$25,000 Given To BA School

The North Carolina Motor Carriers Association Monday gave $25,000 to the UNC's School of Business Administration. A five-year research program in transportation begins immediately, financed by five annual grants of $5,000.

Announcement was made jointly by Dean Maurice W. Lee and by William L. Fayle, chairman of the Motor Carrier's Graduate Research Fund Committee, and by J. T. Outlaw of Raleigh, executive vice president of the Motors Carriers Association.

The $25,000 will provide research fellowships for outstanding students at the graduate level who will be involved in transportation research.

In establishing the Research Fund, the Motor Carriers made special mention of the distinguished contributions to the field of transportation made by School of Business Professor of Transportation, J. C. D. Blaine.

Tribute To Blaine

Describing the fund as "in a real sense, a tribute to Professor Blaine's work in regional and national transportation instruction and research", the Association stated that the support was being given to strengthen the resources currently available to Blaine and the transportation program at the School of Business.

Recipients for the fellowships, individual stipends, and subjects for research study will be determined by a faculty committee appointed by Dean Lee. Full discretion will be given the committee. Blaine will coordinate the research as Professor of Transportation.

Blaine, in commenting on the Research Fund, acknowledged its significance for the graduate research program of the School and the University as well as its implications for the field of transportation in the state and region.

"Distinguished graduate researchers will be attracted to Chapel Hill from throughout the country", he continued. "Research on subjects of concern to industry, business, government and education will now be within our reach."

Significant Impact

In recognition of the gift, Dean Lee made the following statement: "We are particularly grateful to the North Carolina Motor Carriers Association for the thoughtful and purposeful manner in which they have chosen to support graduate research activity at the School of Business Administration. "The impact which an unrestricted fund of this nature will have on the long range development of the transportation program at the School is significant.

No Traffic

Gracie Slated To Hit Coast At Noon To day

MIAMI, Fla. — A hurricane emergency warning was issued Monday for the coastal area from Savannah, Ga., to Wilmington, N. C. The Miami Weather said Hurricane Gracie will crash into that area today.

Now packing dangerous 105 mile-an-hour winds, Gracie has picked up speed. Flood tides five to seven feet above normal were rolling toward the coastal area between Myrtle Beach and Georgetown in South Carolina.

People living in this area of the coast were warned to evacuate immediately before rising waters cut off their escape routes.

The center of the storm is expected to cross the coast of South Carolina in the Charleston-Savannah area about midday today.

The Miami Weather Bureau's bulletin Monday at 2 p.m. (EST) said "This is an emergency warning—repeat emergency warning—from Wilmington to Savannah."

"Safety precautions should be started immediately and completed by early tonight," the advisory said. Winds will increase gradually this afternoon on the coast from North-east Florida up to the North Carolina Capes. Gale force winds will reach the mainland early night.

Hurricane force winds of 74 miles an hour or greater extended outward 100 miles in the northwest semicircle of the storm and 50 miles to the southeast. Gale force winds of 40 miles an hour reached out 200 miles to the north and 125 miles to the south.

The storm may intensify and become more dangerous before it strikes land, the weather bureau said.

Hurricane hunter pilot reported at 2 p.m. that Gracie had increased in forward speed and was moving between northwest and westnorthwest at a speed of 12 miles an hour. It was centered at latitude 29.5 north, longitude 77.2 west, or 275 miles southeast of Charleston.

Gale warning flags flew in the areas from Daytona Beach, Fla., to Savannah, Ga., and from Wilmington to Morehead City in North Carolina. Seas and unprotected waters in the areas of gale warnings will roughen steadily today and seas will become dangerously high and rough by today.

Between Savannah and Wilmington, high tides will flood coastal lands. In some parts of this area tides may be more than seven feet above normal.

Conditions were dangerous for small craft all the way from Northeast Florida to Cape Hatteras.

Car Privileges Given For IDC Dance Weekend

Dr. Jenner To Report On Snails

Dr. Charles E. Jenner, professor and chairman of the University of North Carolina Zoology Department, will report on his latest research concerning the social behavior of the common mud snail Wednesday at a Zoology Seminar.

"Aggregation and Schooling in the Marine Snail (Nassarius obsoletus) or the Marching Mud Snails of Barnstable" will be the subject of the seminar to begin at 4:45 p.m. in room 105, Wilson Hall.

For the past several summers Dr. Jenner has been conducting research at the Marine Biological Laboratory at Wood's Hole, Mass. His studies, together with observations on the snail at other localities along the Atlantic coast, will be described and illustrated with kodachromes and motion pictures.

Pianist Kirkpatrick To Play In Hill Hall

Famous American pianist John Kirkpatrick performs Sunday at 8 p.m. in Hill Hall, in a concert sponsored by Petite Musicale.

He will present a program of American music including the well-known Concord Sonata by Charles Ives, the composition which brought fame and world renown to him.

Mr. Kirkpatrick will also participate in a program of Hunter Johnson compositions Oct. 6 in Hill Hall. This program is part of the Tuesday evening series under the auspices of the UNC music department.

Sorority Rush Nearing End

Sorority rush is drawing to a close. The third and fourth rounds were held Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

The third round parties were given in the afternoons over the weekend, and numbered five in all. The highlights of these were the house tours, giving each rushee the opportunity to see the living quarters of the houses. The K. D.'s featured their plans to rebuild the house this winter, giving it a basement and more living space. The girls dressed for this round in their best Sunday clothes, making the parties more festive and formal.

Each sorority gave four 45-minute parties for the fourth round Monday. These evening parties were more subdued than the others, ending with quiet songs or a small ceremony, the size of the parties has been noticeably reduced each round, giving the girls a better chance to know each other.

The fifth and final round will be held this evening. It will take the form of a progressive dinner, each rushee going to a different house for appetizer, entree and dessert. Wednesday night between 7 and 8 o'clock the bids will be taken around to the girls' rooms, and the rushees are required to remain in their rooms during this hour.

Ike Says Khrushchev Agrees, 'No Deadline'

WASHINGTON, (AP) — President Eisenhower said Monday his secret talks with Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev about Berlin's future led to enough progress to wipe out many of his objections to a summit conference.

At a special news conference, Eisenhower strongly hinted a top level East-West parley is now virtually certain—but not until he consults with British, French, West German and other allied leaders.

The President said that Khrushchev—who once had given the West six months to get out of West Berlin—has now agreed there will be no deadline for East-West negotiators to meet in seeking a peaceful settlement.

Eisenhower said Khrushchev has agreed these talks should not be "unnecessarily or unduly extended." He did not explain whether this meant negotiators would have days, weeks or months to talk.

To Ease Pressure "No one is under duress," Eisenhower said, when asked whether Khrushchev promised to ease pressure on the divided German capital.

"No one is under any kind of threat and, as a matter of fact, he stated emphatically that never had he any intention to give anything that was to be interpreted as duress or compulsion."

Eisenhower gave no clue to the kind of Berlin settlement that might be shaping up.

Khrushchev in reporting on his talks yesterday said he and Eisenhower found much in common in their search for a settlement of the Berlin question.

Di-Phi Debates Steel Strike Issue Tonight

A resolution calling on President Eisenhower to use his emergency powers granted to him by the Taft-Hartley Act to end the 10 and one-half week steel strike will be introduced before the Di-Phi Society tonight.

The resolution will be introduced by Representative Ron Pruett (above).

Under provisions of this act, the President can obtain a court order forcing the strikers to go back to work for 80 days, while an impartial board of "fact finders" investigates the dispute and makes recommendations for its settlement. It is expected that there will be considerable opposition to the resolution by more liberal members of the Society.

PRUETT . . . Representative

The Di-Phi will also hear a report on the nature and extent of its portrait collection by Rep. Roger Foushee. This oil portrait collection of famous Di-Phi alumni members is generally conceded to be one of the finest in the South. A number of portraits are on loan by the Society for display in various University buildings, but the most valuable ones continue to adorn Di and Phi Halls.

And today, Back in Moscow, Khrushchev shouted to loud applause at a homecoming rally: "Long live American-Soviet friendship!"

Khrushchev told the Russians he had found Eisenhower to be a man of peace with the backing of all but a small minority of Americans.

Eisenhower set off a diplomatic furor this morning by telling newsmen he could not guarantee that any settlement would uphold the previous vows to protect the freedom of West Berliners and to guard allied rights.

Special Statement

Within minutes, however, the White House issued a special statement insisting that this answer "Did not mean that the freedom of the people of West Berlin was going to be abandoned or that allied rights were going to be abandoned by any unilateral action."

The President said all he was trying to say by his reply was that he could not at this stage "Give in detail the ultimate solution of the Berlin question." But he specified:

"Any agreement must be acceptable to the people of the area, including the most concerned—the people of West Berlin and the federal republic of Germany."

His earlier remarks at the news conference had said no such thing—to the astonishment of newsmen who felt Eisenhower might be backing down on his previous stand.

"I don't know what kind of solution may finally prove acceptable, as I say, but you must start with this," Eisenhower said. "The situation is abnormal."

"It was brought about by a truce, a military truce, after the end of the war, and it put strangely . . . a number of free people in a very awkward position."

The word "abnormal" is the one Khrushchev and other Communist leaders have frequently used to describe the present four-power occupation of Berlin.

Further, Eisenhower said any new settlement must take into account the views of East Germans and Russians as well as West Germans and allied countries.

Other Main Points

The President made these other main points in replying to questions devoted 99 per cent to the results of his talks with Khrushchev:

1. The Soviet leader showed himself to be an extraordinary man. He appeared to be a passionate believer in the Communist system, switching from a negative and difficult attitude to geniality as he debated issues with the President.

2. He and Khrushchev both deplored the need to spend billions for arms. But no new start was made on the big problem of disarming under proper controls.

3. V. S. Emelyanov, Khrushchev's atomic energy chief, said Russia and the United States must develop the peaceful uses of atomic energy together "because it is just too expensive for one country alone."

4. Khrushchev promised "as a friendly gesture" to take up with the Red China government the prospects of freeing five American civilians now in Chinese Communist jails. Communist China was discussed, but neither side changed its conflicting views.

5. He delayed his good-will trip to Russia until next spring because the weather will be too cold in the fall. Further, he and Khrushchev both have jammed schedules which include on Eisenhower's part visits by Italy's premier, Mexico's president and others.

6. Khrushchev was so deeply impressed with the helicopter rides Eisenhower gave him that he wants to buy one exactly like those used by the White House.

World News In Brief

Turkish Ambassador To Japan, Wife Die

Envoy, Wife Die

TOKYO, (AP) — Sureyya Anderiman, Turkey's ambassador to Tokyo, and his wife Sunday at the Turkish embassy.

Japanese newspapers said the ambassador and his wife committed suicide but there was no confirmation. Police said they received an emergency call from the embassy and found the ambassador and his wife in a coma. Anderiman took up his duties here May 30, 1957.

No Controversy

PARIS, (AP) — The National Assembly in the old Palais Bourbon took the least controversial vote

Monday in its long and tumultuous history.

Technicians called in 495 assembly employes to play the role of deputies in order to test a new electronic voting system. Each desk has three buttons to vote yes, no or abstain.

In the past, deputies walked down to a big urn and dropped in black or white balls signifying yes or no, or voted by a show of hands—often leading to hours of haggling and violent argument.

Today's vote was inconclusive. Technicians said more tests will be made before the machinery can be entrusted to the deputies.

Fire Hits UN Works

GAZA, (AP) — A four-hour fire destroyed the United Nations Relief and Works Agency's Drug and Medical Appliances store, an UNRWA spokesman said Monday. He estimated losses at approximately $45,000. Cause of the fire is being investigated.

Employment Rises

LONDON, (AP) — Unemployment decreased slightly in Great Britain in recent weeks, the ministry of labor reported Monday. On Sept. 14 there were 405,000 persons out of work, 1.9 per cent of the country's labor force. The position is slightly better than in September 1958, when 2.2 per cent were jobless.

Seek Another Turn

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., (AP) — The Soviet Union has asked for a second turn at bat in the U.N. Assembly's general policy debate, now nearing its end.

It had been assumed the speech by Soviet Premier Khrushchev Sept. 18 was intended as the Russian policy declaration. The Russians, however, have requested that Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov, be heard in the general debate next Monday. His speech is expected to deal with U.N. matters not gone into in detail by Khrushchev.
