

Streaking Tar Heels Meet Duke At Durham Tonight

Carolina Carries 13-1 Record Into Contest

By RUSTY HAMMOND
 DURHAM — Two of the year's most surprising teams, in addition to being two of the most heated rivals in the country, tangle here tonight when Carolina's once-beaten Tar Heels invade Duke Indoor Stadium to take on Duke's sophomore-laden Blue Devils.

The Tar Heels, ranked second nationally by both major polls, come into the contest with a phenomenal 13-1 record. Carolina's latest triumph came Wednesday night when they polished off defending ACC champ Maryland 64-57 in Chapel Hill.

Both Hot After Exams
 Both squads have swept through three straight opponents since emerging from the exam lay-off. Duke smashed Maryland, conked Pitt, and beat South Carolina.

In addition to the Maryland win, the Tar Heels have whipped South Carolina and Clemson since exams. Duke's newest gun, 6-6 Carrol Youngkin, outscored Pittsburgh All-American Don Hennon 35-31 in the Devil victory. But the Duke high scoring ace is another soph, Howard Hurt, who is 4th in the conference with a 14.8 average. Carolina's York Larese, another figure in the parade of sophs, poured in 32 points against the Tar Heels. Larese is second high man in the ACC with a 15.4 percentage (before the Maryland game) and has over a 50 per cent accuracy mark.

All of the potent Tar Heels are averaging in double figures, and the group as a team leads the conference in team offense.

Heels Lead ACC
 Carolina is the ACC loop leader with a perfect 9-0 record. The Tar Heel win over Maryland pushed Duke into third place with a 5-4 mark. The Devils are 9-8 overall. The Blue Devils last year conquered the Tar Heels both in Durham and in Chapel Hill, using their "Iron Five," all of which graduated. Tonight's battle will be the first meeting this season of the two teams. Duke's entire starting lineup is composed of sophomores.

Last year's game between Duke and Carolina at Durham ended in a near riot when the Carolina players had to be escorted from the floor after the game by police.

DANGEROUS DEVIL—Howard Hurt, 4th highest scorer in the ACC, is a dangerous man from the outside. Hurt leads his Blue Devil mates against the Tar Heels tonight in Durham.

Tar Babies Battle Blue Imps

By ELLIOTT COOPER
 The Tar Baby cagers end a frantic week of activity tonight in Durham when they take on the Duke freshmen prior to the varsity contest. For Dean Smith's frosh tonight's engagement marks their fifth game in the last seven days and leaves them with only four more dates for the rest of the season.

The Duke freshmen are the only Big Four squad which the Tar Babies have not faced. Unlike State and Wake Forest who the Tar Babies play three times, the frosh face Duke but twice with the final meeting being scheduled for February 28.

Wilmington Latest Victim
 Wednesday night the Tar Babies came within one point of matching their seasonal high as they overpowered Wilmington Junior College 99-85. The Carolina frosh reached the 100 mark in their first game of the year when they defeated Hargrave Military Academy.

Against Wilmington the freshmen were led in the scoring column by Don Walsh who set a seasonal high for individual shooting by tossing in 33 points. Walsh got 12-22 from the floor, many on driving layups, and 9-10 at the foul line to give him his total output.

Potef Gets 24
 Walsh's backcourt mate Yogi Potef rebounded from the poor evening he had against State Tuesday when he scored but one point and racked up 24 markers against Wilmington. Jim Hudock also had a good night as he hit on 9 of 14 from the floor and added 5 from the foul line for 23 points.

When the Tar Babies take their

7-3 mark against the Blue Devils they will find themselves in the unaccustomed position of possessing the superior height. Duke's tallest man is 6-5 center Dale Wittner. Supporting Wittner, the Blue Devils have several 6-4 and 6-3 forwards.

The Duke frosh were defeated in their last outing by Wake Forest who humbled them 88-44. In their two meetings to date the Tar Babies and Wake Forest have split, Wake winning the first 77-59 and Carolina the second 64-60.

Outing Club Formed Here

"We, the undersigned, desiring to secure the benefits and pleasures from outdoor activities such as camping, hunting, fishing, boating, hiking, and to further the name of the University in all our activities, do hereby constitute ourselves the University of North Carolina Outing Club and do enact this constitution as our governing law."

This passage is the preamble of the newly written constitution of the UNC Outing Club.

The Outing Club activities are to begin with a membership meeting which will be held on February 9 at 7:00 in room 303 Woolen Gym. At this meeting the newly proposed member will receive their membership cards. These cards have the new seal of the Outing Club imprinted in them.

The seal or official emblem consists of a pine bough encircled by the letters UNC Outing Club, which is done in Carolina blue.

The guest speaker for this meeting will be Dr. Sam Knight. He will talk informally on camping. Having traveled extensively through the United States, Dr. Knight is well advised on camping.

Prior to Dr. Knight's talks, a short business meeting will be held to elect officers, take in members, and ratify the new constitution. Also at the meeting some preliminary plans will be made for the Regata at Buggs Island with a water skiing tournament to be held. Other plans will also be made for the Spring Semester.

There have been 35 applications made for the Outing Club, and may be obtained at the Intramural Office. The UNC Outing Club will be affiliated with the Intercollegiate Outing Club Association.

Mural Basketball At Mid-Point

As the Intramural Basketball season turns the corner and heads for the home stretch, it is apparent that there will be many teams that will be fighting down to the wire for first place position in the league.

At mid-season all of the defending champions are battling for the crown, but are up against stiff competition.

In the 6 Dormitory leagues 12 teams are still undefeated. These are: Winston 1, Cobb A, Parker 2, Avery, Graham 1, Cobb C, Manly, Stacy, Joyner 1, Winston 2, Mangum, and Ruffin 1.

There are also 6 leagues in the Fraternity White division. In these leagues at mid-season there are 10 undefeated teams. Namely, they are: PIKA 3, Sig Nu 1, Zeta Psi 1, Phi Delt 2, Kap Sig 1, Chi Psi 1, SAE 1, DKE 2, Phi Delt 1, and Chi Psi 2.

There are 8 teams representing the 5 leagues in the Fraternity Blue division. These are: SAE, Zeta Psi, Lamb Chi, Beta ATO, Phi Delt, Kap Sig, Sig Nu.

Finally, in the Graduate division there are only two leagues. In these two leagues there have emerged 4 undefeated teams at mid-season. These are: Med Sch 3, Hist. Sch, Med Sch 4, and Law Sch 1.

A total of 34 teams have gone through the mid-season undefeated, thus illustrating that there is going to be some fast and rough basketball through the remainder of the season.

Wednesday night, just after his Tar Heels had beaten Maryland 64-57, Coach Frank McGuire was asked if he thought they had improved much since exams. "Well," he said, "I really don't know. We've won three straight and I've been satisfied, but we haven't really been challenged yet."

Later on, another writer asked, "Do you think you'll get that challenge when you play Duke Friday night?" McGuire didn't even hesitate in answering "yes."

Both he and assistant coach Dean Smith have scouted the Blue Devils extensively this year, and they agree on the results. "Their strongest points," said McGuire, "are rebounding and shooting. They have a real good shooting team."

Doug Moe, who was on the doubtful list before the Maryland game due to an injured foot, was slightly under par for the Terp game. Moe scored only 4 points. In McGuire's words, "He was about half as effective as he should have been."

Moe will be much needed tonight, and we hope he'll be in top form. He had two great nights down at Charlotte before the injury shackled him Wednesday night.

The opponents for tonight, Duke's young Blue Devils, should present exactly the challenge that McGuire predicted. They have come on fast after a somewhat shaky beginning. For instance, when they played Maryland at College Park they got slaughtered but did an exact about face in Durham two weeks ago.

The Devil starting line-up is last year's freshman team intact. That same squad whipped the Tar Babies regularly. The thing is, they have now played together so much that eventually they will cause some real trouble—maybe tonight, maybe in the ACC tournament.

Their latest and greatest effort came when they smashed powerful Pitt at Durham, with Carrol Youngkin outscoring all-American Don Hennon 35-31.

The Dukes are now, and always have been, extremely tough to beat on their home court. Two years ago they knocked off mighty Kentucky in Durham, and last year they stopped potent West Virginia.

In the opinion of Frank McGuire, a team has to win "on the road" to be a great team. Such was the case with the Miracle Team of 1957, and such seems to be the case with this edition of the Tar Heels.

They beat State College, ranked number 1 at that time, right under their noses, and have also whipped such powers as Northwestern, Notre Dame, and Cincinnati while on the road.

York Larese, who gunned in 32 points Wednesday night, shapes up as one of the best shooters in the entire nation. Larese, in addition to his high scoring average, is hitting above 50% of shots taken. He has a soft, but deadly, touch from anywhere outside; this opponents have learned the hard way.

From the New York Times comes word that departed State stars Mark Reiner and Stan Niewerowski will probably not return to school. They were, according to the Times, disappointed with State as a school. This is a blow that Ev Case's crew will have a hard time recovering from. Case had thought they would probably return in time for classes, but such was not the "case."

After tonight's game at Duke, the basketball team will be idle over the week-end, so we'd like to suggest students take in some other athletic events. Here Saturday will be a swimming meet with Florida, with at Earey's crew seeking to retain their 26-meet win streak. Saturday night in Woolen Gym, Sam Barnes' wrestlers entertain West Virginia, a team Carolina has never beaten.

These events will be interesting, and everyone knows a team performs better with a little support. So, why not go down and support the other Carolina teams the way basketball is supported.

A Campus-to-Career Case History

Still under 30...and he supervises 400 people

In the telephone company men with ability move along quickly into important supervisory positions. Take the case of David C. Karlen, for example.

Dave was hired by the New York Telephone Company right after graduation in June, 1954. For seven months he received rotational training to familiarize him with the various departments of the company. Then Uncle Sam borrowed him for 25 months.

He returned in February, 1957, and completed his training. In June, he was made Traffic Superintendent of some small telephone exchanges outside Utica. He gained valuable experience in handling people, planning work loads, and many other supervisory duties.

In June, 1958, Dave moved to Plattsburg — also as Traffic Superintendent, but with far greater responsibilities. Here, he is directly responsible for seven telephone offices over 4000 square miles. Fourteen management people and 400 operators are under his supervision.

"A campus interview started me on my telephone career," says Dave. "The opportunities with the telephone company sounded terrific — and they have been. What's more, you get excellent training to prepare you for new job assignments."

Dave Karlen graduated from St. Lawrence University with a B.S. degree. He is one of many young men who are finding rewarding careers in the Bell Telephone Companies. Find out about opportunities for you. Talk with the Bell interviewer when he next visits your campus. And read the Bell Telephone booklet on file in your Placement Office.
