Spring Vote Returns To Be Counted Apr. 8

Ballots in the April 7 election will not be counted that night but will be held over for counting Wednesday, April 8.

The change in the ballot counting procedure was decided by the Elections Board at a meeting Tuesday afternoon.

Hank Patterson, chairman of the Board, said Tuesday that ballots will be sorted and prepared for counting the night of April 7.

He said the Board decided to wait for the actual counting for these reasons:

(1) The counting load will be heavier than in the fall elections after which the ballots were not all counted until early the next morning.

(2) Hasty counting and sorting has resulted in errors.

(3) The polls will remain open in some dorms and town stations until 7 p.m., an hour later than for previous elections.

(4) The handling of Interdormitory Council ballots by the Elections Board will complicate the sorting procedures and consume much extra time.

(5) The several different ballots which have to be used in the election will be compiled into one main set of ballots which will have to be separated for counting.

(6) The lists of voters in the dorms and the cards which are filled out by those voting in town districts will have to be checked with the number of ballots cast in each respective district.

Patterson said the Elections Board hopes to assure correct voting procedures at the polls through sacrificing speed in counting the ballots a day late.

Counselor Applications Due Today

Today is the last chance for Carolina men to apply to be orientation counselors, according to David Parker, Orientation chairman. The deadline for returning applications is 7 p.m. today in 268 Venable.

Blanks may be obtained at the YMCA, the reserve reading room of the Library and the Information Desk at Graham Memorial. Study manuals will also be found at the same places.

The test, covering campus life, will be given to all applicants today at 7 p.m. also in 268 Venable.

Parker stated that approximately 170 counselors will be needed and he urged all interested students to return the completed application forms as soon as possible today.

Tri-Delt Set To Give Coed Scholarship

The Tri-Delt sorority each year awards scholarships to deserving UNC women students. The total amount of these scholarships will be approximately $400.

This program is an international service, irrespective of sorority affiliation. Coeds have been urged to send in application blanks if they wish to be eligible to receive one of these scholarships.

Application blanks may be obtained from the dean of women's office and must be turned in to the same office by Tuesday, April 7.

Judges of the applicants will be Miss Isabelle MacLeod, Dean Katherine Carmichael, Mrs. Robert M. Miller, alumnae adviser; Mary Margaret Durham, Tri Delt president; Futh D. Parderson and Pat Page, service projects chairman.

Smith Outlines Campus And Town Cooperation

Norman B. Smith, Student Party candidate for president of the student body, stated Wednesday that new problems and new challenges are thrust upon the student government now because of the growth of the University and Chapel Hill.

Smith stated that the student associate director on the Chapel Hill Merchants Association was an "encouraging" service to unite the town and the students.

In the next year the activities of the associate director and the students working with him must be expanded to three fields, Smith reported.

He outlined the three fields as follows: (1) a realistic investigation of charges of exorbitant prices to students in Chapel Hill and make recommendations to the Merchants Association, reminding that body what an important factor 7,500 students are in the local economy, (2) continued effort by bad check notification and other means to give the merchants more confidence in student credit, (3) establishment of a student employment agency to be active especially in the fall in placing students in local jobs.

Smith also emphasized the need of student government to cooperate with Chapel Hill and University planning authorities, not only to study placement and facilities of buildings on campus, but to investigate and make recommendations on such projects as the new fraternity courts which will be built, traffic control and new parking lots.

"In recognition of the geographic expanse of our campus, I am especially interested in seeing 10 minute parking areas for students in classroom building parking lots," Smith said.

"This would be very convenient for students who live far away from the central part of campus and want

Student Legislature Reviews Budget Approval Bill Tonight

The Student Legislature will consider approval of the 1959-60 student government budget tonight.

The solons will meet at 7:30 in Phi Hall, 4th floor, Old East.

A bill for approval was presented last session by Charlie Gray (UP), student body treasurer.

Also on the agenda will be a bill, introduced by Ann Harvey (UP), to change the method of selecting jurors for the trying of Honor Council cases.

If the method is approved, a committee will be selected from the Honor System Commission to submit its system for the selection of jurors to the Legislature for approval.

Jury applicants will sign written forms, to be kept in the student government office, and their names will be automatically placed on the list for jury duty for the duration of their stay at UNC. A juror may withdraw with a written statement presented to the attorney general. At present, jurors are selected by interviews with applicants.

Jim Crowover (SP) presented a resolution last session to declare student government policy in the area of enforcement of the drinking rule.

If sanctioned tonight, the legislators will declare that any display of ungentlemanly conduct due to excessive drinking is a direct violation of the Campus Code.

As such, subsidiary organizations and officers will be instructed to enforce the drinking rules, the Orientation Committee will be directed to emphasize the above through presentation of the Campus Code and Honor Code, initial presentation will be publicized through dorm and chapter and pledge meetings and The Daily Tar Heel, and the problem will be emphasized throughout the year.

Jim Crowover Pledges To Work For Students

"The many problems of our campus are all too obvious," said Jim Crowover Wednesday.

Crowover, Student Party candidate for vice president of the student body, went on to say that these problems run from the need for a student union to a codification of judicial and financial policies.

"I can only promise that I will apply myself to the solution of these problems and the betterment of the student community with the same energy and interest that I have had in the past," he said.

Crowover's student government experience includes dormitory president and manager, service on 10 executive committees and in Student Legislature and majority floorleader of Legislature.

"I would like to call to your attention," the candidate said, "several of the problems which I have worked on during my three years here and point out to you the importance of being well-acquainted with the administration in solving these problems.

"I have served either as a member or chairman of committees concerned with the following:

- 1. Procurement of the Avery Canteen.
- 2. Formulation of a more liberal and realistic interpretation of the drinking rule.

3. Extension of free telephone service to the Library.

4. Securing of Hear-Hear phone booths for the dorms.

5. Procurement of more vending machines for the dorms.

6. Purchase of a TV set for the Student Infirmary.

7. Construction of a self-service laundromat on campus.

8. Fairer presentation of student interest in athletic matters, and several others.

"One of the more informal, but important, duties of the vice president is to serve as student government liaison with the South Building administrators. I have worked closely in the solving of the previously stated problems with the business manager, director of operations, director of the University Book Stores, dean of student affairs, director of athletics, University physician and dean of women."

Crowover asserted, "If elected, I pledge to you that I will continue to work hard and try to represent the best interests of each of you in your student government. I urge that you continue to ask questions and offer suggestions—they are needed!"

"2. Formulation of a more liberal and realistic interpretation of the drinking rule.

Glee Club To Appear In Azalea Festival

By BEN TAYLOR

The UNC Men's Glee Club left by bus this morning on a four-day tour which will feature them as the basic singing group for Wilmington's Azalea Festival.

The annual spring tour will take the 40-voiced choir on a quick swing through the Wilmington area and Coker College in Hartsville, S. C. With the exception of today, the entire tour will center around the festivities of the Azalea Festival in the port city of Wilmington.

The club's first stop will be made at Sanford, where they will perform before the assembly audience of the Sanford High School. From there they will travel to Hartsville, S. C. and perform in a joint formal concert with the Coker College Glee Club. A dance will be held afterward.

Friday morning the Glee Club will head north to Wilmington, where they will stay until Sunday afternoon. A practice will be held in Wilmington at 2 p.m. Friday afternoon, followed by supper and the pageant spectacle that night.

The Glee Club will lead the expected audience of 8,500 in singing the national anthem, "Dixie," and "Carolina In The Morning." After an introductory speech by toastmaster Ronald Regan, the Glee Club will give a 15 minute concert of college songs, including "There is Nothing Like A Dame," "Halls of Ivy," "Gaudeamus Igitur," "Carolina Loyalty Song," and the UNC alma mater, "Hark The Sound!"

Saturday, the Glee Club will be free to watch the spectacle of the 12th annual Azalea Festival Parade that afternoon. Several of the Glee Club members will act as escorts for various college queens riding floats. That night they will again perform and close the Festival's variety program.

Sunday morning they will sing before the congregation of the First Baptist Church in Wilmington in a concert of religious numbers. "God Ever Glorious," "Thanks Be To Thee" and "O Brother Man" will be some of the songs sung before the Baptist body.

After dinner at the church, the club will return to Chapel Hill.

David Grigg Opposes Deferred Rushing

David Grigg, University Party candidate for vice president of the student body, said he was opposed to deferred rush and the combination of the Men's and Women's Honor Councils in a statement released Wednesday.

Grigg commented that he was opposed to deferred rush because of financial reasons primarily and he was opposed to a combining of the two councils "mainly because of the uncomfortable situation in which many of our women students feel they would be placed."

The candidate said he was in favor of a study of all phases of the Honor System. He is also urging a study of student finances to assure that the money is being spent to the benefit of the most possible students.

Grigg also said he believes the only permanent answer to the lack of social facilities in the men's and women's dorms is a new and adequate student union.

In commenting on the role of student government, he said, "Student government should concern itself with all of student activity. It should especially be continually seeking ways to lessen the financial burden on the students; it should constantly study such things as dorm rent, UNC Laundry, UNC Book Exchange and Lenoir Hall."

He stated his overall aim is "to give the entire campus my time and energy toward a progressive and realistic program in student government — one which will be close to the students and will serve their best interests."

In discussing the qualifications for the position he is seeking, Grigg said, "I believe the major requirement for the vice president of the student body is to have not only legislative experience, but experience in a wide range of student activity."

"Because he presides over Student Legislature, which deals with practically all student organizations at one time or other, I feel this general knowledge is essential to carry out his duties adequately."

Grigg mentioned that he has served in all three branches of student government. He has been sergeant-at-arms and a member of the Finance Committee in Legislature and currently serves on the Budget Committee.

He has also served on the attorney general's staff and is now a member of the Symposium General Committee.

Grigg said he was able to understand both dormitory and fraternity problems since he had lived in a dorm for two years and is a member of a fraternity.

Gray Cites Economic Strain In Opposing Deferred Rush

Two controversial issues pertaining to UNC fraternities were discussed by Charlie Gray, University Party candidate for president of the student body, in a statement Wednesday.

The two problems he mentioned were deferred rush and discriminatory clauses in fraternity charters.

Gray is opposed to both deferred rush and discriminatory clauses, but he said the inclusion or elimination of the clauses should be left for decision by each fraternity.

Deferred rush, Gray said, would create three problems and possibly eliminate one problem. The three new problems are financial difficulties, dirty rush and a possible decrease in the number of fraternities, he said.

"The economic strain on fraternities would be terrific during a transition period. Many houses are in poor financial condition at the present time and unless these houses can secure additional funds, many surely will have to drop off campus," Gray said.

He estimated the financial loss to most houses would be between $100,000 to $150,000.

Dirty rush would be a real problem, Gray said, for both the IFC and freshmen. The freshmen would lose study time, and a silence period for a long length of time would be "almost ridiculous," he said.

The third problem created by deferred rush, referred to by Gray, "would be that the rich would get richer and the poor, poorer."

He explained that "A fraternity that was attempting to improve its rating would almost have an impossible task, for the outstanding fraternities would receive the outstanding pledges."

Gray admitted that deferred rush might improve a freshman's academic adjustments, but "I think a compromise would be much more desirable than forcing deferred rush on the fraternities."

Gray called for a trial period in which fraternities could prove they can be helpful to incoming students. If this fails, he said, deferred rush might be feasible.

If the Faculty Committee on Fraternities makes a report for deferred rush, Gray said he would continue to fight it "until all hope is lost." Then he would work to help assure the continued existence of fraternities. He mentioned that he had been working on a plan to help fraternities if deferred rush comes, but would not release details of his plan.

Ugly Man Contest Begins

Candidates for UMOG, the Ugly Man on Campus, are being chosen by campus dormitories, fraternities and organizations this week.

Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, is sponsoring the contest which will be held from April 13 to the 18.

The April 9 deadline for applications has been cited by newly elected APO president, Randal Ethridge. "We hope that the dormitories, fraternities, and other organizations that wish to sponsor a contestant will turn in their applications soon if they have not already done so," Ethridge said.

Each organization wishing to sponsor a candidate must submit three 5x7-inch prints of his picture and turn in or mail an application to the APO office, basement of Smith Dormitory. The office is open from 1 to 4 p.m. daily.

The photographs may be obtained for approximately $2.50 from the Photo Lab or may be made elsewhere.

The contest is held annually at many universities and a plaque designed by L. G. Balfour and Co. will be presented to the winning contestant by Ethridge at a meeting of the winner's sponsoring organization.

The contest will be decided through polls maintained at Y Court, the Pine Room and the Scutbutt. Any student may vote for his choice for "UMOG" as many times as he chooses on the basis of a penny a vote.

Refund Set For Defunct Publication

Harken students! A wrong has been righted. Justice has triumphed. Refunds will be made to academic individuals who trustfully invested their paltry fortunes in the Ram and Ewe last year.

Students who subscribed to the "kaput" Ram and Ewe at the first of the year will be refunded 70 cents if they will not present themselves to the Student Activities Fund office on the second floor of Graham Memorial before April 10.

Co-Candidates State Thanks For Support

Davis Young Remains In Race Unopposed

Ron Shumate and Harold O'Tuel announced their withdrawal from the race for Daily Tar Heel editorship.

In a statement released yesterday the co-editor candidates cited "differences in our views which could not have been foreseen before we entered the race," as the cause of their withdrawal.

"The decision was not an easy one to make — nor was it a hasty one," the candidates continued, "but we feel — and certainly hope — it was a wise one."

They added, "Our decision comes with much regret, not only for ourselves, but for those who so faithfully stood behind us and worked for us."

"We wish to sincerely apologize to everyone who supported us — whether it was actively or passively." The pair continued, "We fully realize there are many who gave time and effort to our cause that they really could not afford."

O'Tuel and Shumate went on to congratulate Davis Young, currently unopposed for the editorship, but pointed out that there were still "many differences" in point of view and management of the paper that exist between the co-editor candidates and Young.

They pledged their help to assist Young in putting out a representative Daily Tar Heel during the coming year.

Young, in commenting on the withdrawal, said, "For many reasons, I sincerely regret that Ron and Harold have found it impossible to stay in the race."

He added, "There is absolutely no doubt that had they chosen to stay in, they would have run a strong race and might very possibly have won."

Young concluded by saying, "Their courage and honesty in dealing with their problem, even at the cost of personal embarrassment, is to be commended."

Middle East Crisis Looms In Broadcast

WASHINGTON — Diplomatic officials reported Wednesday the Israeli and Syrian radios have issued a call for all military reserves to report to their units.

Israeli government officials were said to have explained that the call did not mean general mobilization but only signaled normal military training for three units.

A few hours later, reports reaching here said, Radio Damascus interrupted programs to order all military personnel on leave to report immediately to their units.

U. S. Government officials were perturbed by the broadcasts. They said it was difficult to say whether or not they foreshadowed some military action in the Middle East.

Radio Tel Aviv broadcast what it said was a call from the Israeli general staff calling on all Israelis to report to their units. Military personnel were asked to listen for code names telling them when and where to gather.

Diplomatic authorities who have followed Middle East developments say there have been no signs of any sudden dangerous increase in tensions in the area. They were frankly puzzled by the developments.

The Damascus radio broadcast called on all soldiers on leave, as well as reserves, to report to units within 24 hours.

UNC FLOWERS — Maybe Eleanor Smith, left, is cautioning her companion Judith Bunn not to pick the flowers. The girls, both students, are obviously enjoying the beauty of the first signs of spring in the Coker Arboretum on the campus, regardless of what they are discussing. Nevertheless, the plants are there for the enjoyment of all and are not to be picked or removed, according to C. Ritchie Bell, director of the Arboretum. He invited visitors to the Arboretum, one of the world's show places of horticultural excellence, and emphasizes that many of the 34 different varieties of daffodils are now at the height of freshness and beauty.
