By ELLIOTT COOPER
SPORTS EDITOR

ANYBODY WHO was here two years ago when Carolina played Tennessee on Homecoming Day may find it a little hard to believe that the professional odds makers figure this year's scrap as a virtual tossup. We can still remember vividly, though with some pain, that the final score was 35-0 in favor of the Volunteers. Bowden Wyatt's single wing, exactly like the one you'll see tomorrow, completely crushed the Tar Heel defense as it rolled up 338 yards rushing. The result of this bombing 's fresher in most people's mind than is the 21-7 Carolina win in Knoxville last year.

About a month and a half ago Look Magazine came out with its annual pre-season football forecast and in this article author Tim Cobane predicted that the only game Carolina would lose during the entire campaign would be the one coming up Saturday. Tennessee now stands a better chance of making the sage look good on this particular game since the Tar Heels have already lost three times. The Carolina coaching staff certainly knows what to expect but how to stop it is a horse of another color because the old fashioned single wing seems to go hand-in-hand with victory.

FROM OUR School Spirit Department we offer the following story for your consideration on the eve of Carolina's Homecoming Day. It seems that earlier this week in Birmingham, Alabama, there was a football game between two Negro high schools. Now during this contest it seems that one of the teams was playing with twelve men and this was the start of the trouble. As a result of this, according to the Associated Press, "Two boys were shot and a 70-piece band was routed from the bleachers by knife-wielding fans."

During all the excitement the extra man left the field but it took the police some time to quiet the enthusiastic rooters who were warming to the occasion. After the shots were fired the lawmen locked the gates of the stadium and began a search to try and locate the gunman. "Police finished their night's work," the story continued, with a bushel basket of knives, razors and other weapons, including two loaded revolvers." After reading something like this you would have to admit that the cheering in Kenan Stadium is refined beyond a shadow of a doubt.

UNDOUBTEDLY, one of the toughest jobs in football this year is the one held by Virginia Coach Dick Voris. The Cavaliers have not won a game all year and their future doesn't look too bright since their remaining four contests are with Wake Forest, North and South Carolina, and Maryland. On every Saturday with the exception of one the Wahos have been led to the slaughter and thoroughly worked over. It is certainly too bad when one of the teams in the conference has such a horrendous year that they provide absolutely no competition.

The Cavaliers came close once when they got edged out by VMI 19-12 but outside of that they have never been closer to an opponent than 26 points. In three of the six games Virginia has played it has been shut out while the opposition has racked up 117 points. The UVA student newspaper looks at the latest 33-0 loss to Vanderbilt this way. "We hasten to remind these disappointed fans, however, that judging from the comparison of scores with the only common opponent, Florida, Vanderbilt had the potential to outscore the Wahos by 52 points. Maybe we were lucky after all."

UNIVERSITY of Delaware Coach Dave Nelson, speaking to a group of football writers several days ago in New York, came up with an idea similar to the foreign policy theory of a ban on nuclear weapons. Nelson's plan would ban any rule changes in the game for the next five years. "Now I think we have a real good medium," he said, "and we should let it alone for at least five years and give it a chance to work. Too many changes on a year-to-year basis are only going to confuse everyone and they won't help the game."

Nelson went on to say that while many college coaches were in favor of moving the goal posts up to the goal line he thought it would prove more of a handicap than an aid since players might easily be hurt by running into them. He also said that the rules committee, of which he is a member, is trying to standardize the rules governing high school and college play. This rules business is an interesting setup because each year you think you have the best possible arrangement and yet something always gets changed when next season rolls around. It would be nice if the Delaware mentor could get his wish.

Tar Babies Oppose Deacons Here Today

By Richard Soles
Carolina's unbeaten Tar Babies will field the same crew that started against Maryland for today's encounter with the Wake Forest frosh at 2 o'clock in Kenan Stadium. It will mark the home opener for Coach Joe Mark's freshman charges.

The Tar Babies have beaten State 28-0, and Maryland, 34-20, while the Baby Deacons have lost to Clemson, 36-0, and State, 14-7.

Quarterback Junior Edge, 190-pounder from Fayetteville, will direct Carolina's attack. He has thrown four touchdown passes in the two games played to date while scoring one.

Backfield Starters
Bryant Hamaker and Roger Smith both of whom turned in fine performances last week, will start at left and right halfback respectively. Bucky Cozart, the ball-carrying workhorse for the Tar Babies, will be at the plunging post.

Gene Sigmon and Steve Yates will be at their respective end spots. Bob Knight and Hugh Colvin will handle the tackles, while Jerry Cabe and Duff Greene will play the guard positions, with Joe Craver anchoring the line at center.

The Wake Forest probable starting lineup will be: LE, John Badoud, 200; LT, Tom Lally, 230; LG, Dick Bell, 218; C, Chuck Boling, 215; RG, Calvin Smith, 200; RT, Geoffrey Miller, 260; RE, Dick Quast, 200; QB, Walt Schaller, 183; LH, Donnie Frederick, 173; RH, Bruce Valley,

175; FB, Gary Haddad, 207. Dunham Doubtful
It is still doubtful as to whether Wally Dunham, who scored 26 points in the State game, will be able to play. He was used only sparingly in the Maryland game. If he is unable to play, the fleet-footed Smith, will start in his place.

Hamaker, the other halfback, has done a yeoman job, filling in for Jimmy Addison, who was injured before the first game with a shoulder separation.

Smith, likewise has played excellent ball, coming into his own in the Maryland game by scoring two touchdowns and leading the Tar Babies ground game.

Cozart, the big fullback, has been a bull at that position but Joe Robinson has been pressing him hard.

WRESTLING MEETING

There will be a meeting of all varsity and freshman wrestling candidates this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the wrestling room of Woolen Gym. Coach Sam Barnes says that it is not necessary for a student to have had wrestling experience in order to try out for the team.

Booters Seek Second Win Over Davidson

By Tom Cordle
DAVIDSON—The unbeaten Carolina soccer squad will face once-beaten Davidson here this afternoon. The Tar Heels, who have already defeated the Wildcats earlier in the season, will be out to repeat the performance.

Davidson is currently riding a five-game winning streak. Since losing to Carolina 4-0 in their opening game the Cats have beaten Belmont Abbey 2-1, King College 3-2, Belmont Abbey again 4-1, Pfeiffer 5-0, and Duke 3-2. Mike Laughlin, Tom Bruns, Glyn Hughes, and Tommy Price pace the Davidson attack.

The Tar Heels have done very well both offensively and defensively in their last two games. Both contests were against weak opposition, but the Heels scored 15 goals to none for Emory and Pfeiffer. The Davidson game will not produce this kind of fireworks, however, since the Cats have a greatly improved team compared to the one which Carolina played almost a month ago. The regular team will start for Carolina. This puts John Ghanin, Mike Thompson, Joe Perkins, Charlie Whitfield, and Tom Sprinkle on the offensive line with Hugh Goodman, Bill Stem, Tom Ewins, Bob Quackenbush, and Tom Cordle at the defensive posts. Marvin Blount will start in the goal.

Every game is very important now for the Tar Heels. They are one of the five teams in the Southern Region being considered for the first NCAA soccer playoff to be held next month. If the Heels can remain undefeated, the South's representative will probably be the winner of the Carolina-Maryland game which is scheduled to be played here on Monday, November 16. The Tar Heels return home Tuesday to meet Roanoke College.

Dr. Frood, Ph. T.T.

Dear Dr. Frood: When raccoon coats swept the campus, I wore a polo coat. When the English bobby cape came in, I wore a raccoon coat. I'm always in last year's style. How come? Dated

Dear Dated: This is an anxiety complex arising out of being a "late-diaper" baby.

Dear Dr. Frood: I am irrationally, incalculably, irrevocably in love with a girl on campus. How can I tell her? Lovesick

Dear Lovesick: Use small words.

Dear Dr. Frood: When I listen to stupid people or read anything boring, I fall asleep. What can I do? Superior

Dear Superior: Yours is an extremely difficult prob mfh zzz

DR. FROOD'S MORAL OF THE MONTH

Most college students today do not know the meaning of the word "adversity." Those who do are just a handful of English majors.

Dear Dr. Frood: How can I leave my husband without making him happy? Prof's Spouse

Dear Prof's Spouse: Leave a note saying you'll be back.

Dear Dr. Frood: Our library is full of "no smoking" signs. When I want a Lucky, I have to go outside. Is this right? Furious

Dear Furious: It's monstrous. But think of the poor souls who go outside only to smoke brand X or Y or Z.

Dear Dr. Frood: Boys are always whistling at me. Do you think my clothes are too snug? Prudence

Dear Prudence: It's impossible to tell without a picture. Send one. Please.

DR. FROOD TELLS WHO HOLDS HIS CIGARETTE HOW

I have noticed that the solid, conservative type carries his cigarette between his first two fingers. The nonconformist carries it locked in the bend of his arm. The self-conscious type holds his lighted cigarette in his pocket. The most intelligent species of all carry Lucky Strike (usually between their lips).

When it comes to choosing their regular smoke, college students head right for fine tobacco. Result: Lucky Strike tops every other regular sold. Lucky's taste beats all the rest because L.S./M.F.T.—Lucky Strike means fine tobacco:
