Gosh frosh!

how'd you catch on so quick? Catch on to the fact that Coca-Cola is the hep drink on campus, I mean. Always drink it, you say? Well—how about dropping over to the dorm and downing a sparkling Coke or two with the boys. The man who's for Coke is the man for us.

The major work to be played on this fifth concert of the Tuesday Evening Series is Edward Elgar's "Enigma Variations." The rest of the program will consist of "Choral and Fugue" by J. S. Bach, transcribed for orchestra by J. J. Abert; "Passacaglia for Orchestra" by Ralph Dunlap, a member of the orchestra; "Fantasia on Green-sleeves" by R. Vaughan Williams; and Tchaikovsky's "Overture 1812."

Elgar's "Enigma Variation," written in 1899, is "Dedicated to My Friends Pictured Within." This series of 14 variations sketches in music the portraits of 13 friends. The last variation is really the finale, but Elgar calls it the 14th variation because of the ill-luck attaching to the number. Some of the people represented in the music are the composer's wife, a pianist, an actor, a country squire, a violinist, an architect, and a publisher.

Earlier this year Dr. Price was co-recipient of a National Science Foundation grant to study the use of high speed computers in sociological research and particularly their application in the study of migration.

The UNC professor of sociology is an adviser to the U. S. Government on plans for the 1960 census, and is a director and treasurer of the Population Assn. of America.

Dr. Price, who directs UNC's Institute for Research in Social Science, will first attend the University of Pennsylvania symposium on the relation of the university computer center to the community-at-large. Beginning immediately afterward will be the Eastern Joint Computer Conference.

Green is professor of public law and government and, like Stipe, is an assistant director of the Institute of Government.

Philip P. Green Jr., Robert E. Stipe and Shirley F. Weiss will represent the UNC Department of City and Regional Planning and the Institute of Government at the meeting.

Miss Weiss, representing the Urban Studies Program, is chapter secretary-treasurer and will take part in business sessions. Stipe, who is a member of the executive committee and chairman of the chapter's N. C. section, will also attend these sessions.

UNC Professor To Speak In Pa.'s Strub Series

Duquesne University in Pittsburgh, Pa., has selected Prof. John G. Kunstmann, chairman of the UNC Department of Germanic Languages, to inaugurate its new Joseph Strub Lectures in Mediaeval Studies.

Dr. Kunstmann will speak Friday night, Dec. 6, on "Some Unprofessional Remarks on the Elijah-Episode of the Old High German Mus-pilli." The series, named after the university founder, will be inaugurated on the Duquesne campus in the newly-dedicated Rockwell Hall.
