'Plans For Survival'--Hester

REGISTRATION LINE . . . that long wait is over

Brigadier General Hugh B. Hester, noted lecturer and writer on United States foreign policy, will speak at Gerrard Hall Monday night at 8 p.m. on the topic, "A Program For Survival."

Hester, a Carolina graduate and a retired army officer, is considered a military expert on foreign policy with more than 34 years of service behind him.

The 64-year old retired army officer is considered an authoritative source on the cold war situation and the Berlin crisis. He is co-author, with Dr. Jerome Davis, of "On the Brink," to be published in the fall of 1959.

Visiting Oxford Prof Conducts Chaucer Class

By J. A. C. DUNN

Those who claim that University professors lead a sedentary, unexciting life would certainly have trouble maintaining their argument in the face of Professor C. L. Wrenn, Rawlinson and Bosworth Professor of Anglo Saxon at Oxford University.

Petition Fights For Juries

A campus-wide referendum scheduled for next Wednesday will decide the fate of a petition calling for jury trials at every Summer Honor Council hearing.

The petition was launched early in the first session by two members of the new campus political party, Campus Independent People's Party (CIPP); Troy Blanton and Bill Miller. 360 signatures were added to the petition, thus forcing the issue to referendum.

The polls for the referendum will be located in front of Gerrard Hall in Y-Court. The polls will open at 9 a.m. and will close at 6 p.m. All summer school students are eligible to vote.

In inaugurating the petition, Miller and Blanton claimed that the absence of juries at summer Honor Council trials violated the judicial machinery set up by the Spring Student Legislature.

John Minter, speaking for the Summer Student Government Board's stand on the petition, said that a bill had just been passed by the Board instituting juries at any trial where the defendant specifically requested it.

He added that a broader sanction of juries was unfeasible because of a lack of interest among students towards volunteering for jury duty.

Insurance Agents To Muster

The 10th annual Institute of Insurance has been scheduled for August 2 through 7 on campus, sponsored by the N. C. Association of Insurance Agents, Inc.

More than 100 agency owners, their employees and others connected with insurance are expected to attend.

The institute will be held in cooperation with the University and the Educational Committee of the National Association of Insurance Agents (NAIA).

Robert M. Senn Jr., CPCU from Greensboro, will serve again as institute president. He announced schedules for an advanced underwriting seminar, as well as regular courses for beginning insurance personnel and for agents with experience.

Three nationally known executives will address the advanced seminar on Monday and Tuesday, Aug. 3-4, discussing the future of the American agency system method of marketing insurance.

Enrollment Plunges To 2600 For King's 2nd Term Estimate

Dr. A. K. King, summer sessions director, Wednesday estimated the enrollment for the second summer session to be approximately 2,600.

"After studying the pre-registration figures and learning how many students have registered thus far today," King stated, "I would estimate 2,600 as a conservative enrollment figure for the second session."

"It is normal," King pointed out, "for the second term to run about three-fourths of the enrollment of the first session."

Enrollment for the first summer session in the nation's oldest summer school was 3,513.

According to Dr. King, 29 programs in undergraduate and graduate fields are being offered during the second session, which begins today and ends on August 22.

Special features of the second term will be the In-School Television Workshop, August 3-21, and the 13th summer session in Dramatic Art for High School Students, July 19-August 22, in addition to other institutes, workshops and assemblies listed on page three of this issue.
