Hodges Issues Compromise Plan To End Board-Trustee Dispute

Higher Education Board Has Power Reduced

A battle between the State Board of Higher Education and the Board of Trustees of the University of North Carolina appeared ended with considerable loss of power for the Board of Higher Education.

A compromise proposal designed to end the dispute was made public yesterday by Gov. Hodges after it won the approval of the executive committee of the UNC Trustees.

The Governor, approving the agreement, said it, "represents the constructive suggestions of both groups, working together for the mutual benefit of higher education."

The compromise changes the original law which created the Board of Higher Education. The governor was asked if he felt the change would reduce substantially the powers of the Board of Higher Education.

"I think that it clarifies them," he answered. "The language of the old law is a little rough. Frankly, it gave them powers they weren't exercising but that people were afraid they might exercise."

The new proposal changes the purpose of the Board which was originally given the power to promote and operate a coordinated system of higher education. The right to operate was removed while the function of planning such an educational system was added. In this purpose the Board is to "seek the cooperation of all institutions of higher education."

The new proposal requires the conformity of all institutions to the educational functions and activities assigned to them, but the Board cannot require any institution to discontinue any existing functions and activities without the approval of the General Assembly.

It was made clear that each institution will perform its functions under the direction of its own Board of Trustees.

The Board was originally provided with the power to recommend to the Director of the Budget and the Advisory Budget Commission the budget expenditures for each of the institutions. This provision was changed to provide the Board with the duty to review and appraise the budget requests of all institutions and make its recommendations with respect to such requests to the Director of the Budget and the Advisory Budget Commission.

Under the proposal the Board would lose its right to make any decisions on requests for appropriations by the institutions of higher education.

Any appropriation request involving the establishment of a new educational function or activity is first submitted to the Board for approval.

The struggle came about early in 1958 when the Board of Higher Education cut the size of a housing project for married students at North Carolina State College. The Board of Trustees of the University of North Carolina requested 500 housing units which the Board of Higher Education cut to 300.

March 5 of last year the Board was attacked by the trustees for denying them their traditional powers.

UNC Trustees Back Officials On Red Oath

RALEIGH — The Executive Committee of the University Board of Trustees Monday reaffirmed a long-standing policy that all University faculty members and employees be required to take oaths of loyalty to the state and federal constitutions.

It also reiterated a decree first adopted by the Board of Trustees in 1941 to the effect that "no communist be employed by the University in any capacity whatsoever."

As in the past, enforcement of this decree was left in the hands of the administration of the Consolidated University.

The Executive Committee's action, in effect, supported a recent decision of the Consolidated University administration. That decision was to omit from job application blanks of the Chapel Hill unit of the Consolidated University a question relating to communist affiliations.

Meanwhile, directors of the newly organized North Carolina Defenders of States Rights, criticized the decision to delete the question on communist affiliations from the UNC application blanks.

"We feel that we and the people of North Carolina are entitled to know whether or not a person applying for a position at the University of North Carolina and other schools of higher learning is now or ever has been a member of the Communist Party," said the directors in a resolution adopted at a meeting in Burlington Sunday.

CLASS RING SALE

Class rings for juniors will go on sale Feb. 4 and 5.

Danny Lotz, ring chairman for the Order of the Grail, said yesterday the G. Balfour Co. will send a representative to take ring orders.

The ring sale is sponsored by the Grail.

NEW PHARMACY BUILDING
... at half-way mark

New Pharmacy Building Is Said Half Completed

The half way mark has been reached in the construction of the new School of Pharmacy building at the University.

The new building will be completed by Aug. 20. It will enable the school to double its present enrollment. This means that 120 freshmen students will be accepted in September and 75 transfer students will be accepted as sophomores.

The faculty will be increased by one assistant dean, one associate professor in pharmacognosy and three assistant professors of pharmacy.

The building is of concrete frame construction with a brick exterior. The new building contains 69,240 feet of floor space and is being constructed at a cost of $1,345,000.

Student Reports Clothing Taken From Auto Here

A University student has reported to local police the theft of several items of clothing from his car parked near Woolen Gymnasium last week.

C. H. Townsend of Winston-Dorm told officers that his car was parked near the gym Monday of last week. When he returned he said he found three pairs of slacks and two sport coats missing.

He valued the missing items at $95.

Furtado Plans Organization For Foreigners

A single organization to coordinate foreign student affairs is part of a plan to revise and expand the various foreign student programs here.

Student Body President Don Furtado met Friday with representatives of several organizations dealing with foreign students to discuss revamping the program.

The single organization planned would handle such administrative problems as finding homes for foreign students during holiday periods, preparing dormitory arrangements, arranging eating schedules and informing UNC students of exchange program opportunities abroad.

A bill will be presented to Student Legislature on the plan within a few weeks, Furtado said yesterday. But the provisions of the bill, such as the membership of the one organization, have not yet been worked out.

The importance of expanding the foreign student program was stressed by Furtado, who said, "At the present time we have on our campus a large number of students from other countries who are here because they have shown outstanding abilities and promise in their lands.

"Too often they never become a part of our community and because of this, when they return to their own land, their opinions of our way of life are sometimes not completely objective."

But even worse, Furtado said, See FOREIGN, page 3

Eight Dorm Social Rooms Commended

The residents of eight men's dormitories were commended Monday by University Director of Operations J. S. Bennett for the physical appearance of their social rooms.

Praised were Manly, Mangum, Ruffin, Lewis, Graham, Aycock, Cobb and Comer.

Bennett commended the students after inspecting all men's dormitories' social rooms to see what improvements they needed. The University has recently acquired new furniture to put in some of these rooms.

Those dormitories which appeared to "show the most interest," Bennett said, would get the most furniture and improvements. "We think the ones helping themselves should get the most help from us," he said.

Over half of these social rooms are in good condition, he said. However, some showed lack of interest. "One," he said, "had pictures on the floor in a corner and draperies deposited on a mantle."

Encouraging dormitories that didn't have "good" social rooms to improve them, he said the University would respond to such interest by helping them.

Tickets Are Still On Sale For 'Carmen' Showing

Tickets are still on sale for the one-night performance of "Carmen" to be presented by the University Music Department tonight at 8:30 in Memorial Hall.

Caramae Turner, contralto of the Metropolitan and San Francisco Opera Companies, will sing the part of the famous gypsy.

All music from the original Bizet composition will be given in the UNC production which is under the direction of Dr. Wilton Mason.

Recitatives which were added later, however, have been omitted from the concert program with continuity being maintained by narration of Joel Carter, member of the Music Department faculty.

The University Chorus, regularly conducted by Dr. Mason, will be responsible for all the choral scenes of the full-length presentation.

Other members of the cast for the first Chapel Hill production of the popular opera include Gene Strassler, Joel Carter, Martha Fouse, Brian Klitz, James Prueitt, Marilyn Zschau and Rebecca Carnes.

Rehearsals for the production began early in November.

Miss Turner has just concluded a season of opera with the San Francisco Opera Co. When she returns to New York she will join the American Opera Society in a production of "Medea."

In an interview Sunday Miss Turner conceded that her career was "built on versatility." This fact is borne out by the varied roles she has sung, including Madame Flora in Menotti's "The Medium" and Cousin Neddie in the motion picture "Carrousel."

While "Carrousel" was being made, Miss Turner was also singing Azucena in the opera "Il Trovatore" with the San Francisco Opera Co.

Miss Turner is the wife of Frank Hoffman, an industrial engineer with Standard Oil of New Jersey.

Three New One-Act Plays Scheduled By Playmakers

Three new one-act plays by student authors will be presented by The Carolina Playmakers, Jan. 15 and 16 at 7:30 p.m. in the Playmakers Theatre. The program is a regular feature of The Playmakers season.

The scripts are products of students in the playwriting class of Prof. Thomas M. Patterson, of the Department of Dramatic Art.

"Below the Bridge," by Gunsam Lee, of Seoul, Korea, is a play of the Korean folk. Directed by Ellen Acker, the play is enacted by Gall Rice, Bill Monell, George Manasse, Paul Gold, Ellen Dennis, Margaret Starnes Tim Jones, Patricia Carlton, William Hannah, Frank Mansfield, Judy Rosenzweig, Jean Lenere, Frank MacDonald, Larry Barnes and Bill Manuel.

"Fear and Trembling," by Harold Stassel, New York, is a story of Abraham and Isaac. The cast includes Fred Sitton, John Sneden, Jack Jackson, Robert Ketter, Craven Mackie, Bill File, Bobbi Hicks and Judy Rosenzweig. The director is Russell Link.

The third play is a comedy by Craven Mackie, of Baton Rouge, La., entitled "The Sisters Gogmagog."

Directed by Bobbi Dixon, the comedy is performed by Betty Rhodes, Marti Preston, Lore Schuller, James Poteat, Robert Merritt, Carolyn Quinn, Carolyn Myers and William Dixon. Admission to the plays is free.

Police Arrest Three Men In University Wire Thefts

Three Durham county men have been arrested by Carrboro police and charged in the third and fourth incidents of theft of copper wire from the University Service Plant.

Two of the men, Rhett Williams, 32, and Bettis Holmes, 30, were out on $200 bond after appealing a previous conviction in Chapel Hill Recorder's Court last month on a similar charge.

Williams, Holmes, and Willie Leslie, about 30, will face the new charges in Recorder's court tomorrow.

According to Carrboro Chief of Police Alvin Williams, Holmes and Leslie are charged with taking a large quantity of wire from near the water plant on Jan. 6, and all three have been charged with taking wire on the night of Jan. 4.

The merchandise was allegedly sold to a Durham county firm and to a passing motorist. Frank Alston and Thomas Mitchell of Chapel Hill were convicted of taking wire from the plant Nov. 29 and received 60-day roads sentences. They were said to have stolen 277 pounds of the wire.

Then, Holmes and Williams were charged with taking about $125 worth of wire about Nov. 22. Holmes and Williams were found guilty and

Coeds Get Late Hours For Two Campus Events

Late permission for coeds has been granted tonight for the performance of "Carmen" and Wednesday night for the State-Carolina basketball game.

By a joint resolution of the Women's Residence Council and dean of women's office, the one-hour late permissions were granted.

Coeds will be expected to sign out and in on a special sign-out sheet for these two nights and to return immediately to their dorms after the performance or game.

INFIRMARY

APO Gets Office Space In Smith Dorm Basement

Carolina's service fraternity, Alpha Phi Omega, has moved to new headquarters in the basement of Smith Dormitory.

Harold Johnson, APO president, said he looks on the new location as "an added chance to provide volunteer service to the University."

Johnson indicated that after Feb. 3 the APO office will be manned each afternoon. Visitors to the campus will be able to get guides at short notice and a campus wide lost and found service may be set up.

Brothers of the fraternity moved office equipment from their old room in the basement of Graham Memorial to their new location in Smith. The new facilities consist of an office and a meeting room. The rooms open from a larger central conference room.

Fire Damage To Building Is Estimated

Building and grounds director J. S. Bennett said yesterday that insurance officials put fire damage to a University building at 219 Pittsboro St. at $9,000.

The Saturday night blaze consumed all of the building except the right lower front section which was damaged by water. The building housed seven offices of the School of Public Health.

"I don't think it is worth rebuilding," said Bennett. "I don't know what will be decided, though."

The insurance covered only the building and not the office furniture which was lost. The building as it stands is useless, according to Bennett.
