UNC College Sets Record In Attendance

"UNC's Evening College has had a record turnout for the evening courses being offered during the current semester," said Evening College Director Sim Wilde Jr. today.

"Approximately 400 Evening College students are now enrolled for the college's 19 courses," Wilde said, "and registrations are still trickling in."

Wilde said that response to the program's course offering was 100 per cent increase over last year's enrollment, and a record for one semester.

Evening College enrollment is proportionately ahead of regular UNC enrollments thus far. Wilde said that the increase is due primarily to increased numbers of courses being offered, and to the growing reputation of the College.

Many students unable to enroll at UNC this fall because of overcrowding have signed up for the Evening College course.

Roughly one-half the Evening College students this fall are from Durham. A large percentage come from Chapel Hill, and a number drive in from Greensboro.

Student Legislature will meet tonight at 7:30 on the fourth floor of New West. All members must attend.

Provisional Cease-Fire Called

NDOLA, Northern Rhodesia—President Moise Tshombe of the Katanga announced Wednesday night that he and United Nations negotiators had agreed on a provisional cease-fire to become effective at one minute after midnight.

Tshombe's announcement to a news conference at Ndola airport came after a day of negotiations in which each side gloomily hinted at failure and an outbreak of civil war. Central Congolese government troops had been reported invading the breakaway province.

U. S. And U. S. S. R. In Disagreement

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y.—The United States and Russia announced Wednesday they were unable to agree on how general disarmament talks could be resumed or who would take part in them.

But they filed with the United Nations an agreed-upon set of aims for any future disarmament program should a way be found to the talks started again.

A full-scale general assembly debate is expected later in the current session, with the United States and Russia leaving it to the United Nations to decide who should take part in future talks and where they might be held.

Esther Spares N. C.

NORFOLK, Va.—Hurricane Esther spared North Carolina and Virginia Wednesday by swinging its vicious 130-mile-an-hour winds to a more easterly course that menaced an area from Long Island to Cape Cod.

New York City was expected to escape the brunt of the big, powerful hurricane, but forecasters warned residents of the nation's largest city to brace for gale force winds.

Slim General Assembly President

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y.—The United Nations General Assembly Wednesday unanimously elected Mongi Slim of Tunisia as its president and was reported veering toward selection of U Thant of neutral Burma as a caretaker successor to Dag Hammarskjold.

The unaligned powers, chiefly from Asia and Africa, were reported executing strong pressure on the Soviet delegation—and Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev—to accept U Thant as acting secretary general despite Russian demands for a three-man secretariat.

Mobilize to Guard De Gaulle

PARIS—The government Wednesday mobilized helicopters, mine-detector cars and thousands of extra police to guard President Charles de Gaulle against a possible new assassination attempt during a four-day tour of farming areas.

De Gaulle is making the tour of restive farming provinces in south central France less than two weeks after he escaped death in a bomb attack on his car on a highway in eastern France.

Ulbricht Gets New Power

BERLIN—East Germany's puppet parliament Wednesday gave Communist chief Walter Ulbricht sweeping new powers to mobilize industry, private property and the state's man power through East Germany's first draft.

The unanimous parliamentary action was the highlight of a day that saw the hard life of the average East German become even harder.

Students Study Cultures

Field work is a requirement for graduate students preparing for careers in anthropology. This summer a larger number than in any previous year spent time studying various American people.

Richard Nonas and his wife lived with Cree Indians in Attawapiskat, a trading post on the muddy shores of James Bay, Ontario. Evelyn Todd combined school teaching and anthropological research in a bush community of Cree Indians up in far northern Ontario.

The National Institute of Mental Health enabled Norman Whitten to travel to Venezuela for research on culture change. Norman Swezy visited the Sioux Indians in South Dakota to study how their culture has been transformed.

Related Research

Linguistic and related research called Arthur Rubel to Mexico and took him to a variety of local communities.

One graduate student, Frances Ferguson, is currently enroute to India under a grant from the National Institute of Mental Health. There she will study the Hindu doctrine of emotional aloofness as it fits in the context of Indian culture and personality.

Gilbert Kushner and his family left for Israel where he plans to study the assimilation of Oriental Jews into the cosmopolitan culture of the Jewish state.

The material collected by these field workers will in most cases form an integral part of their masters' theses or doctoral dissertations.

50,000 Shares Donated

By MARGARET ANN RHYMES

Alumnus John Motley Morehead last night brought his UNC benefactions to a total of $17 million by donating 50,000 shares of Union Carbide Corporation stock to the Morehead Scholarship Foundation.

The stock is valued at approximately $7 million on today's market, which will bring an expected annual return of $180,000.

The announcement was made by his nephews, John Lirsey Morehead of Charlotte, at a banquet held in the Morehead Planetarium, one of the donor's first gifts to the University.

The nephew explained that as the program advanced successfully, its income was supplemented by annual donations from Mr. Morehead. The returns of the 50,000 shares of stock will replace these yearly benefactions, he said.

Created In 1945

The 90-year-old philanthropist created in 1945 the John Motley Morehead Foundation, which built the Morehead Building and Planetarium.

His other gifts to his alma mater include the Morehead Sun Dial, Morehead-Patterson Bell Tower, the Copernican Orrery, an apparatus showing the positions and motions of solar system bodies, the Morehead art gallery and $5,000,000 worth of Union Carbide stock to the scholarship fund.

As an engineer in the early 1890's, Morehead discovered a method to make calcium carbide economically, a development that led to the industrial giant of Union Carbide.

He has been highly honored by the United States and other nations, and held the rank of Minister to Sweden under President Hoover. He was named for his grandfather, twice governor of North Carolina and founder of the North Carolina railroad.

Among those attending last night's banquet was United Nations Mediator and former UNC President Frank Porter Graham, Governor Terry Sanford, Congressman Charles Raper Jones, President William C. Friday and Chancellor William B. Aycock.

Rightists Hit NSA

"I denounce the United States National Student Association without any reservation," the executive secretary of the extreme right-wing Circuit Riders, Inc. recently wrote to Bill Straughn, NSA co-ordinator here.

M. G. Lowman, the executive secretary, wrote in answer to a query by Straughn last month.

The reply included circulars for several recent publications of the Circuit Riders. The publications denounced 2109 Methodist Ministers, 1411 Episcopal rectors, 614 Presbyterian clergymen, 660 Baptist clergymen, plus 600 miscellaneous educators, including Albert Einstein, as being Communist or pro-Communists.

Some of the Circuit Riders literature cuts across church lines. Such as the book, "30 of the 95 Men Who Gave Use to the Revised Standard Version of the Bible." The 35 mentioned are reportedly Communists.
