ROGER WILLIAMS

Williams Uses Guitars, Bass As Accompanists

Pianist Roger Williams will use accompanists for some selections in his concert here Sunday at 8 p.m. in Memorial Hall. A pair of guitars and bass will back up Williams during parts of the concert. Williams will also use his miniature piano, "Sebastian," during the program.

Carolina students will be admitted to the concert on admission of identification cards. Student wives may purchase tickets for $1. Townspeople may buy tickets for $2, but only after 7:45 p.m. Sunday at the door.

Williams' concert here is a part of his busy 12 week coast-to-coast tour this spring. In addition, he has a schedule of recordings and television commitments. His records are no sideline for him. In a few years Williams has sold more recordings than any other pianist.

His well-known "Autumn Leaves" is an example of his popularity in the record field.

The Williams' program Sunday will be a sampling of all types of music, with accent on the popular and standards. He will also include novelty selections during the concert.

Williams is being brought to Chapel Hill by the Student Entertainment Series. Chairman of this student group is Bob Borden.

ON VERSE—STORY

Could Be Worse

By RON SHUMATE

The Petite Dramatique will listen in two weeks

To poetry written

By students who are smitten

With the urge to pen verse,

Be it prolix or terse.

What all this boils down to is the poetry reading to be held March 22 at 8 p.m. in Gerrard Hall.

Directors of the reading, Russell Link and Jack Jackson, have decided to include a section of poetry by Carolina students in the program.

Poetic students should bring their compositions to Gerrard Hall at 7 p.m.

Petite Dramatique will also present poems by Eliot, Shakespeare, MacLeish, Williams, Mallay and others.

The theme of the program will be "Carnival of Humanity."

Joel Carter, Baritone, Sings In Concert Series

The third concert of the spring semester Tuesday Evening Series will be presented by Joel Carter, baritone and Glenn Watkins, pianist, in Hill Hall, March 10 at 8 p.m.

Tuesday's program will include Schumann's "Dichterliebe," a cycle of 16 songs set to poetry by Heine; a group of songs by the American composer, Ernest Bacon; "Le Bestiaire," a group of six songs by Francis Poulenc; and an aria, "Oh, 'tis on earth defiled," from Howard Hanson's opera, "Merry Mount."

The song recital, sponsored by the Music Department, is open to the public with no admission charge.

Dr. Carter, chairman of instruction in voice here, has been in Chapel Hill since 1949. He is director of the UNC Glee Club and the Chapel Hill Choral Club.

He has made frequent appearances as leading baritone in both musical comedies and operas. He recently appeared as Escamillo in the Music Department's production of "Carmen," and has sung the roles of Figaro and Papageno in Mozart's operas.

Dr. Watkins, chairman of instruction in organ and teacher of theory in the Music Department, was appointed to the UNC faculty last fall. He was assistant professor and university organist of Southern Illinois University before coming here.

A graduate of the University of Michigan and the Eastman School of Music, he has also studied with Nadia Boulanger in Fontainebleau.

Smith Bill Goes Thru Legislature

By DEE DANIELS

A bill, introduced by Norman B. Smith (SP) to establish a committee to study the pay, deployment, responsibilities and working time of several classes of University employees was passed over considerable opposition at the Student Legislature Thursday night.

Opposing the measure, Charlie Gray (UP) remarked, "I think it is up to the administration to check up on these affairs." He suggested that representatives speak with the chancellor concerning the bill and if he approved, the Legislature should pass it.

Don Dotson (SP) said the bill would be more accurately referred to as a study committee. He didn't believe the intention of the bill was investigation, but that it manifested part of the interest the Legislature should show in financial matters.

Gray suggested an amendment to allow the committee to go directly to the administration for discussion of the matter instead of "being a committee to snoop around checking on salaries."

The amendment was defeated, but the bill was approved as it was originally phrased.

Four new bills were introduced Thursday night.

Dave Jones' (SP) proposal, revising the Election Laws on nominating procedures, was passed under special orders.

Jim Crowover (SP) introduced a measure making a holdover Legislature session mandatory to provide for a one week indoctrination period for all incoming legislators after elections.

Both old and new legislators would be required to attend the holdover session.

Golden Fleece Hears Editor After Tapping

Lenoir Chambers, editor of the Virginian-Pilot in Norfolk, Va., will be the speaker at a meeting of the order of Golden Fleece after the tapping ceremonies here Monday, March 16.

Chambers, who was tapped in 1913, will address inductees into the honorary order at a banquet at the Carolina Inn at 8:30 p.m.

Alumni of the Golden Fleece will attend the tapping ceremonies at 7 p.m. in Memorial Hall, and also the dinner at the Inn.

The Golden Fleece is considered the highest honorary organization on the UNC campus.

The order is now 56 years old, having begun in 1903. Lenoir Chambers is a former North Carolina journalist and former journalism teacher and director of the University News Bureau prior to joining the editorial staff of the Norfolk newspapers.

DR. CLARK PLEADS

Back Health Affairs Division

A plea for the support of the UNC Division of Health Affairs has been made by Dr. Henry T. Clark Jr., administrator of the division.

Dr. Clark, speaking at Thursday's meeting of the Chapel Hill Rotary Club, pointed out that although the size of the student body of the division was growing and operating costs were increasing, the N. C. Advisory Budget Commission had not recommended needed increases in the division's budget.

The Division of Health Affairs is made up of the UNC Schools of Dentistry, Medicine, Nursing, Pharmacy and Public Health and N. C. Memorial Hospital.

The UNC health administrator explained the ABC had not allowed for a needed increase in personnel by the division or for needed salary increases for faculty members. He said this same situation existed not only in regard to the Division of Health Affairs, but throughout the entire University.

On the matter of salary increases for faculty members, Dr. Clark explained the division's future appeared bleak under the present ABC recommendations:

"There is a scarcity of teachers in the health fields. We are not in a position to compete with other schools, because of our salary range, to secure and hold professors. Aside from this, practically any doctor, dentist or other members of our faculty would make more money in private practice or private industry than we are in a position to pay."

Dr. Clark urged the people of North Carolina to lend their support, through their representatives in the General Assembly, to the

BEGINS LECTURE CAMPAIGN

Faculty Backs Budget

By NEIL MURPHY

Members of the UNC faculty will begin a traveling lecture campaign next week to inform the state of Carolina's budget needs. Dean Alexander Heard of the Graduate School has received more than 100 responses from faculty members showing their willingness to assist in making the University's needs known.

"A large number of faculty members have volunteered to do anything they can to assist in getting the budget requests restored," Heard said Friday. "And a large number of these offered to meet informally or speak to faculty and alumni groups throughout the state."

Dean Heard pointed out that the University gets many requests for speakers through the alumni secretary, J. Maryon Saunders, and that the kick-off of the speaking program will be the first of next week.

Speaking of the publicity given the budget by The Daily Tar Heel, Heard said, "The students have the biggest stake of all in this. Any interest they voice is a good sign."

Another point of the University's interest program is the writing of letters to legislators and trustees of the University.

To aid the speakers and correspondents, a group has been appointed to do research and gather important information which is furnished the faculty by Heard. This group consists of Prof. Harold A. Bierck, Dean Henry Brandis, Dr. Henry T. Clark, Dean Fred Weaver, Louis R. Wilson and Prof. Arnold K. King.

One of the facts gathered by this committee, cited as an example by Heard, was a report showing that requests for graduate assistantships (financial assistance) have risen 48 per cent in the past two years.

Campus Chest Lacks $2000 Reaching Goal

"Gunsmoke" promises to be exceptionally good tonight on TV. And if you don't want to watch this popular show, there's (hopefully) a basketball game on radio.

This suggested entertainment for tonight has one notable advantage: it's free. But the annoying problem of the unused money can be easily eliminated when solicitors make their last official rounds to collect for the 1959 Campus Chest today.

The Campus Chest Board set a goal of $3,000 for the annual drive, but through Thursday a mere $1,000 has been contributed or pledged. The drive began the first of the week and continues through tonight.

Solicitors in dormitories will continue to canvass residents for donations throughout today and tonight. Other student solicitors have made the rounds among the faculty and in Glen Lennox and Victory Village.

If this year's Campus Chest drive is successful, the money will be divided among the following participating agencies: $1,200 for the World University Service (to aid foreign students), $1,200 for the Goettingen Exchange Scholarship Program (for Carolina and German scholars) and $600 for the Orange County Mentally Retarded Children's Campus Chest drive this year is Class.

Coordinating the activities of the Doug Kellam, chairman. Assisting her is Dave Davis, assistant chairman. Other members of the Campus Chest Board are: Mary Gregory, secretary; John Whitaker, John Minter, Betty Covington, Howard Holderness, Diana Harmon, Pete Austin, Nancy Aubrey, Denton Lotz and Bob Grubb.

WUNC-TV To Carry Menotti's New Opera

WUNC-TV, Channel 4, will televise Gian Carlo Menotti's newest opera, "Maria Golovin," live from New York at 5 p.m. Sunday.

The two-hour production will be presented in cooperation with the NBC television network and features the NBC Opera Company. Franca Duval will sing the lead role of Maria. Other principals are Richard Cross as Donato, Patricia Ne-way as Donato's mother, and Ruth Kobart as Agata.

"Maria Golovin" was written by Menotti especially for the Brussels World Fair last year. It was presented on Broadway recently, but closed after five performances. It is set in modern-day Europe and tells the story of an unusual and destructive love affair.

Other operas by Menotti are "The Medium," "The Consul," "Amahl and the Night Visitors," "The Saint of Bleeker Street" and "The Telephone."

In order to carry this special opera production on Channel 4, "Meet the Press" usually seen at 6 o'clock will be moved up to 4:30, and "Chet Huntley Reporting," usually seen at 6:30, will not be televised.

Candidate Cites Need Of DTH

Editorial candidate Dave Jones said Friday The Daily Tar Heel needed a greater coverage of the campus and proposed an increase in the newspaper's reportorial staff.

"Every effort must be made to get as many students working on the paper as possible, and when the new group of journalism students come in the fall, the editor should personally try to get them to work for The Daily Tar Heel," Jones said.

He added that this would be beneficial to both the newspaper and the student in that he would have a training laboratory for his work.

In commenting on how he would run his campaign, Jones said, "I am not going to campaign against the present editor, since he isn't running in this election."

He said his grounds for campaign would be present issues and newspaper improvement.

Jones said, "I think the present editor has done a fine job, but in any case there is always room for improvement."

Jones pointed out that developing a large qualified reportorial staff was the key to a newspaper's success.

In Jones' words, "If you don't have the facts, you cannot editorialize, press for advances or anything else."

He reemphasized the need for a training program which would enable reporters to take over for the managing editor and news editor's jobs during the year.

"Although these people will not have had experience, they will learn by their mistakes. Only through doing can a person get a firm knowledge of what is necessary to put out a newspaper," Jones explained.

Jones indicated that he would present his entire platform to the Student Party meeting on March 23, and said even if he received the endorsement, he would not make the paper a one party paper.

Meets State Tonight; Will Play In NCAA

By ELLIOTT COOPER

RALEIGH—It's on to New York for Coach Frank McGuire's Tar Heels. Carolina won the ACC right to advance to NCAA play-offs by defeating Duke 74-71 after State had whipped Virginia 66-63 in the first game of last night's semifinal round at Reynolds Coliseum.

Since State is not eligible to participate in the NCAA eliminations, the Tar Heels will go on no matter who wins tonight's 8 o'clock championship tilt.

Duke kept the pressure on Carolina throughout the entire final 20 minutes of play after being behind 39-28 at halftime.

For the second straight day the Heels got outstanding offensive play from Lee Shaffer, as the big blond dumped in 23 points. Four points back of Shaffer was York Larese who had to sit on the bench much of the second half because of having four personal fouls.

Duke was led in the scoring column by Carroll Youngkin who had 21, but it was little John Frye who kept the Blue Devils in the ball game during the closing moments as he hit for 14 in the final four minutes.

Carolina played it man-for-man all the way, and in the first half it was quite effective in making Duke shoot from outside. Hurt by having both Larese and Keypley with four fouls, Carolina was not as sharp on defense in the second half, and twice the Blue Devils came within one point of tying the score.

As a team neither squad was impressive from the floor, as the Tar Heel hit of 26 of 67 shots for 38.8 per cent, while limiting Duke to 31 per cent.

Duke came out for the start of the game like a house afire, and after five minutes of play they had doubled the Carolina score at 10-5. From this point on the Tar Heels began the rally that carried them on to victory.

Shaffer tied the score at the 12:35 mark with a jump shot that made the count 11-11. After this tying tally Saltz got a layup, Moe a foul shot, Larese a jump, and Shaffer a three-point play, all before the Blue Devils could hit again.

Editorial Board Is Mentioned

Davis Young, candidate for the editorship of The Daily Tar Heel, proposed more extensive coverage of coed activities and the use of a board to write editorials, in a statement issued Friday.

Young elaborated, "In the dim distant past, The Daily Tar Heel provided extensive space for the coverage of social, athletic and intellectual activities among our women students."

He said, as it is now, a visitor from Mars would have trouble realizing that UNC is a coeducational institution.

"Perhaps the necessary space can be found by eliminating editorials which urge the students not to contribute to the Campus Chest," Young said.

He commented that more space should be devoted to such coed activities as sororities, women's dormitories, YWCA, Women's Residence Council, Town Girl's Association, Stray Greeks, Panhellenic Council and Carolina Women's Council than is presently allotted.

Young also said he would introduce to the paper an editorial board, composed of four or five students, each a specialist in some area. "Naturally, though, the editor will continue to bear responsibility for the editorials and indeed for the entire paper," he pointed out.

In the future, Young said he will elaborate on a business management policy.

Playmakers Announce Tryouts

The Carolina Playmakers have announced that tryouts for roles in three new one-act plays will be held at 4 p.m. Monday in the Playmakers Theatre.

The plays are "With Apologies, Euripides," by Douglas McDermott, of San Marino, Calif.; "An Age of Reason," by Robert Meritt, of Yonkers, N. Y.; and "We Might Become Examples," by Arthur McDonald, of Dalton, Ga.

These productions are completely student produced. They will be presented March 19 and March 20.

Tryouts are open to all students. Copies of the plays are available in the office of the Carolina Playmakers, 101 Saunders Hall, for those who wish to read the scripts before trying out.

NAVY PROGRAM

Young men or women interested in the Navy officer candidate programs will have a chance to talk with representatives of the Raleigh Recruiting office and Naval Aviation Cadet Information office here March 18 and 19.
