with The Carolina Playmakers this weekend in the presentation of "Oklahoma."

Miss Dorothy Berea, a New Orleans native now living in Chapel Hill, will dance the role of Laurey in the show's dream ballet.

The production will be given Friday through Sunday in Memorial Hall at 8:30 p.m.

Miss Berea has studied dance in New York with Merce Cunningham, Martha Graham, Nina Fonaroff, and Jose Limon.

Primarily a modern dancer, Miss Berea has performed in concert on Broadway and on tours with Martha Graham, Jean Houlouise, and Sophia Maslow. She has been soloist with Merce Cunningham and Pearl Lang.

She is the wife of Marvin Silver, presently attached to the Office of Ordnance Research at Duke University while doing special research in the UNC Physics Dept.

The dream ballet is an integral part of "Oklahoma!" The Playmakers' production features choreography by Foster Fitz-Simons of the University's department of dramatic art.

Former UNC President Said In 'Fair' Condition

Dr. Frank P. Graham, former president of the Consolidated University of North Carolina, was reported in "fair" condition Tuesday by authorities at Rex Hospital in Raleigh.

Graham, 72, was hospitalized Monday night with bronchitis and fatigue. Spokesmen said bronchial trouble began bothering Graham last week.

The former University president spoke Saturday at Cambridge, Mass., and then came to Raleigh to speak at the opening of North Carolina State College's International Week Observance.

Upon doctor's advice, Dr. Graham cancelled other engagements at Vanderbilt University, Cornell and Western Michigan.

Graham is presently a United Nations mediator in Asia. For 19 years he served as president of the Consolidated University. He was ap-

UP Hears Goldsmith On Party's Functions

By DEE DANIELS

To look out on campus and be concerned with the problems should be the objective of the University Party stressed Al Goldsmith, last year's UP candidate for student body president, at a party meeting last night.

This is not just another club, he continued, but a group of people who have a purpose and a guiding philosophy.

"I like to think of the UP as being a conservative group." In the past few years it has acted as a leveling influence for certain radicals on campus, Goldsmith explained.

DR. EDMUND C. ARNOLD
...UNC clinic speaker

Paper Clinic To Be Friday

North Carolina newspapers—daily and non-daily, large and small—will be represented at a newspaper design clinic to be held Friday here.

The School of Journalism and the Extension Division are sponsoring the day-long workshop session, which will provide practical advice on improving newspapers' typographical appearance.

Conducting the clinic will be Edmund C. Arnold, Michigan typographical authority and author of Functional Newspaper Design.
