

Panhel Reception Starts Rush Week

Tonight's annual Panhellenic reception for all undergraduate non-sorority women students interested in participating in formal sorority rush will officially kick off this year's Rush Week. At the reception, slated for 7:30 p.m. in the Graham Memorial Lounge, rushees will receive invitations to the first round of parties and sign a guest book which will be the official rush list. Begins Monday Rush Week begins Monday with a round of informal parties and continues through Tuesday. Rushees will visit all seven sororities—four Monday from 6 to 10:25 p.m. and three Tuesday from 6 - 9:45 p.m. Wednesday will be a day of rest. The second round, scheduled for Thursday and Friday, will consist of visits to three sororities on both days. Saturday and Sunday, open houses will be held. Touring begins at 2 p.m. Saturday and ends at 2:30 p.m. Sunday. Round four consists of visiting four houses Monday. This ends the informal parties and rushees will choose three of the four sororities. A formal progressive dinner constitutes round five and consists of each house entertaining the rushees for an hour beginning at 5:40 p.m. and terminating at 9:40. This will be the final round before bids are issued.

He resides with his wife and three children at 211 Flemington Road, Chapel Hill.

Policy Offers Full Coverage For 12 Months

An insurance policy which protects the holder 24 hours a day is being offered again this year to all University students. Cost for an entire 12-month period is $8 per student, $1 less than last year. Coverage becomes effective the date the student's premium is paid and terminates at 12:01 a.m. Sept. 1, 1960. Insured students will be covered for up to $1,000 for loss of life and up to $200 for surgical benefits. Payments will be made in case of death within 90 days of an accident. The policy will be effect during periods when students are traveling to and from Chapel Hill, during vacations and summer breaks. The insurance plan is made available through the Pilot Life Insurance company in Raleigh. For the married student, there are Blue Cross and Blue Shield programs at a special group rate. They offer the married student coverage for himself, his wife and all unmarried dependent children under 19 years of age. Students who wish to purchase this protection may mail premiums to Student Insurance Plan, P. O. Box 1058, Chapel Hill.

Carolina Outing Club Holds First Meeting

The outdoor type student - male or female will find a home in the Carolina Outing Club, which holds its first meeting Monday night at 8:30 in room 301-A, Woolen Gym, a spokesman for the group announced. Last year this informal group had a series of meetings along the organizational line, in addition to a cook-out and trap shoot at the Physical Education Department staff's lake and a combination cruise, cook-out and water skiing session at Carr Lake. The Outing Club co-sponsored the Big-Four Rod and Gun Field meet with the Intramurals Department. The meeting Monday night is to give the club an opportunity to plan activities for the coming school year and to welcome interested people to join. Anyone can come down and get acquainted without being under obligation to join the club. Plans for this school year already include an outing to Carr Lake in October, a bow and arrow deer hunt to the Uwharrie Preserve during the first week of the bow season, and possibly a surf fishing trip to the coast. The Intramurals Department has purchased two complete four-man camping outfits, including tents and sleeping bags, and several hunting bows and arrows. The Carolina Outing Club is affiliated with the Intercollegiate Outing Club Association. The only other such organizations in the state are at WC and N. C. State. Officers of the club say its purpose is basically, "A means of bringing together those students on campus who are interested in fishing, camping, sailing, hunting, boating, hiking, and all outdoor activities." Membership is open to all students in addition to interested faculty members.

Local Presbyterian Center Completed, Ready For Use

Local Presbyterian students are now meeting in the new Presbyterian Student Center and Fellowship Hall (picture above) which was completed during the summer. The official dedication is set for October 16. The center is the result of years of planning and campaigning across the state and among Chapel Hill Presbyterians. With plans actually drawn before the destruction of the sanctuary by fire April, 1958, these facilities fill the back and side of the church's lot on East Franklin Street and will tie in with the new sanctuary to be begun this fall. Included in the educational wing and center is church school space. There is also an administrative wing containing the church office and library, pastor's study, and offices for the Director of Christian Education and Campus Christian Life staff. In the student wing are a library, lounge and hi-fi room, council and workroom and a small prayer chapel. Furnishings and symbols for the prayer chapel have been specially designed by Margaret Rigg, an artist in Nashville who is managing editor of Motive magazine. There is also a large fellowship hall, kitchen and adult classrooms.

Woolen Gym Dance To Feature Embers

The Embers, a seven-man combo, will provide musical background for an all-school dance Saturday night from eight o'clock to midnight in Woolen Gym. This first dance of the school year is sponsored by the Order of the Grail. All proceeds will be used by the Grail for its scholarship fund and other worthy campus projects. Admission will be $1 stag or couple. Coeds who desire to come in groups will be admitted free. The Embers, headed by Bobby Isaacs, is a combo of wide-spread reputation in the Chapel Hill area. They are known for their soft and flowing music as well as a wide range of good dancing music of all kinds.

PEP RALLY SLATED—To get the first home football game of the year off to a good start, UNC cheerleaders (above) will present a pep rally and bonfire tonight at 6 o'clock on Emerson Field. Head cheerleader Charlie Graham emphasized that the rally will be over by 6:30 p.m., half an hour before the Panhellenic reception. Included with the popular cheers will be this game's slogans, "Claw Clemson," and "Hold That Tiger."

Soviet Premier Hears Lodge Plea For Unity

Here's the announced schedule for tomorrow for Russian Premier Khrushchev during his three-day visit to the city: 8:30 a.m. leaves Waldorf-Astoria by car for Hyde Park, N. Y., 70 miles to the north. 10:30 a.m. visits with Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and goes to the grave of the former president. 11:30 a.m. leaves Hyde Park for New York. 3 p.m. arrives United Nations Headquarters to address a meeting of the General Assembly. 5 p.m. meets Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York at the Waldorf. 5:30-7 p.m. (Open for possible sightseeing tour of the city.) 8 p.m. attends dinner given by Dag Hammarskjold, secretary general of the United Nations, in the U. N. delegates lounge.

NEW YORK — Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge today told Nikita Khrushchev that "I hope and believe that we and the Soviet Union are united in our common desire to be destroyed by another war." Speaking directly to the Soviet premier at a commodore hotel luncheon shortly after Khrushchev's arrival here, Lodge said: "In particular do we believe that this must be true of you, Chairman Khrushchev, for you are not only the Chief of State with all the responsibility that entails, you are also the father whose son laid his life on the altar of sacrifice in World War II and thus symbolizes the bravery of the Soviet army in that struggle." Then, continuing his speech, Lodge delivered a mild but firm lecture to Khrushchev touching on the faith—and the faults—of America as a nation. Lodge, this country's ambassador to the United Nations, spoke of racial discrimination and continued: "As long as one individual is discriminated against, a situation exists which we cannot condone. We work without respite to solve the problem, and there is no doubt at all that regardless of local obstacles, legal segregation will completely disappear." Again addressing Khrushchev Lodge declared: "Mr. Chairman, we are a diverse country of many climates and occupations, containing people of many races and religions. The United States cannot be simply described by a reference to the economic system, and that system, with its intense competition, its wide sharing of earnings, its ever changing character, and its enormous government welfare program, can certainly not be accurately summed up in the one word 'Capitalistic.'" Lodge spoke of the pioneer spirit of the American people, then gravely assured Khrushchev that "we are a nation under God."

Dr. Heusner Prescribes Big Dose Of Plain Common Sense

By ROBERT H. BARTHOLOMEW A large dose of hardheaded common sense has been prescribed for University students by a physician of the University faculty who is a scholar of note. The speaker was Dr. Price Heusner, professor of anatomy at the UNC School of Medicine, a Rhodes Scholar and an honor graduate of the Harvard Medical School. Dr. Heusner was speaking before first year medical students at a meeting of the UNC Whitehead Medical Society. The meeting was held in connection with this week's orientation program for new students. The Whitehead Society is composed of UNC medical students. What Dr. Heusner said, however, would apply equally to all college students as well as the students of the public schools. The UNC physician warned the students that their work would not be light and that success would not come easily. "You dare not set a goal for merely getting by, you must set your goal much higher than this. Work is the magic word in medicine as it is in all fields, but it must be done properly. Blind plodding is of little use." Dr. Heusner outlined three important points of the education process: method, thoroughness and the relationship between the various branches of knowledge. "Method and system are important within the classroom and, perhaps, even more important on the outside of the room. A certain amount of time should be allotted each day for the study of each subject. Devise the system that suits you the best. Take care of today's tasks today and those of tomorrow will take care of themselves." The professor stressed the importance of being thorough. He said that above all other virtues, thoroughness will sustain the student when the various inevitable problems arise. He also stressed the use of dictionaries and other books by the student, although not necessarily assigned him.

Thor-Able Rocket Fails To Orbit New Satellite There was one bright note on the space front today. The rocket plane X15 made its first powered flight over the California desert. The X15 is expected to carry a man 100 miles high at a speed of 4,600 miles an hour. The Cape Canaveral failures came at an inopportune time, propaganda-wise, for the United States. Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev is in the country basking in the limelight of last Sunday's successful Russian moon shot. However, Khrushchev may learn something from the failures: the United States makes no effort to hide missile flops. U. S. officials claim the Russians fire many faulty rockets but don't tell about them. Earlier this week Vice President Richard Nixon said the Soviets made three unsuccessful shots at the moon before hitting the bulls-eye. He did not disclose his source. Khrushchev offered to swear on the Bible that this is not true. Meanwhile, it was announced that an operational type Atlas intercontinental range war rocket launched here last night successfully dropped a simulated warhead on an impact area near Ascension Island, 5,500 miles away.
