Fired-Up Virginia Upsets Carolina 69-68; Heels Blow Three Chances To Win

Charlottesville, Va. — Carolina's Tar Heels were knocked off for the second time in as many games here last night as Virginia's fired-up Cavaliers came from as much as 12 points behind to upset the Heels 69-68.

The Tar Heels blew three scoring chances in the final minute of play when they trailed by only one point. The loss dumped Carolina to an 11-2 ACC record and made it a necessity to beat Duke Saturday to gain a tie for the ACC championship.

Carolina had forged from behind on two pairs of free throws by Ray Stanley and Harvey Salz to lead 68-67 with 1:15 left. Then Paul Adkins hit a drive shot to put the Cavaliers ahead to stay at 69-68 with 1:04 left.

Adkins then went to the line and missed on a free throw attempt, but York Larese missed the shot with 37 seconds left. The Cavaliers came back up court and Larese stole the ball, but then Dong Moe missed a shot with 15 seconds left. Then Moe fouled Virginia's Herb Busch.

Busch also missed on the free throw opportunity with six seconds left, but then Lou Brown missed the final desperation shot with one second left in the game.

Virginia fought from behind to lead 36-34 at the half after trailing by as much as 12 points in the opening half. The Tar Heels' biggest lead was at 26-14, but after that the Cavaliers chopped away at it and went ahead at intermission.

Two free throws by Harvey Salz tied the score at 36-36 in the opening seconds of the second stanza, but Virginia quickly regained the lead and held it until Salz hit again to make it 44-43 Carolina.

Carolina got their biggest lead of the half, four points, when two jumps by Larese and two free throws by Moe made it 56-52. But Virginia quickly whittled it back down and from there on in it was a dogfight.

The win ran Virginia's string to three and upped their conference record to 5-8. The Cavaliers are 9-13 overall.

Humanities Lecturer Defines Fiction World

The fictional world was explored in the spring semester Humanities Lecture delivered here Tuesday by Dr. Harry K. Russell, professor in the English Department.

Dr. Russell pointed out some of the ways of thinking about a novel which consider the novelist's relationship to his story, the organization of the story, the novelist's ideas of people and their behavior and the kind of fiction the author has written.

"These approaches," he said, "are all involved in a consideration of the fictional world as differentiated from the real world."

The novelist, Dr. Russell commented, makes and controls fiction, presenting not a world remembered and documented as in history and biography, but a world imagined.

"For the biographer or the historian, events within his book are controlled by their allegiance to the real world. For the novelist, events within his book are controlled only by their appropriateness to the internal logic of the narrative.

"As we read a novel we find ourselves in a world that is autonomous. The objects, events and persons in it exist by virtue of and are controlled by their function in the fictional world," stated Dr. Russell.

He noted that there are some novels in which the real world enters the fictional. "The historical novelist and the allegorist incorporate sets of events which must du-PLICATE events in the real, the historical world and which are therefore controlled by that world," he said.

Dr. Russell examined Scott's "Quentin Durward," Swift's "Gulliver's Travels" and Bunyan's "The Pilgrim's Progress" as novels illustrating the boundary between the worlds of fact and fiction.

These works, according to the speaker, have the order of events and characters affected by an external scheme — either historical or religious — yet still remain in the realm of the fictional.

In examining the attributes of a novel which would be the norm in this literary type, Dr. Russell said the point of view is inclusive or omniscient. "The novelist keeps his place in the real world and records as fully as he wishes the happenings in the fictional world," he said. "The persons possess the moral interest of people in the real world whose development is not controlled by any historical figures or events. The action is organized around emphasized events which make a pattern of cause and effect by moving from a defining event, through a crisis or confirmation, to a culmination and denouement," he stressed.

"The characteristic point of view in novels that brings the real and the fictional worlds close together is that of a narrator, a person who is in the reader's world and is a participant in the action of the novel," Dr. Russell observed.

IT'S A MAN'S WORLD

Lil Abner Designs Lose Out

By NADEANE WALKER

PARIS. — Paris dressmakers finally presented pictures of their new styles to the public today with a hopeful, "Here it is, and how do you like it?"

By it they mean the natural line that you read about nearly a month ago. Photographs were not permitted until now.

Seldom has Paris made such a concerted attempt to please the public with a flattering, wearable silhouette. The designers must have said to themselves, "Let's give them what they want." Everybody, from Dior to Cardin, Balmain and Heim, fell in line.

For their pains, they may be criticized for lack of originality. But they are reported to have had a successful season with the buyers.

Hemlines, you will see, are just comfortably below the knee — the couple of inches that insure knee-cap coverage even when you sit down. Since not many people went in for last season's knee-high hems, this probably means that your skirts are just right as they are, without letting down or taking up.

Neckline décolletage is generous enough, but it's wide-open rather than low-down. This is what fashion calls the boat neckline, and to keep the nautical note there are sailor-type hats.

A trademark of the 1959 spring styles is the wide Bertha collar, in variations from a flat encircling band all the way to a deep flounce.

The waist-in-place is the biggest news of the season, with a few designers keeping just a hint of the lifted empire waistline of last year.

There are so many colors in the Paris collections that it's hard to pick the favorites. But greens surprised everybody by their unusual popularity and beige is probably the basic winner.

Prints are not prevailing, as they sometimes are for spring and summer wear. They run to scribbly abstracts, small checks, blurry flowers and polka dots.

Since the new line is supple, materials are, too. The favorites are tie silk, shantung, chiffon, tulle or net, organdy, lace and woolsens.

There were no new fashion houses this season, but a new designer in an old house made his mark with an unexpected success. He is Jules Francois Crahay, who designed the whole Nina Ricci collection for the first time. Crahay, a 42-year-old Belgian, has been one of several Ricci designers for five years, but he really put the house back in the news with his first solo show.

UP Execs To Select Candidates

The University Party Executive Committee will select candidates to the run in the spring for five Legislature seats at a meeting today at 1:30 p.m. in the Grail Room.

UP Chairman John Minter said yesterday any person interested in being a candidate for seats in Town Men's IV and Dorm Men's IV appear before the Executive Committee at 1:30 p.m. today.

Candidates for three one-year seats will be named in Town Men's IV, which includes students living in the area bounded by Columbia Street on the west, Franklin Street on the north and the corporate limits of Chapel Hill on the east and south, in addition to students living outside the city limits.

Also, candidates for two one-year seats will be named to run in Dorm Men's IV, which includes residents of Mangum, Manly, Grimes and Ruffin dormitories and students living in Emerson Stadium.

Students May Hold Double Rooms

Students presently living in dormitories now have the option of reserving their rooms for the summer and fall sessions. They may do so by making a deposit with the University Cashier in the basement of South Building not later than April 22.

Full housing reservation fee is $10 and the entire rent must be paid by Sept. 1 of this year.

Summer school housing offers three different plans to students. Double rooms will be available in Joyner, Mangum, Grimes, Ruffin and Winston (for graduate men). The rent in the dorms, to be paid when the reservations are made, is $20.

Single rooms will be available in Manly, Stacy and Lewis dorms. The rent here, also to be paid upon making reservations, is $30.

Married students will be housed in Graham Dorm during the summer. The rent is $40 and will be paid when reservations are made.

Cancer Control Show Begins On Channel 4

A new series of half-hour television programs on cancer control will begin Friday night at 9:30 on WUNC-TV, Channel 4.

The program is being presented in cooperation with the American Cancer Society, NBC and the National Education Television and Radio Center.

Titled "Tactic," the series will feature Dr. Charles Cameron, dean of the Hahnemann Medical College of Philadelphia, as medical authority. Prominent entertainers will join him each week in an effort to tell the complete cancer story.

In the first program, movie and television director Alfred Hitchcock and choreographer Hanya Holm will be special guests. Some of the other show business personalities scheduled to appear in the series are Celeste Holm, Ilka Chase, Jim Backus, Steve Allen, Mata and Hari, and cartoonist Walt Kelly.

Some of the topics to be discussed on "Tactic" include the nature and behavior of cancer, the seven warning symptoms, the chances for a cure and what sound medical treatment involves. Cancer of various kinds and the methods for detection of each type will be described.

As a final goal, the series will attempt to develop a realistic evaluation of the progress in cancer research and will discuss what constitutes the desirable environment for research.

"Tactic" will be telecast on Channel 4 every Friday night at 9:30.

ORIENTATION

Interviews for the Orientation Committee are being held through Friday in the Woodhouse Conference Room in Graham Memorial. The interviews are from 2 to 4 p.m. every day through Thursday and 2 to 5 p.m. Friday.

The Carolina Symposium has a new secretary. She is Mardi Bardwell, a junior from Tangerine, Fla.

Miss Bardwell was named to the position this week by Symposium Chairman Dick Robinson.

Robinson said, "Few positions are more demanding than that of secretary of the Carolina Symposium, and the present officers are very pleased that Mardi Bardwell has accepted the job. Her outstanding abilities will be a definite contribution to their 1960 program."

At UNC, Miss Bardwell is majoring in English. She is a Chi Omega sorority pledge.

Appropriations For 2 TV Sets Voted By IDC

The Interdormitory Council voted last night to approve money for the purchase of two new television sets for Cobb and Winston dormitories. The money is to be used to replace sets that were stolen recently.

A bill to establish a committee to administer the T-V Repair Fund was passed by the council. The committee will consist of 3 members from the IDC and 2 members from the Women's Residence Council.

The IDC also voted to approve a resolution for the formation of a roommate preference questionnaire. The form is to be optional and would be sent to all new dorm men.

Study rooms will be set up on a trial basis in Manly, Lewis and Graham dormitories in the near future. These rooms will be furnished for studying and are to be available for student use at all hours.

Plans for dorm discussion groups to be held to discuss pertinent campus and world affairs were also (See IDC, page 3)

The selection of the three agencies was made by the Campus Chest Board earlier this year. John Whitaker, a member of the Board, said Wednesday that 14 organizations were considered before the number was finally cut to three.

"The Board decided first of all that it would be better to give much to a few rather than to give a little to many," Whitaker said in commenting on the Board's action in the selection of the three agencies.

Student Legislature To Discuss Four Bills

By DEE DANIELS

As the Student Legislature convenes tonight, the solons will discuss four bills, two involving changes in the general election laws.

In a bill introduced last week, Charlie Gray (UP) proposed that the residents of Town Men's I be allowed to vote at the Carolina Inn and the Naval Armory and those in Town Men's III to vote at Graham Memorial and in front of the Western Union. Previously, there was only one ballot box in each district.

In Article II of the bill, the voting specifications would be outlined by the chairman of the Elections Board.

This article was amended yesterday by the Ways and Means Committee to require that the elections chairman submit such specifications to the Legislature for approval before March 20.

Norman B. Smith, Ways and Means chairman, said, "The committee was convinced that this was a desirable piece of legislation in that it would provide for more convenient voting procedures and tend to equalize the opportunity to vote for all students and that election law violations could continue to be kept at a minimum."

Concerning the bill, Ralph Cummings, speaker of Legislature, said it would involve "the inconsistency of allowing persons to vote at two places in the same district."

In a bill presented by Dave Jones (SP), on behalf of the Elections Board, at the last session, it was proposed that polling places be located in each dormitory, except Kenan, Connor and Teague, since a small percentage of the Teague constituents voted in the fall 1958 elections.

The Ways and Means Committee amended the bill, leaving polling places in the above mentioned dorms, except in such the poll hours shall be from 3 p.m. to 7 p.m. instead of the usual 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

It was felt that, since most of the students living in these dorms are either graduate, medical or pharmaceutical students, it would be more advantageous to have polls open a shorter time, but later in the day.

Smith remarked, "We felt that extension of poll closing time limits plus the reduction of total number of open hours would make voting in dormitories, occupied principally by graduate students, more convenient."

Also on the agenda will be a bill, co-authored by Bill Miller (SP) and Troy Blanton (SP), to create a committee of three to study the feasibility of a picnic and recreational area in Victory Village.

Among other organizations considered for support by the Campus Chest Board were: the Japanese International Christian University Foundation, Inc.; Scholarships for Athens College, Greece; Save the Children Federation, the National Scholarship Service Fund for Negro Students;

The Emergency Fund for Needy Students, the Chapel Hill Community Chest, the Negro Orphans Fund, Victory Village Child Service, Children's Foundation of Richmond, Va., for adopting children abroad, and the Orange County Home for the Aged.

To support students over the world, the Campus Chest Board selected the World University Service (WUS) to include in this year's budget. Funds to the WUS support a program of material assistance and promote education for international understanding.

Examples of services performed by the WUS include aid offered to refugees after World War II. This aid consisted of scholarships, medicine and food and contributions to the operation of an international center offering rest cures. The WUS also gave support to the Hungarian refugees after the revolt of October 1956.

Another agency being sponsored by the Campus Chest drive is the Goettingen Exchange Scholarship Program, which sends students from Carolina to the University at Goettingen for a year of study. Students from the German university also come here for a year.

The third agency to receive aid from the Campus Chest is the Mentally Retarded Children's Class of Orange County. Students in this class range from 9 to 16 years of age (16 is the age limit for children accepted) and their intelligence quotients range from 50 to 70.

Funds for the teacher's (Mrs. Thelma Brummett) salary come from the federal and state governments, but special attention, equipment and supplies get no special subsidy.
