Darwin's Time More Serene Says Dr. Fitch

By MARY ALICE ROWETTE

"Why did Charles Darwin feel so serene about the question of evolution and we are the ones who live in the age of anxiety."

This question was asked Wednesday by Dr. Robert Fitch, dean of Dr. Fitch, giving the second of two lectures sponsored by the Wesley Foundation, answered the question by listing four things Darwin had which, he said, are missing in modern civilization:

1. An absolute belief in the rule of the moral law,

2. The universal sway of the British Empire. G. An exthermely devoted wife who had no interest other than waiting on her husband. 4. An absolute confidence that everything in history and evolution

-like the novels that were readmust come to a happy ending. "Our world is a more troubled one," he said, and is "less sure of its basic convictions than the world in which Darwin lived. "We are, therefore, bound to be more disturbed by the deeper implications of Darwin's teaching."

Dr. Fitch spoke Tuesday night on "The Decline and Fall of Sex."

Six IDC Court Amendments Approved By Dorm Council

By RON SHUMATE

The IDC Wednesday night approved six amendments to the recently-approved bylaws of the IDC court. An amendment to the "Proposed Dormitory Intramural Managers Program" was also approved. Voting on proposed additions to the IDC bylaws was postponed until the next meeting.

The new court bylaws were approved last month and provided for individual dormitory courts system is not yet in effect.

Under the new system, the old IDC court will have jurisdiction over all cases on appeal from the dorm courts and will have original jurisdiction over all cases in which a member of another dorm violated a regulation in a dorm not his own. The court will also try cases involving violations of rules by Rudy Edwards, dorm officers.
