Journalism Fraternity Initiates UNC Chapter

Carolina will have a new professional fraternity after today.

Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic fraternity, will be installed this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Di Senate Hall. Sigma Delta Chi is a professional group which is devoted to raising the standards of competence of its members, to recognize outstanding achievement by journalists and to promote recognition of the fact that journalism is a true profession.

"Men at the University planning to enter the field of journalism have needed for a long time an organization where they can get together and talk shop," Charlie Sloan, president of the group, said Friday.

Sloan had served as president of The Men's Press Club, the local group which petitioned for a Sigma Delta Chi Chapter.

Other officers of the new fraternity are T. Parker Maddrey, vice president; Don Shaw, treasurer; and George Ford, secretary.

Other members of the group to be initiated in connection with the granting of the charter include Charles Finner, John Hubbard, Roy Lucas, Neil Murphy, Al Resch, Paul Rule, Walt Schrunck, Thurman Worthington, Jerry Shields and Stanley Brennan.

Victor E. Bludorn, Sigma Delta Chi executive director, will conduct the installation and initiation ceremonies.

A full day's activities have been planned for the young fraternity. The schedule opens with a luncheon at the Carolina Inn, and closes with a party at the Delta Upsilon Social Fraternity house.

Fraternity Entertains Delegation

Carolina's Tau chapter of Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity is host this weekend to 50 delegates from 15 PiKA chapters in North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia.

The occasion is the District III convention, which is held alternate years.

Delegates to the convention arrived Friday and will hold business sessions and discussion groups throughout the day.

A banquet tonight at the Carolina Inn will end convention activities. Speaker at the banquet will be Fred Weaver, UNC dean of student affairs.

Special guests here for the sessions are PIKA's national Vice President David C. Powers and national Secretary L. A. McCall Jr.

Grail-Mural Sets Practice For Monday

On Monday afternoon and night, all facilities will be available for Grail Mural practice. Teams may reserve courts and tables by calling the Intramural Office.

Programs with the pairings and schedules have now been released.

As has been stated the purpose of the Grail Mural Sports Jamboree is to bring a closer relationship between the dormitory and fraternity organizations on campus.

The points in the elimination play for the championship in handball, badminton, table tennis, and half court basketball are, 15 for first place, 12 for second, and 8 for third. In archery and foul shooting the division is 12, 11 and 10 respectively. In swimming it is again 15, 12 and 8.

All participants are to report to the bleachers on the main floor of Woolen Gym, and from there they will be in the hands of the leaders of each sport.

The relays for the Jamboree are Maze Dribble, Circle and Run; Throw, Catch, Run and Carry; Block Exchange, and the championship relay is the Baton-Dash Exchange.

The two top teams in the first three relays qualify for the championship relay.

International Board Openings Available

Students interested in serving on the International Students Board have been asked to fill out applications in the student government office in Graham Memorial for interviews March 17 and 18.

The board will be composed of a chairman, 10 members and will be concerned with programs selecting Goettingen scholars, publicizing exchange scholarships, coordinating vacations and trips, international discussions and orienting foreign students on campus.

DUFF, BLAKESHIP, SALINGER

Angus Duff To Head New Activities Board Of Graham Memorial

By EDWARD NEAL RINER

Angus Duff has been approved by the Board of Directors of Graham Memorial as the new president of Graham Memorial Activities Board.

Other new officers serving with him will be Tony Salinger, vice president, and Jean Blakeship, secretary.

Outgoing president Bob Carter said, "I feel we have an outstanding group of officers for the coming year. They have experience and interest in student union work and should lead GMAB to greater heights."

The new officers will work with the old officers until May in a period of orientation. They will take their posts after an installation banquet on April 23.

Carter requested all students "give these new officers assistance during the coming year and through such an effort the GMAB program will expand and continue to benefit all areas of the campus."

Angus Duff said, "GMAB has the potential of providing more useful and helpful service to the students at Carolina in the form of entertainment, information, social life and activities than any other organization on campus."

According to Duff, GMAB combines all forms of student activity into one unifying body, and a student with any interest in any field can find pleasure and satisfaction in it.

"At present, we have had 27 applications for committee chairmanships, the majority being fraternity men. However, we need more girl applicants, for many of the committees function much more effectively with girls as the chairmen," Duff continued.

He stated that his office welcomes any and all who are seeking a position on GMAB, "and with the interest shown thus far, we are certain to have a successful year."

Duff is a sophomore from Greenville and has served as chairman of the Calendar Committee of GMAB this year. He is a Morehead scholar and a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity. Duff is a pre-med student majoring in English.

Majoring in chemistry is Tony Salinger, a junior from Westport, Conn. He has been active on the Student Council, IDC and the Glee Club.

Jean Blakeship is a junior English major from High Point. She transferred from Duke this semester, where she was in the YWCA, Glee Club and judiciary.

The annual "best brother" and "pledge of the year" awards were announced at the dinner scheduled at the Chapel Hill Country Club. A house party is planned for this afternoon and evening.

As a climax to the weekend, the Pi Lambda Phi will have a brunch at the fraternity house on Sunday.

Pi Lambda Phi Has Pledge Weekend

A dinner dance was held on Friday night as the highlight of the Pi Lambda Phi annual pledge weekend, March 13, 14 and 15.

The annual "best brother" and "pledge of the year" awards were announced at the dinner scheduled at the Chapel Hill Country Club. A house party is planned for this afternoon and evening.

As a climax to the weekend, the Pi Lambda Phi will have a brunch at the fraternity house on Sunday.

Nothing To Do?

For students who complain that there's nothing to do at the beginning of the new semester, here's how to rid yourself of the "boredom." Work on The Daily Tar Heel.

'Sloppy' Circulation Hit By Davis Young

The need for improved circulation of The Daily Tar Heel was cited by newspaper editor candidate Davis Young in a statement Friday.

Young said, "As editor, I will make every effort to correct fallacies in the current circulation system of The Daily Tar Heel."

Deficiencies of the current circulation brought to his attention, Young commented, were in Victory Village where the papers in that area are distributed in a "sloppy" manner, unprotected from rain and wind.

"I intend to have a waterproof box installed at the entrance to Victory Village, so that those on their way to the campus in the morning can easily be accommodated at a single centralized spot," he pledged.

Young thinks his plans for improving the circulation method in Victory Village would shorten the circulation route and insure students there of having a paper every day.

Also regarding circulation, Young said he would "make every effort to have papers taken to all places where three or more students live within the corporate limits of Chapel Hill."

He commented that he would also keep close watch over the distribution of papers to dormitories, fraternities and sororities.

Student Government Attempts To Clarify Employee Status

Student government will make another attempt to regain unquestioned jurisdiction over two persons it employs in Graham Memorial, and clarify the status of five others.

Two years ago the attorney general ruled from Raleigh that the two were state employees, and so fall, under the State Personnel Act even though they are paid from student activities fees.

Salaries for these two and one other are voted by the Student Legislature. But if the attorney general's ruling stands, wage scales and mandatory raises would be dictated to the Legislature by the State Personnel Act, Student Body President, Don Furtado said.

There is also some question about who wields authority over these three, and four others employed in the Student Activities Fund office. The latter four are paid from fees charged student organizations using the office.

Monday, Student Body President Don Furtado and Dean of Students Fred Weaver conferred with Attorney General Malcolm Seawell at Raleigh in an effort to have the two-year-old ruling reversed.

Seawell agreed to re-open the

Sound And Fury Tryouts Begin

Tryouts for this year's Sound and Fury production will be held Wednesday.

The production, "Oh Hellas," will have a chorus and several bit parts. Scripts may be checked out from the GM Information Office.

Tryouts for the production written by Lew Harder and Carl Bridgers will be held from 3 to 6 p.m. and from 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday night. Experience is not necessary.

Baptist Student Group Hears About 50th State

It may just be coincidence, but the Baptist Student Union group is having a really up-to-date program Sunday night.

A missionary from what will soon be the 50th state, Hawaii, is scheduled to speak to the BSU on her experiences there last summer. Miss Ann Allred, the Hawaii missionary, was sponsored in her trip to that area by students of North Carolina Baptist colleges through their "Listen" campaign.

Miss Allred will talk to the local BSU after a supper at 6 p.m. Sunday at the University Baptist Church.

Coed Handbook Needs Staff

Coeds interested in a position on the Women's Handbook staff have been asked to leave their names with Mrs. Martha DeBerry in the dean of women's office by Monday at 5 p.m.

Applicants are to state briefly past experiences with publications as well as the phase of the handbook publication they might be interested in.

Any additional information may be secured from Dee Daniels, Handbook editor, at 8-9142 or The Daily Tar Heel office.

Dave Jones Stresses Complete Coverage

"News about every phase of student activity" was stressed by editorial candidate Dave Jones in a statement prepared for release Friday.

"I feel that the stringer system should be fully established throughout the campus. Every dormitory, fraternity and sorority on this campus should have an unofficial member on the staff of The Daily Tar Heel. This would mean that news-worthy events and social news would not be unnoticed," Jones said.

Jones also stressed the value of the revenue and added readership attained through a vigorous subscription program. He said that he approved of the current editor's rate increase and his policy of sending a free copy of The Daily Tar Heel to the parents of each new student.

Jones said, however, that the area of faculty subscriptions has been neglected and that possibly a system with a reduced rate for faculty members could be established so that they might become regular members of the Tar Heel's "reading family."

"The Daily Tar Heel's subscription revenue is not much money considered as a part of an all over $43,000 budget, but I am sure that it could be put to very good use and make it's weight felt," Jones said, referring to the revenue received from subscriptions.

"If I feel very strongly about the importance of 'real news' on pages one and three because I have my serious doubts as to the desire of the students to read badly prepared political and publicity handouts. Some of this stuff can be covered as feature material in areas specifically set aside for that purpose, but on the news pages I would like to be able to learn what is going on everywhere on campus, as well as on the second floor of Graham Memorial," Jones said.

The State Personnel Office, representing all state employees, is finally pressing for enforcement of the attorney-general's ruling. But unless the ruling is reversed regulations of the State Personnel Act will be dictating appropriations of the student legislature, Furtado said.

"This would be completely in opposition to our tradition of student control of student funds."

Frosh Camp Programming Gets Started

Preparing extensively for the expected onrush of 1500 new students in September will be the job of the Freshman Camp Committee when it meets upstairs in the Y building Tuesday night at 7:30.

Designating of various subcommittees to do the planning preparation in a minimum of time will be the major order of business. A decision is also expected to be made concerning whether or not freshman women should be included in the annual camp.

The camp, sponsored by the Y, is "planned to give the incoming students an opportunity to meet and talk with upperclass student leaders, faculty, University officials and other freshmen," according to Freshman Camp officials.

Tri-Delt Scholarship Is Up For Grabs

The 1959 Tri-Delt Scholarship Competition is now under way.

Approximately $400 in scholarships will be awarded to some Carolina coeds. The scholarship program is an international service, irrespective of sorority affiliation.

All women students are eligible to apply for the scholarships; application blanks may be obtained from the Dean of Women's office. The applications must be returned to this office by April 7.

Staff Meet Announced

A Daily Tar Heel staff meeting will be held Monday at 4 p.m. to select a non-paid staff member to the Bi-Partisan Selections Board.

The paid staff representative will also be selected. The board will interview candidates for The Daily Tar Heel editorship and will decide whether or not to endorse each candidate.

PLEDGE—UNC fraternity pledge classes were rewarded Thursday night in Memorial Hall after their annual Greek Week activities of a community work day carnival day and a field day. Left to right, Bryan Latham, chairman of Greek Week, congratulates Jon Barbour, representing the ATO pledge class; Stewart Priddy of the SAE pledge class; John Jester and Pope Shuford of the DKE pledge class, and Scott Griffith of the Beta pledge class. The ATO's have the winning carnival booth. SAE pledges took the most points on field day and the Betas won the scholastic award. The Best Pledge Class award went to the DKE pledges.
