

WEATHER

Increasing cloudiness with occasional rain spreading over east and west portion. High in 60s.

VOLUME LXVIII, NO. 48

Complete Wire Service

CHAPEL HILL, NORTH CAROLINA, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 14, 1959

Offices in Graham Memorial

FOUR PAGES THIS ISSUE

CAROLINA FORUM

Fiedler To Speak Here On Tuesday

Leslie A. Fiedler, professor of English and head of the Humanities program at Montana State University, will deliver the first address for the Carolina Forum in Hill Hall Tuesday, Nov. 17, at 8 p.m.

The topic of Fiedler's speech will be "The Image of Man in Contemporary Fiction." He will be introduced by Maurice Natanson, of the UNC Department of Philosophy.

Fiedler has spoken at more than 25 universities throughout the United States and Europe.

The address is open to the public. A reception for Fiedler will be held in Graham Memorial immediately following the speech. Best known as an essayist, Fiedler is the author of "An End to Innocence" (1955), "The Art of the Essay" (1958) and "The Jew and the American Novel" (1959).

A seminar and discussion based on his most recent essay "Love and Death in the American Novel" will be held Monday, Nov. 16, in Gerard Hall from 3 to 5 p.m. Juniors, seniors and graduate students are invited.

Since 1941, when he received his Ph.D. from the University of Wisconsin, Fiedler has published more than 250 poems, stories and articles which have been translated into French, Spanish, German, Italian and Swedish.

After serving as a Japanese interpreter with the Navy and Marine Corps during World War II, he received a Rockefeller Fellowship in the Humanities for postdoc-

Steel Strike Hit U.S. Hard

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13 (AP) — The government today was reported ready to release figures showing the steel strike hit the national economy even harder than expected. The third quarter report on the Gross National Product, due out Monday, is expected to show a substantial decline for the July-September period.

The Gross National Product, or GNP, measures the total value of all goods and services produced and is regarded as the best single indicator of economic movement.

Officials who have seen the new figures said they show a "surprisingly sharp" drop from the record rate of the April-June second quarter. The seasonally adjusted rate for April-June was 484½ billion dollars.

The rate for the July-September period is reported to be under 480 billion dollars a year. This would be a much sharper drop than was estimated last month by the president's council of economic advisers.

PLANETARIUM GETS MILKY WAY—Manager A. F. Jenzano checks in the Milky Way projector and other new scientific instruments to be mounted integral with the Morehead Planetarium at Chapel Hill and make it the most modern in the Western Hemisphere. In the foreground are the two tremendous collars of 42 separate projectors, each with a motor, to permit proper demonstration of variable stars of the first and second magnitude.

toral work at Harvard.

As a Fulbright Fellow, he taught American literature at universities in Rome, Bologna and Venice.

He was named Junior Fellow in the School of Letters at Bloomington, Ind., in 1952.

During 1956-57, Fiedler served as President Fellow in creative writing and Kenyon Review Fellow in Criticism at Princeton University. While at Princeton, he was a fiction judge for the National Book Award, and he delivered the Christian Gauss seminars.

Among the honors received by Fiedler was William F. Howells Prize for Poetry (1950). One of the most significant was from the National Institute of Arts and Letters which cited him for "excellence in creative writing."

Another enthusiastic admirer, Irving Kristol, editor of "Encounter," has called Fiedler "the most brilliant and imaginative literary and social critic of the postwar generation in the United States."

Culture Comes Despite Crowd

Neither rain, nor snow nor a capacity crowd in Memorial Hall can prevent some people from soaking up a modicum of culture.

At the Oppenheimer lecture the other night, two typically dressed drowagers, complete with fur tippets, stood in the center aisle scanning the auditorium for seats. When the search ended in vain, the two devotees of the arts adjusted their wraps and slowly settled to the floor, where they remained for the duration of the program. It could only happen in Chapel Hill!

Other oddities seen on the Hill: ... blue skies for five straight days.

... a red-faced freshman picking up a package at the Post Office addressed to Freddy Frosh.

... the campus intellectual bemoaning the state of the world. "What this country needs is some integrity. I'd sell my soul for some integrity."

... campaign posters littering dorms, Y-Court, Lenoir Hall and trees.

... a croquet set in the lower quad.

... a football game without black umbrellas.

... drink machines that don't devour nickels.

Following the thundering applause after the Oppenheimer speech and the crowd noisily moving out of Memorial Hall, one lone student remained in a seat in the first row of the orchestra pit—awake!

Pharmacists Are Entering New Building

The School of Pharmacy began moving into its new million dollar headquarters yesterday, and first classes in the new building, located across Pittsboro Road from N. C. Memorial Hospital, are scheduled for Monday.

Dr. E. A. Brecht, dean of the school, announced that the entire move would be completed by Nov. 21. For all practical purposes, the interior of the building is now complete, and workmen are currently engaged in laying walks and landscaping the area.

Renovation of Howell Hall, which is being vacated by the Pharmacy School, will begin next month, and the School of Journalism will occupy the remodeled building.

The new pharmacy building was erected and equipped at a cost of $1,340,000. It will enable the School of Pharmacy to double its previous enrollment.

With the completion of this building, all five schools of the Division of Health Affairs are located in one area of the campus. The other schools comprising the Division are the Schools of Dentistry, Medicine, Nursing and Public Health.

Testimony Contradicts; Leads To Continuation In Student Council Case

The Student Council Thursday night suspended action on the case of Joe Perrini, "to clear up some contradictions in testimony."

Perrini, a senior from Queens, N. Y., was before the Council on charges of reckless and careless driving. It is alleged that he nearly ran over a campus policeman on the morning of Oct. 22.

Perrini had previously been tried in Chapel Hill Recorder's Court and found innocent, on the grounds that he was not driving the car.

Student Council chairman Erwin Fuller stated that "there is guilt" in the case, and that the Council "will pursue the case to finality."

The contradiction in testimony Fuller mentioned was between that given in Recorder's Court and that presented before the Student Council Thursday night.

The difference arose when the owner of the car testified before the Council that another person drove the car, after he had testified before Recorder's Court that he was driving the car on the morning of Oct. 22.

However, the car owner stated several times that "Perrini did not drive the car."

The proceedings will be turned over the Men's Honor Council for further investigation.

According to testimony given by the owner of the automobile, Perrini drove the car early on the

Drinking Habits Formed Early

DETROIT (AP) — Your drinking habits as a teen-ager set the pattern of your drinking throughout life, including old age.

That's the finding from the first, extensive research of the alcoholic drinking of people 60 or older reported here today by a St. Louis sociologist.

Dr. David J. Pittman of the Washington University School of Medicine told of his research at the 13th annual meeting of the Gerontological Society. Gerontology is the scientific study of old age.

Of the moderate and excessive drinkers, Pittman found the majority began drinking between 16 and 20 and a good share had started between 12 and 16. Most of the older people who drink excessively began between 12 and 16.

Pittman drew from the research the conclusion that "if a person has not drunk before 25, it is not likely that he will begin."

Women are less likely to drink than men, according to Pittman.

SENOR CARLOS SEGURA, DICTATOR OF COSTA RICA, (Glenn L. Vernon of Prichard, Ala.) hands Pedro Mendosa, one of the revolutionists (Bill File of Anderson, S.C.) a shovel with which to clean up part of the mess that was caused by a bomb dropped by the revolutionists.

The new comedy by Brock Brower, "A Little to the Left," will be presented in the Playmakers Theatre by the Carolina Playmakers, November 18-22 at 8:30 p.m.

Saturday night is completely sold out and a few tickets are left for Friday night. Tickets are still available for opening night (Wednesday), and for Thursday and Sunday nights at the Playmakers Business Office, 214 Abernethy Hall, or at Ledbetter-Pickard.

CAMPUS BRIEFS

IN WASHINGTON

John W. Thibaut of the Psychology Department was in Washington, D. C. last weekend attending a meeting of the review board of the National Science Foundation.

INFIRMARY

Students in the infirmary yesterday were the following: Julian Bradley, Wayne Kerstler, Inez Constat, Cowles Lipfert, Dolly Joyner, Jan Moffitt, John Haynes, William Aiken, Robert Servier, William Jacobus, Robert Gillikin.

IDC BLAZER SALE

Due to the success of the recent Blazer Sale, the IDC Honorary Society hopes to be able to award two scholarships next semester. The committee's selection process is already under way.

One hundred blazers were sold at a profit of $200.

N. C. Education Association Sponsors Math Conference

Public school principals, superintendents and math teachers will be on campus Friday and Saturday, Nov. 20 and 21 for a mathematics conference sponsored by the North Carolina Education Association.

The meeting will be held in conjunction with the mathematics departments of the Consolidated University.

Principle speakers will be Prof. Neal H. McCoy, Smith College; Julius Hlavaty, head of the mathematics department of DeWitt Clinton High School, and Dr. John Carr, director of the Research Computation Center here. "We feel particularly fortunate in securing our three speakers," said Herbert E. Speece, president of the department of mathematics of the NCEA.

Has Taught Extensively
Prof. McCoy has taught in several National Science Foundation institutes and has participated actively in meetings of high school and college teachers.

Hlavaty, director of the Commission on Mathematics is on the advisory committee of the school mathematics study group.

Dr. Carr is one of the leading men in the country in the field of high speed computers.

Outstanding North Carolina teachers will participate in a panel discussion Saturday morning on experience in teaching textbooks prepared by the school of mathematics study group. Members of the panel will be Miss Margaret Eason, Gray High School, Winston Salem; Ray Forbes, Daniel Junior High School, Raleigh; Mrs. Jeanne McKinnon, Garinger High School, Charlotte; Mrs. Ruby Smith, Asheboro High School; Mrs. Eugene Womble, Renolds High School, Winston Salem.

The conference will begin Friday at 3 p.m. in Venable Hall.

Dr. Carr will speak on "How Digital Computers May Influence Mathematics Teaching." Conducted tours of computer facilities, featuring newly-acquired Univac 1105, will be held.

At 8 p.m. in Venable, Dr. McCoy will lecture on "Equivalence Relations in Mathematics."

Speech Topic

"Relation of Work of the School Mathematics Study Group to the Work of the Commission on Mathematics" will be the topic of Hlavaty's speech Saturday at 9 a.m. in Gerrard Hall. A panel discussion will follow.

A business meeting will be held at 11:15 a.m. with adjournment scheduled for noon.

Win-Hungry Virginia Seeks First Win Against Heavily-Favored Tar Heels

Cavaliers Have Pangs Of Hunger After Losing 16 Consecutive Games

Virginia, still looking for its first win of the season, moves into Kenan Stadium this afternoon at 2 o'clock to tangle with Carolina in what shapes up to be a wide-open football game between two teams which want to prove that their records are not as bad as they seem.

Even though the Tar Heels enter today's play with a 3-6 slate, they have been installed as heavy favorites to add another defeat to the Cavaliers' rapidly expanding list. Dating back to last year Virginia has gone sixteen games without a taste of victory and would like nothing better than to put an end to this nightmare with a win against Carolina.

This will be the sixty-fourth time that the two rivals have met in what is the longest uninterrupted Southern series on record. Since 1892 when the first meeting was held the Tar Heels have built up an overall lead of six games with the record standing at 33-27-3.

Passing Figures
Although both teams have not fared too well defensively, Carolina being rated seventh in the ACC in total defense and Virginia last, each one shows definite improvement in the offensive ratings. In pass offense the Tar Heels are tops with an average of 114.6 yards per game and the Cavaliers are right behind with a mark of 113.9.

In the aerial department Carolina's quarterback Jack Cummings will be matching tosses with his Virginia counterpart Stan Fischer. A sophomore, Fischer took over the Cavalier QB post from early season starter Arnold Dempsey and now ranks third in the conference in passes attempted.

Goldstein Leads
By hauling in five passes for 97 yards against Miami, Carolina end Al Goldstein has taken over as the leading receiver in the Tar Heel lineup. Through eight games Goldstein had grabbed seventeen passes for 248 yards but is still seven catches and 242 yards behind the figure he set at the end of the '58 season.

Carolina Coach Jim Hickey has made one lineup change this week but except for it he will start the same team today that he has been using for the past several weeks. The lone switch finds Jim LeCompte replacing Paul Russell at the right guard spot.

Carolina Backfield
In the Tar Heel backfield Hickey will probably go with Cummings at quarterback, Milam Wall and Wade Smith at the halves and Bob Elliott at fullback. In addition to these Ray Farris, Skip Clement, Joe Davies, and Don Knochak should see lots of action.

Unfortunately for Hickey, sophomore halfback Gib Carson, out since the South Carolina game with a broken hand, will most likely be forced to sit out another one even though doctors hoped he might be ready to go for sure in this game.

Up front the Tar Heels will start off with John Schroeder and Goldstein at the ends, Don Stallings and John Stunda at the tackles, Frank Riggs and LeCompte at guards, and Rip Hawkins at center.

Dental Alumni Hold Postgraduate Seminar

The fifth annual postgraduate seminar and annual meeting of the Dental Alumni Association will be held at the School of Dentistry Dec. 2.

The guest speaker this year will be Dr. John A. Anderson, a graduate of the Northwestern University Dental School. He is in private practice and also holds a teaching position with the school from which he graduated.

Registration will begin at 8:45 a.m. and Dr. Anderson will present his first lecture at 10 a.m. on "Modern Design of Office and Equipment for Increased Efficiency." He will speak again at 2 p.m. on "Eliminating Waste Time and Frustration from Everyday Dental Practice."

News In Brief

HAVANA, Cuba, (AP) — A three-hour plus television appearance by Prime Minister Fidel Castro failed to answer so many questions that there was general expectation here today he will make a return appearance soon. The broadcast, ending early today, was termed a flop, even by some of his most ardent Cuban supporters.

HAVANA, Nov. 13 (AP) — Cuba rejected today Washington's contention that efforts are being made here to replace traditional U. S.-Cuban friendly relations with hostility and distrust.

The American point of view, as expressed in protests of Oct. 27 and Nov. 9, was rejected as unfounded. The Cuban reply was delivered today to U. S. Ambassador Philip Bonsal.

The lengthy note, which covered almost every major phase of Cuban-U. S. relations, reiterated accusations that American-based planes bombed Cuba. It cited specifically bombings of two sugar mills in central and western Cuba last month.

Leaky Virginia Defense May Plug Gaps Today

By C. J. UNDERWOOD

If a football team ever found itself in an unenviable position, the Tar Heels have that distinction today.

Security Seminar Is Held

The first meeting of the Duke-UNC National Security Seminar was held here Wednesday night with a paper given on the "cold war" and plans made for a Dec. 9 meeting on the Duke Campus.

Both faculty and graduate students from the two institutions attended, and heard Dr. Andrew Scott, associate professor of political science here give a paper on "Cold War and National Security." His talk was followed by a discussion period.

The next meeting to the seminar, the first such inter-university group in the country, is scheduled for Dec. 9, when Duke historian Samuel Bright will speak on "Jean de Bloch and the Future of War."

Duke participants in this week's gathering included Dr. Theodore Ropp and Dr. I. B. Holley Jr. of the history department. The UNC group included Prof. Olin T. Mouson of the economics department, William Geer and Robin D. S. Hingham of the history department, and Capt. Edward L. Foster and Lt. Ambrose A. Clegg Jr. of the Naval ROTC unit.

G. M. SLATE

Activities scheduled in Graham Memorial today include:

Student Party Headquarters, 1-11 p.m.; Roland Parker III; After Game Party, 4:30-6 p.m.; Rendezvous Room; Free Juke Box Dance, 8-12 p.m.; Rendezvous Room.

Longest Rivalry

Today's battle will be No. 64 in the Virginia-Carolina series, longest and most continuous of the South's major college football rivalries. The Tar Heels will be looking for their 33rd win against 28 losses in the series. There have been three ties.