Duke Busts State's Stall In 2nd Half

RALEIGH — Little N. C. State met big Duke here last night, and the Wolfpack, following their boss' orders, made an interesting game out of it—for one half.

Ahead by only six points at the half as a result of Ev Case's slowdown tactics, the Blue Devils decided they had had enough of this foolishness. And after the intermission Vic Bubas' boys simply scored and scored and scored, 51 points worth to put a decisive 75-44 end to all hopes of a first-round upset of the tourney favorite.

Tonight at 7:30 the Blue Devils, who are so good it is an insult to make them play in the tournament, will meet the winner of last night's UNC-USC clash.

Big 6-10 Jay Buckley was the man who ruined Case's well devised stall game last night. The guy, who has been playing like never before in the last three weeks, was magnificent as he hooked in 21 points (13 in the first half). Jeff Mullins was the only other Devil in double figures, getting 15—mostly on driving jump shots in the second half.

The first half was excitement in slow motion. The Pack waited for four minutes and six seconds before they took a shot. Then they missed, but Duke hadn't been scoring either (mainly because State had possession 90 per cent of that time), and when Pete Auksel hit State's first field goal at 14:52, it put the wolves ahead 3-2.

This pace continued, with Auksel doing the scoring when State decided to shoot. The big forward got 11 in the first half and 15 for the game. His two buckets right at the end of the first period cut what had been a 10-point Duke lead to 6 (24-18) as the half ended. If State had not thrown numerous passes away and missed easy shots, they might have had the lead at this point.

But Duke busted the whole thing wide open in the second half, and the only State man who could hit was Larry Worsley (15). When State tried to catch up, they were done for. Thus ended a valiant try by the "old Gray Fox."

Deacons Use Balance, Top Cavaliers

RALEIGH — Wake Forest, the only team in the ACC to beat Duke this season, wants another crack at the Blue Devils. The Demon Deacons think they can knock off the defending champs again—this time in the finals of the ACC tourney.

Yesterday Bones McKinney's crew fulfilled a prerequisite to its goal, turning back the game Virginia Cavaliers, 79-60, in a first-round game which at times looked as though it might produce an upset.

Playing without their high-scoring star, Chip Conner, the Virginians, on two different occasions, made quite a game out of the contest which wasn't supposed to be much of a contest.

At the start of the game, the Cavaliers decided to hold the ball. They did, and as a result Wake had nothing but a big goose egg on the scoreboard after three-and-a-half minutes of play. Unfortunately, Virginia had gotten only one for itself during this time.

Butch Hassell scored the first basket for the Deacons at 16:23, putting the Baptists in front, 2-1. For the next five minutes the lead sea-sawed back and forth. The Deacs finally broke away mid-way in the half on consecutive buckets by Hassell, Dick Carmichael, Bob Leonard, two free throws by Leonard and another goal by Christie, making it 20-11.

Christie, hitting nine-of-ten from the floor, was the game's high scorer with 21 points. Ronny Watts was next with 18 (and 14 rebounds), and Hassell, Carmichael and Leonard each had a dozen, giving Wake its effective balanced scoring attack.

The Deacs withstood a second-half assault by Virginia, midway through that period, which saw the Cavs pull to within seven points. The surge was led by Jerry Sanders and Mac Caldwell, the latter being his team's high scorer (12 points).

Tonight the fidgety McKinney sends his second-place club against third-place Clemson in a 9:30 semi-final game.

APOLOGY

The Daily Tar Heel wishes to apologize for the misleading headline over yesterday's lead story. Bill Graham, rather than Vance Barron, was awarded the Goethen Scholarship. Barron was selected as first alternate.

Invitations

Graduation invitations will be on sale in Y-Court from 9-3 today, Monday and Tuesday. These are the official invitations and are being sold by the Order of the Grail. All graduating seniors are urged to place their order, as this is the last chance.

SG, Administration Agree On Managers

By JOHN GREENBACKER
Student Government and University Administration officials have reached an agreement of the payment of intramural managers salaries, ending a six month dispute.

The Administration and Student Government have agreed to each provide one half of the costs.

Student Government paid nearly $3000 from its budget last semester in support of the program, according to Student Body Vice President Bob Spearman.

Spearman said the decision to pay Student Government's half will be made by male residents in a referendum vote this spring. If the referendum passes, male residents will pay thirty cents each per semester to cover costs. Student government's previous means of paying the intramural costs was termed unfair by Spearman, as it required taking money from the Student Government budget paid by all University students.

The intramural program began as an experiment in 1962 when it was sponsored entirely by Student Government.

The Physical Education Department agreed to help finance the costs in 1963 if the program was successful. It proved to be, and the Department decided to put the program on its fall budget.

The Department's request was turned down by the Administration, and for the entire fall semester Spearman and Men's Residence Council President Gerry Good worked to get the appropriation restored.

Dean of Student Affairs C. O.

Cathey announced the Administration's approval of the plan yesterday in a letter to Spearman.

Termining the intramural program very worthwhile, Spearman said, "I hope the fee will be passed in referendum. This would enable us to continue paying the intramural managers."

Chest Drive Ends Today

By UNHAPPY ALLISON

The Campus Chest has issued its annual plea for cash and hopes to have a record year.

The Chest has chosen to emphasize its contribution to the World Clothing Fund, one of several charities it supports. The solicitation drive ends today.

During the past year, the Fund has helped over 50,000 school children from Southern mountain communities return to school by providing them with adequate clothing.

Besides free lunch programs, the Fund has arranged for county schools to receive up to $150 per day of state aid for each day the child stays in class, thus helping to improve education facilities.

The Fund estimates 100,000 school children will require aid this year.

The Campus Chest has called on students to help the Fund attain its goal.

Strauss Poem Read Tonite

It has been said that music soothes the savage beast. And the music of Richard Strauss is ideal to soothe even the most savage of beasts.

Especially if it's Strauss' "Enoch Arden" as performed tonight at 8 in Graham Memorial Lounge by Joel Carter and Charles Horton.

Carter, director of the UNC Men's Glee Club, will read the poem with background piano accompaniment by Horton, chairman of the Music Department at Campbell College.

Don't forget now . . . tonight at 8 in Graham Memorial Lounge. The music of Strauss' "Enoch Arden" performed by the duo of Carter and Horton.

Kathy Chalk Named DTH Kite Queen

Boom!

Miss Kathy Chalk, a blond bombshell from Morehead City, N. C., has been named queen of the first annual Daily Tar Heel Kite Contest.

She is a senior and a member of Alpha Delta Pi sorority.

When informed of her selection, the queen commented, "but I don't know how to fly a kite."

Fred Seely, DTH Kite Tail Editor and chairman of the selection committee, said kite flying ability was not considered in the judging.

"Kathy should make an outstanding kite queen," he said, "even though she is neither flighty nor high-strung."

Kathy said she is looking forward to seeing Saturday's contest, which now has several entries in each category.

Among the entries yesterday was ATO fraternity, which has promised "the most beautiful kite in the contest." The Delta Upsilon pledges also entered, but are undecided on their category.

Hugh Stevens, DTH Kite Editor, said yesterday that all contestants should meet at the Intramural Field no later than 1:20 p.m. Saturday.

"We want to start by 1:30," he said, "so that the contestants will be able to recover all lost kites by nightfall."

He reminded all entries that in order to win in a particular division, all kites must fly "to the satisfaction of the judges."

"We will leave the precise qualifications up to them," he said, "and we will set a time limit on the distance category."

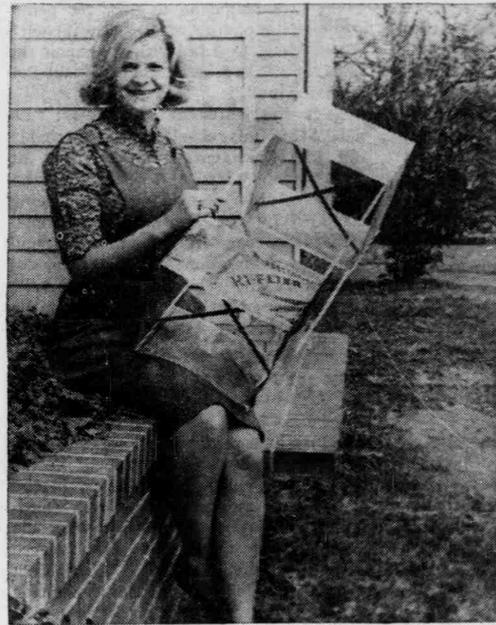

Stevens also indicated that the DTH Kite Team, "The Tar Heel Flyers," would be on hand to fly a kite, though not in competition.

Prizes for the contest have been donated by The Hub, the Dairy Bar, La Pizza, and Kemp's.

The judges will be Joel Fleishman, legal assistant to Governor Sanford; Otelia Connor; and Gary Eden, WKIX disc jockey.

Judging will be in four categories: distance, largest kite, smallest kite, and most beautiful kite.

Entrants may sign up by calling the DTH office at 933-1011 between 1 and 6 p.m. today.

Miss Kathy Chalk

UNC Hosts AED Regional Meet

The 15th national convention of Alpha Epsilon Delta, international premedical honor society, opened here last night with an address of welcome by Dean Carlyle Sitterson.

Region III, consisting of chapters in seven Southeastern states is host for the three-day convention.

The opening business session last night was highlighted by reports from national officers, Dr. Maurice L. Moore, national secretary and director of new product development for Sterling Drug Inc. and executive vice president of Winthrop Laboratories in New York City, and Dr. Charles V. Reichart, national treasurer and chairman of the biology department at Providence (R.I.) College.

Morning and night business sessions and a tour of the medical school, N. C. Memorial Hospital and the dental school were on the agenda for today.

A three-hour "premedical conference" tomorrow morning will preview the next decade in medicine. Dean W. R. Berryhill of UNC and Dean Mason

Meads of Bowman Gray School of Medicine in Winston-Salem will be on the program.

Other conference speakers will be Dean Mason Meads of Bowman Gray School of Medicine, Dr. William Joyner of Chapel Hill, Dr. Robert Zeppa of the School of Medicine, Dr. William W. Demeritt, assistant dean of the School of Dentistry, Dr. Edward McG. Hedgpeth, chairman of the admissions committee at the School of Medicine, Dr. Robert L. Tuttle, assistant dean and chairman of the admissions committee at Bowman Gray School of Medicine, Dr. Joseph E. Markee, assistant dean and chairman of admissions at the Duke School of Medicine, and Dr. Roger E. Sturdevant, chairman of the admissions committee at the School of Dentistry.

Dr. Nathan A. Wornack, professor and chairman of the Department of Surgery at the School of Medicine, will be the keynote speaker at the conference luncheon.

Awards will be presented at the luncheon meeting.

Awards will be presented at the luncheon meeting.

Tar Heels Take The 2nd Half

By JOHN MONTAGUE

RALEIGH — North Carolina broke out of its slump last night, outscoring South Carolina 48-33 in the second half, to come off with a sweet 80-63 victory in the first round of the ACC Tournament here.

The win, which was sparked by the first-class performance of four individuals, means the Tar Heels have the unbelievable task of meeting Duke again—at 7:30 tonight in the semi-finals.

With Billy Cunningham as hot as a firecracker and Ray Respass turning in the best "inside" game of his career, the Tar Heels prevented the tragedy of ending the season with five straight defeats.

The Kid hit for 34 points (15 for 23 from the floor) and couldn't miss in the first half, when he got 21. Respass was not far behind. He had 24 points, many of these came under the basket in the midst of flying elbows it was Ray who led the decisive second-half pull-away, scoring 16 points.

Joining Billy and Ray were two sophomores—Johnny Yokley and Bob Bennett—both of whom turned in long-awaited steady floor games.

It was definitely the second half that made the difference. UNC brought a slim 32-30 advantage out of the dressing room, and even in the second half it took them a while before they could bust open the nip-and-tuck contest.

They opened up an eight-point lead early in the second period, but saw it slip away to three points (42-39) before Respass turned the tide.

He converted a three-point play at 12:22 and followed with two more quick field goals to make it 49-41. Then the Kid got hot again, getting ten points in four minutes, giving UNC a 64-48 lead. The Tar Heels were never in trouble after that.

'Careers' Opens Today At UNC's Knapp Hall

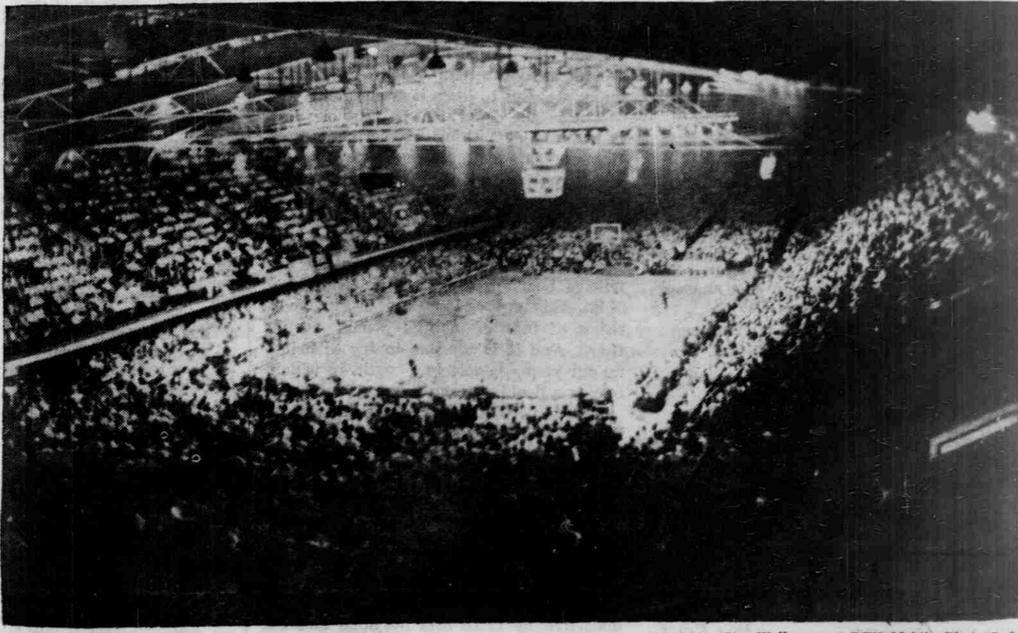

"Careers For Carolina," a program designed to familiarize students with the opportunities in the field of public service, starts its one-day stand today at 9:30 a.m.

All sessions, with the exception of the luncheon, will be held in Knapp Hall (The Institute of Government).

Knapp Hall is located next to the intramural field adjacent to Woolen Gym. The luncheon, which costs $2.15, will be held at the Carolina Inn.

SOLICITOR ORDERED
The Judge of U.S. Middle District Court Wednesday ordered the Solicitor and three defense attorneys to answer or "respond" to a petition transferring 932 cases to Federal Courts.

Judge Edward M. Stanley gave the attorneys and the solicitor until March 12 to make their replies known to the Court. The action came after three defense attorneys pulled a surprise move in Orange County Superior Court by filing a petition charging the defendants could not get a "fair trial" in any court in the State of North Carolina.
