

Phi Delt's Grab 33-27 OT Win In Intramural Tournney

Two Layups By Jonas Give Game To 'Sots'

BY RICHARD SOLES

Two layups by Charlie Jonas clinched a 33-27 overtime victory for the Phi Delt Sots over the ATO Plumbers in the Intramural Basketball Tournament Thursday night.

The ATO's took an early lead, only to see the Phi Delt's battle back to knot the score at 25-all when the regulation game ended. Shortly after the tap in the overtime stanza, Jonas hit a layup and followed with another, to put the game on ice.

Jonas was top man for the winners with 12 points, followed by Grubbs with 10. John McMillan of ATO was individual point-getter for the con-

A Young Man's Fancies Turn— But Football Gets In The Way

BY RIP SLUSSER

And then comes spring when a young man's fancies turn to football?

This may not be completely true, but around 80 young men will think very seriously about it this afternoon as coach Jim Hickey sends his Tar Heel gridders through the first large scrimmage of spring practice.

Kenan Stadium will be the center of the event. Students and the public are invited to attend. Action will get underway at 2 o'clock.

Such outstanding players as quarterback Ray Farris; halfbacks Gib Carson, Lenny Beck, Jim Addison and Ward Marslander; end John Runco; tackles Tony Hennessey and John Hegarty, and centers Gary Truver and Joe Carver will shed the rust from winter inactivity against the rest of the masses.

Many members from last year's freshman team will see considerable action to see whether they may be ready for duty next fall. This applies to some of the boys who were held out last fall.

Coach Hickey said yesterday that he thought the boys were looking "pretty good." At this point of the game it is quite difficult to make any comment about the way the boys are shaping up. This afternoon's activity will give Hickey a better chance to size up his prospects for the coming campaign.

Sophomores Will Tell The Story For UNC's Tennis Team

BY RIP SLUSSER

Defending ACC tennis champions North Carolina faces a 21-match schedule this year with only two regulars returning from last season's squad.

Bruce Sylvia, the 1960 individual singles champion, and Tommy Ricks form the nucleus of coach Don Skakle's '61 contingent. Despite the fact he has only these two lettermen, Skakle is quite optimistic about the coming campaign.

Outstanding Sophs

The cause for his joy is the presence of several outstanding sophomores to bolster his forces. Chief among the first year men is Keith Stoneman, a towering young man who served as the number one player on last year's frosh unit. Stoneman's powerful serve and steady all-round game could put him in the second spot on the varsity this spring.

Two other sophs will possibly add considerable strength to the Carolina net corps. George Zimmerman, who alternated between the second and third spots last year as a freshman, will certainly be counted on for help. Likewise Dave Morgan.

Sylvia Tops

Senior Sylvia, who hails from Richmond, Va., will definitely be the number one man on the team, if not in the conference. Bruce came along rapidly last season and showed his progress in the last two weeks of the campaign when he topped defending ACC singles champ Bill Cullen twice. The last time was for the crown.

He also teamed with Ben Keys, who has since graduated, to capture the doubles crown.

The Tar Heels open their season on March 24 against Dartmouth. They wind up the regular season campaign in Winston-Salem on May 3 against Wake Forest.

SCHEDULE: March 24-25, Dartmouth; March 27-28, Michigan State; March 29-30, Williams; April 1, The Citadel; April 3-4, Harvard; April 5, MIT; April 6, Kalamazoo; April 11, Davidson; April 14, Virginia; April 15, Maryland; April 17, Davidson; at Davidson; April 19, Cincinnati; April 24, Duke; April 28, South Carolina, at Columbia, S. C.; April 29, Clemson, at Clemson, S. C.; May 2, N. C. State; May 3, Wake Forest, at Winston-Salem; May 11-12-13, ACC tournament, in Durham.

Seven Champs To Be Challenged In Upcoming ACC Indoor Games

BY PAUL HOUSTON

Seven champions are back but have strong challengers on their hands—that is the picture for the conference division of the eighth annual Atlantic Coast Conference Indoor Games here Saturday, March 11.

In addition to the conference, the Games will include non-conference and freshman divisions.

Non-conference entries include defending champion Florida, V.P.L., William and Mary, Furman, the Citadel, V.M.I., Davidson and Richmond. All ACC freshman teams will participate.

Four of the defending league champions are from Maryland, landslide winner of the Games last year with 82 points. One is from South Carolina. The co-champs in the broad jump, also from Maryland and South Carolina, will likewise return.

Nick Kovolakides, Lance Hodes, Dick Estes, Jonas Spiegel, and Bill Johnson of Maryland, and Dan Upton and Paul Masem of South Carolina are the 1960 winners who will be back.

Outstanding newcomers expected include Virginia's Dick Hoagland in the high jump, North Carolina's Ben Seagle in the 600-yard run, and North Carolina's Scott Brent in the 880-yard run.

The closest competition, according to meet manager Joe Hilton, is expected in the shot put, two-mile run, pole vault, and the 70-yard high and low hurdles.

Duke shot putter Dick Gesswein, a sophomore, won the freshman division title last year. In the two mile, North Carolina's Rett Everett, Maryland's John Garten, South Carolina's John Drake, and Clemson's Jim Moorhead will do battle.

The pole vault competition puts Maryland's Tom Glass and John Belitza and North Carolina's Barrie Tiedemann and Heath Whittle against each other.

Bill Johnson of Maryland is back to defend his titles in the 70-yard high and low hurdles, but he will be pushed this year by Jim Brown of North Carolina and Charlie Bradshaw of South Carolina.

Brown is a transfer student who was ineligible last year. Running unattached, however, he defeated Johnson in an exhibition race outdoors and has beaten Olympic star Elias Gilbert in AAU competition.
