Fiedler 1st Forum Speaker

Professor Leslie A. Fiedler, currently of the Department of English at Montana State University, will speak here Nov. 17 in Hill Hall, 8 p.m., it was announced by Frank Crowther, chairman of the Carolina Forum.

"It was indeed with great pleasure that we received Fiedler's acceptance to visit under the auspices of the forum," said Crowther.

"Fiedler may unfortunately be unknown to a considerable number of undergraduates, but the forum feels assured that the considerable expense involved in bringing him to the campus will be justified, especially after you hear him speak.

"He is an author, critic, teacher and public speaker extraordinary. Many of his essays have become definitive analyses on the subjects with which they deal."

"If those members of the student body who heard John Frankenhelmer last spring remember the excellence of that speaker's delivery, we can only urge you to hear Fiedler on Nov. 17."

Among the many publications credited to Fiedler are the following: co-editor (with Richard Wilbur) of "Selected Poems of Walt Whitman"; editor of "Master of the Ballantree" by Robert Louis Stevenson; author of "An End to Innocence," "The Art of the Essay", and his most recent publication, "Love and Death in The American Novel."

His essays have also appeared in The Partisan Review, Commentary, Encounter, The Kenyon Review and elsewhere. One of his enthusiastic admirers, Irving Kristol, editor of Encounter, called Fiedler "the most brilliant and imaginative literary and social critic of the post-war generation in the United States."

A fellow critic, Robert Gorham Davis, commented: "His wit, personality, and imagination have blown like a fresh breeze through the guarded solemnities of the academic quarterlies. His perceptive essays continue to be discussed years after this appearance. . . ."

Professor Fiedler will arrive on Monday, Nov. 16, remaining on campus until Nov. 18. During that time, he will speak to various classes and announced assemblies in addition to his formal address Tuesday evening in Hill Hall.

DTH MEET CALLED
Members of the Daily Tar Heel Feature Staff will meet in the Daily Tar Heel office Friday at 2 p.m. Anyone interested in writing features for the student newspaper is invited to attend.

Rules For Germans Concert Released By Dance Committee

By MARY ALICE ROWLETTE
A meeting of the Dance Committee was called last night by Chairman Angus Duff to change the Dance Committee constitution so they might have jurisdiction over the concert. The rules state that the Dance Committee shall have jurisdiction over dances and concerts held in conjunction with dances.

Because the Germans Club is not holding a dance in connection with the concert tonight, it was thought that the Dance Committee would have no authority.

There were not enough members attending the meeting last night to pass the amendment. However, according to Duff, Dick Robinson and Jack Spain of the Attorney General's office both ruled that the Grail Dance is being held in conjunction with the Germans Concert.

Duff said that there would be no smoking or drinking in the auditorium at any time during the performance and that there will be no warnings given, but offenders will be asked to leave the building.

Those people will be brought to trial before the Dance Committee Court or the Student Council, or both, "depending on the seriousness of the act."

He said that persons having bottles, cups, glasses or any container will not be allowed to enter the building. Neither will anyone who is noticeably intoxicated.

"These rules will still be in effect during and after the intermission," said Duff. "And no one will be allowed back in the building if they leave at any time."

Jaycees Slate Halloween Party; Children Invited

The Chapel Hill Jaycees have invited married students' children, 3 to 12 years old, to their annual Halloween party.

The party will be in Fowler's parking lot Oct. 31, 7-9 p.m. There will be free merry-go-round rides and soft drinks.

Bobbing for apples, fishing games and costume judging will be part of the activities. A house of horrors will also be featured.

Gordon Fisher and Jim Russell are the co-chairmen for the event for the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Physical Therapy Meet Gets Underway Today

"Physical Therapy Education through Clinical Experience" is the theme of the Second Supervisors' Conference that will be given by the Section of Physical Therapy of the School of Medicine Friday and Saturday.

Approximately 40 physical therapists from throughout North Carolina and a number of out-of-state participants will be present for the two-day conference.

The purpose of the meeting is to discuss the actual clinical experiences of students who are trained here in physical therapy and receive part of their clinical training at other institutions.

There are four main objectives of the meeting: 1. To discuss 1954 program of clinical experience and clinical affiliation. 2. To present as consultants, guests who have had considerable experience with programs of clinical affiliations. 3. To present correlative discussion from the field of education, Department of Psychology, and 4. To consider the program of clinical affiliation for 1960.

'Bookmarks,' Library's List Of Donors, Now Off Presses

George M. Stephens of Asheville, chairman of the Friends of the Library of the University, has issued the fall edition of "Bookmarks" the official organ of more than 500 people who help to give extra revenues and books to the UNC library system.

A year-long report of library activities revealed by Mr. Stephens shows that of the 513 Friends 66 are life members, indicating individual gifts of $1,000 in cash or the equivalent in books or journals.

The others are patrons, or sustaining or contributing members who give from $100 to $5 annually in support of library needs.

Stephens made special mention of selected acquisitions, from Friends of the Library, as follows:

friends and our friends; a superb collection of books and manuscripts from the Library of Henry HARRISSE presented by his grandniece and grandnephew, Mrs. Bartus Trew and Mr. Albert U. Walter;

"The establishment of a collection of Hebraica and Judaica sponsored and supported by the North Carolina Association of Jewish Men, which includes a goodly number of the members of the Friends of the Library; a gift of $1,000 from your Vice-Chairman, Dannie N. Heine-man of Greenwich, Connecticut;

"150 rare and valuable manuscripts dating between 1560 and 1780 relating to Colonial and Revolutionary history of the Carolinas from Preston Davie; 1,227 items for addition to the collection relating to George Bernard Shaw from Dr. Archibald Henderson; 173 maps of North Carolina from James N. B. Hill of Boston, to mention only a few."

Crownover's Motion For Two Boxes Passes

In a late hour vote last evening, the Student legislature passed the Student Party proposals calling for the election of members of the Student, Men's and Women's Councils by district.

Parliamentary action on the motion, introduced by Representative Bob Nobes Nobles (SP), included a defeat of a ruling by Speaker

David Grigg that it was a bill and required a week's consideration. According to the body's ruling, the measure was tailored by its authors to conform to the provisions of Article VIII of the Student Constitution.

The student body will vote on the measure November 17th.

ABUSE CITED

Undergraduates may lose open-stack privileges, according to Charlie Gray, student body president.

"The present plan is designed for mature, responsible students," said Gray, "but this has not been the case as many incidents have shown."

Noise, disorder and abuse of elevators in the stacks have been the complaint of graduate students and faculty members since undergraduates began to study there.

Such incidents as setting paper afire and undergraduate use of the graduate study room on the fifth floor stacks were cited by Gray.

"I strongly urge students to maintain a quiet, orderly atmosphere in the stacks at all times," said Gray, "believing that open stacks for the whole campus is a central point for complete educational freedom."

The twenty-seventh session of UNC's Student Legislature proved an extremely long and deliberative one as the Patterson-Jones election law was brought up for consideration.

The bill was considered article by article with the first two articles being approved with a minimum of debate. The third article gave rise to considerable activity from delegates as several amendments were proposed.

The article concerns the placement of ballot boxes on campus during elections. Hank Patterson sought to overrule an amendment proposed by the Rules Committee that ballot boxes be placed in each dormitory. His effort was defeated by a standing vote of the delegates after some discussion.

Bob Thompson then countered with a motion to limit Town Men's II, which included big and little fraternity courts, to only one polling place.

The argument was finally resolved by Jim Crownover's proposal that two ballot boxes in Town Men's II, one to be located at SAE and KA fraternity houses.

7th Law 'Day' Slated Here For Weekend

This weekend will mark the seventh annual Law Day to be observed by students and alumni of the Law School. Roy Holdford, social committee chairman has announced the schedule for the Law Day activities.

Festivities begin today with the annual meeting of the alumni of the North Carolina Law Review and the current Law Review staff featuring an informal party at 6:30 at the Tower Restaurant to be followed by a speaker's banquet.

The traditional Barrister's Ball will follow 9 p.m.-1 a.m. at the Chapel Hill American Legion Hut with music provided by the Nick Kearns combo. The ball is sponsored by the Law Student's Association.

Saturday afternoon the law student's, complete with black top hats and canes, will sit together at the football game.

Following the game a reception for returning alumni will be held in the main reading room of the Law School library. Refreshments will be provided by the Law Wives Association.

USIA Official To Speak At Press Meeting

Max R. Grossman of the United States Information Agency will be the guest speaker at the second meeting of the Press Club, November 2, 7:30 p.m., at the home of Dean and Mrs. Norval Neil Luxon.

Born in Russia, Grossman is at present assistant director for Europe of the USIA. While in Chapel Hill he will interview applicants for USIA positions through the placement service.

The newspapers of Austria and Germany are his speciality and his talk may be on them or the USIA.

Max R. Grossman is a qualified man and all should avail this opportunity.

Those that need rides to the meeting should meet at Bynum at 7:15 p.m.

Michigan Professor To Speak Here Saturday

Dr. H. Eldon Sutton of the University of Michigan Medical School will speak at the School of Medicine Saturday, 11 a.m.

Dr. Sutton is an assistant professor of human genetics at Michigan. He will be speaking here in connection with the current Medical Science Lecture Series sponsored by the UNC Medical School. His subject will be "Genes, Enzymes and Metabolic Reactions."

Dr. Sutton's specialty is biochemical genetics and he is the author of a number of articles in this field that have been published in scientific journals.

UNC Psychologists To Edit 2 Journals

Two University psychologists, Professors John W. Thibaut and W. Grant Dahlstrom, have been selected as special editors for two issues of the "Journal of Personality" to be published during the current academic year.

Thibaut is co-author of "The Social Psychology of Groups," a book published recently by John Wiley & Sons; Professor Dahlstrom is in process of completing as co-author the second of two volumes on the Minnesota Multiphasic Personality Inventory to be published by the University of Minnesota Press.

Popular Kingston Trio Performs Here Tonight

By DOUGLAS SMITH
The Kingston Trio, famed vocal group, is still enjoying tremendous popularity as it performs for UNC students tonight at 8:30 in Memorial Hall.

Since their first album was released in June, 1958, Bob Shane, Dave Guard, and Nick Reynolds have become one of the hottest new properties in the entertainment business. Their single recording of "Tom Dooley" has sold well over a million records.

The threesome were discovered a little over a year ago by San Francisco publicist Frank Werber while they were attending college in northern California.

They made brief appearances at the Hungry 1, Facks 11 and several other San Francisco bistros, then they opened for a week's run at that city's showcase for young talent, the Purple Onion. This week stretched into seven months.

After their West Coast engagement, the Trio sang at Chicago's Mr. Kelly's and New York's Village Vanguard and Blue Angel, were featured on Playhouse 90, then returned to the Hungry 1 for a long summer run.

Their second album, released in January, 1959, is a live recording of their Hungry 1 appearance.

Dave, the acknowledged leader of the group says, "We don't really consider ourselves folk singers in the accepted sense of the word, but it was our basic interest in this

Frame For Homecoming Display 'Borrowed'

Missing: one 12' by 15' wooden frame which Teague Dorm had planned to use in a homecoming display.

The frame, an essential part of Teague's display, was "borrowed" from the dorm sometime Wednesday night, according to President Pat Morgan.

SWEATER, ANYBODY?

A brown chashmere cardigan, size 40, was found two days ago on the Emerson Field Stands. The sweater can be claimed at Room 2 Old West.
