Alone In Second Place, Will UNC Stay There At Maryland Tonight?

By CURRY KIRKPATRICK

Three overtime games and a three-point decision ago (before the Charlotte weekend) four teams flitted around the ACC's second place. Now there is one. Despite its second double-overtime defeat of the year to Clemson Friday, North Carolina takes the floor against Maryland tonight alone in the league's runnerup spet.

Clemson's 45-43 overtime loss to N. C. State Saturday coupled with the UNC 84-81 decision over South Carolina left the Tar Heels at 6-4 and the two South Carolina clubs at 5-5. Wake Forest, pending outcome of tonight's game with first place Duke (10-0) is UNC has its place only after weathering a splendid shooting performance by Ronnie Collins on the second night of the most successful North-South series in history.

A two-night crowd of 19,500 attended the Coliseum show, and 11,611 of them were there Saturday as Collins brought South Carolina back from a 40-31 deficit at half to a 79-78 lead with 2:30 left in the game.

Collins scored a remarkable 29 points in the second half after being saddled with three fouls during the first period. The 6-3 jump shooter finished with 35 (breaking Billy Cunningham's one-day-old record of 33) but his last point came a bit too soon, and he left on fouls 14 seconds before the end.

Mike Cooke scored two fouls at 1:15 to give the lead back to UNC, but Jimmy Collins tipped in a bucket for a Gamecock margin (81-80) with 46 seconds

Cunningham then drove around John Gorsage underneath for the deciding basket at :26. He missed his free throw and another one seven seconds later. UNC kept possession, however, and Bill Brown missed a one-and-one. The Tar Heels again got the rebound. Charlie Shaffer was fouled, and his two free throws got the 84-81 win with three seconds left.

Ronnie Collins' 16 for 27 floor performance may have been averted with Bryan McSweeney in the UNC lineup. But the Tar Heel forward went home to New York Saturday morning with stomach pains, and Collins was able to break the North - South field goal record-probably because of it.

Cunningham got 27 points Saturday and, with 33 against Clemson Friday, established another North-South mark for two games.

His 25 rebounds against South Carolina (15 in the first half) fell two short of his own record set last year.

Perhaps the most pleasing aspect of a week which saw UNC lose two games they could have won-and win another by less than they should have-was the resurgence of Mike Coeke.

"We've been kidding Mike about the new shoes he got before the NYU game," Coach Dean Smith said Monday, "But it looks like something sure has helped him."

Cooke, displaced as a starter in the Wake Forest game, got 15 points against NYU last Wednesday and kept the Tar Heels in the game after Cunningham left on personals.

But it was his performance over the weekend that really brought the raves. He shot nine for 17 from the floor against Clemson and added three foul shots for 21 points. In the South Carolina game, he scored 24 on 11 of 13 field goals and two free
