Although the radar is authentic, Planetarium technicians have mounted it on an automobile water pump mechanism to produce an eerie and exciting visible effect in the summer production.

The rocket to the moon is tracked by radar, which has been loaned for the production by the Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps at UNC.

IF YOU HAD YOUR LIFE TO LIVE OVER, WOULD YOU MAKE ANY CHANGES?

Sherry Piper, Jacksonville, a junior education major: "No, not that I know of. It hasn't been a near perfect life, but I guess everyone would make some changes. I wouldn't make any drastic ones—just those little things."

Sophie Martin, Chapel Hill, a senior majoring in English. "Looking back there are a few changes I'd make. This is in retrospect, but now I can see some things that weren't quite the right things to do. But if I did, there would be very few changes because I feel that faced with the knowledge I had at that time, I'd probably make the same mistakes again.

John Renger, Albemarle, a junior history major: "If I had my life to live over again, I'd make the same mistakes, only I'd make them sooner."

Jim Thompson, a graduate student in history, Memphis, Tenn.: "If I had my life to live over again I'd try to be independent wealthy. I've been in graduate school for four years and am now independently poor."

Professor Heatwave

Dear Prof. Heatwave:

All year I have been waiting to get a parking space. People say that there are not as many people in summer school now. But still I can't find a place to park. What goes?

Frustrated

Dear Frustrated:

Now is the time for paving parking areas for the Fall Semester, when students come back with more cars for fewer parking spaces.

Dear Prof. Heatwave:

The other night in a Franklin Street tavern, I thought I saw a

Beatnik. But in closer observation it turned out to be a bearded lady. It's hard to tell these days, isn't it?

Observant

Dear Observant:

What this country needs is a posse of barber rounding up all the Beatniks, male and female, and cleaning up the joints.

Dear Prof. Heatwave:

How many more shopping days are there before Dog Days?

Curious

Dear Curious:

Dog Days begin in August. Look it up in the Library. Don't ask me foolish questions.

Shearin

Dr. Paul E. Shearin, of the Physics Department, has been given a grant for a Van de Graaff accelerator. The generator will be installed early next year, but Dr. Shearin will start moving his offices to the new space provided him near the new computer.

The Van de Graaff generator is to be used for experiments in nuclear physics and radiation damage studies.

UNC All American end Al Goldstein is working out daily in getting his knee in shape. It was operated on during spring practice. He will probably be able to go when pre-season practice opens.
