

Track Team Hosts ACC Indoor Games

By BILL LEE

Carolina's indoor track team will conclude a highly successful season this Saturday as they play host to the ACC Indoor Championship Meet.

Undefeated in regular season conference competition, the Tar Heels find themselves up against the strong Maryland team of Coach James Kehoe who have won the championship every year since 1955.

Carolina did not meet Maryland in regular competition, but came away with victories over NC State, Clemson and South Carolina in dual meets, and Duke, Wake Forest, Davidson and State again in the Big 5 Indoor Championship.

Coach Joe Hilton, however, has an optimistic view. "Maryland is, of course, odds-on favorite to win, but Wake Forest and UNC have improved this year. Also, Clemson and USC have gotten better, which I hope will not make Maryland as top-heavy as they have been."

Hilton went on to talk about his team. "From the UNC standpoint, we are in pretty fair shape except for a few colds. We haven't had any competition in three weeks, but we're still conditioned to a degree. Folk and Meade may be available, and I'm expecting a relatively good performance from them.

"Also, we expect superlative performances from Art Maillet and Tommy Clark."

Mike Folk has been out with a leg injury since early February, and James Meade has not run at all during the indoor season due to a knee injury.

Leading the Tar Heels will be old reliables Ronnie Jackson, who broke the school 60-yard mark his last time out, Bob Bennett in the 600, Bill Graham in the shot, Milt Bauguess and Dale White in the hurdles, and Al Dobritch in the 440.

The University of South Carolina, who were beaten by the Tar Heels 65-40 during the season, are back for another try. Their strength lies in the field events with Woody Chapman in the broad-jump, Roland Brown in the pole-vault, and Walt Christiansen in the shot-put.

Leading their runners are Al Rose, an excellent miler, and Bob Crosby, an 880 star.

Clemson, under coach H. C. Greenfield, went down to UNC 60-48 during the regular season. They are led by Avery Nelson in the broad-jump, and Bill Jackson, who vaulted 14 feet against Carolina, in the pole-vault.

Ernie Drown, miler, is their top runner, while the mile-relay team of Doug Adams, Hayes Cone, Cecil Huey, and Jim Wynn turned in a 3:28 time against UNC.

Top names from the "Big Four" include Julian Rainwater of Wake Forest, in the pole-vault, Rod Stewart of Duke in the shot-put, Bob Fogle of Duke in the high hurdles, and George Khale of Wake Forest in the broad-jump.

Duke also comes over with a strong 2-mile relay team which turned in an 8:15.5 at the Big 5 meet. The team is composed of Scott Hickman, Dave Johnson, John Weisiger and Dick Newton.

Maryland's mighty thinclads bring down a team of great depth and several years of experience. Expected to head the Terps will be Ed Bennett in the pole-vault, Ernie Hearon in the shot-put, and Mike Cole in the broad-jump and sprints. Cole, last week, broke the ACC broad jump mark that has held since 1935, but has to do it in a meet to make it official.

Leading the Maryland's runners are Mike George and Thomas Kreuger in the 2-mile run and Steve Lamb and John Prettyman in the 600. Ramsey Thomas leads the mile, while Robert Vermillion heads the hurdle events.

Ehringhaus-B, ATO Advance To Finals

By PETE GAMMONS

The Peacocks Monday night won the Graduate Championship in basketball, defeating the Med School 4, 53-47. Trailing 25-24 at the half, the Peacocks capitalized on the Doctors' missed free throws (6-17 at the line) and slowly pulled away. They were able to move former Davidson star Bill Jarman out enough to stop him from controlling the boards, and enabled Harry Johnson to score 19 and Larry Nolan 17. Tom Parham was the third Peacock in double figures with 10. Jarman, hurt by his six missed free throws, ended up with 16, while Bill Hubbard and Tommy Koontz had 11 and 10 respectively.

The All-Campus playoffs, without the grads, got under way Monday night. In the Dorn Play-off the Ehringhaus B Aces ripped the Ehringhaus B Kings, 42-37, in a duel of football stars. The Blue Division Aces led most of the way, as they earned the right to meet the Fraternity champs. Junior Edge had 14, Eddie Kesler 11, and Frank Galagher 10 for the Aces. George Boutsellis had 15 and Gene Sigmon, whose loss due to fouls hurt the Kings, had 9.

ATO Blue whipped Phi Delt-2, the Frat White Champ, 49-37, to become the Ehringhaus Aces' competition for the campus finals. Leading by only two at the end of the first half, mostly due to some horrendous foul shooting, the ATO's exploded in the second half and made the game a runaway. Sammy Simpson as usual led the winners with 15, followed by Watts Carr and Buff Moore with 10. Harry Stall had 16 for Phi Delt.

Six Tankmen Leave For Championships

By PERRY McCARTY

Coach Pat Earey and six of his tankmen bundle up and head north today. Their destination is Dartmouth College, Hanover, New Hampshire, and the Eastern Intercollegiate Swimming Championships.

Despite the fact that 15 inches of snow has been reported in the adjacent area, the Heels are eager for the distant sojourn and the chance to match skills with the best swimmers from the entire eastern seaboard.

Thompson Mann, Harrison Merrill, Davis Roberts, John Sheldon, Fred Lipp, and Rick Forum will compete in the three day championship contest. UNC's medley relay team of Mann, Forum Lipp, and Roberts figures to finish near the top. Only two schools have recorded faster marks in this event — Yale and Army. Both will be on hand at Dartmouth.

Mann, Merrill, Forum and Roberts will combine for the 400 freestyle relay; and, again, the Dolphin quartet are among the swiftest entered.

All Americas Mann and Merrill stand the best chance to come away with individual honors. Backstroker Mann is currently pushing the NCAA mark for 100 yards and is a strong threat in the longer 200. However, he will have to contend with Princeton's Jed Graef.

Merrill is entered in the 500, 200, and 100 yard freestyle events. He is yet to be turned loose in the 500 this year and will surely improve on his old ACC mark of 5:09. His 1:47.8 clocking in the 200 puts him among the national leaders, and he should give Yale's freestyle stable a real scare. No doubt Merrill will get into the 100 finals, but his best chance is the longer races.

Two other fine freestylers Roberts and Sheldon will both swim the 200. Sheldon will test his superior strength and staying power in the 500; while sprinter Roberts will compete in the 100. Incidentally, some observers feel that Sheldon might have won the ACC 500 from NC State's Pat Gavaghan. Doing flip turns Sheldon lost count and thought he had more laps ahead than he actually did. He virtually sprinted the final 50 yards and finished a close second to Gavaghan.

Butterfliker Fred Lipp and breaststroker Rick Forum will go both the 100 and 200 races in their specialties. Both hold UNC records and this will be the first test of a national flavor for these two splendid sophomores.

While this should be UNC's best showing ever at the Eastern Championships, the Dolphins can scarcely hope to finish higher than fourth or fifth which represents quite an achievement in itself. Yale, Army, and Villanova have very talented groups. Blessed with the best national collegiate freshman team last year, the West Point cadets swamped the usually dominating middies in their own element, the water, by a convincing 40 point margin earlier this season.

Duke-Villanova Highlights NCAA Regionals At Raleigh Friday Night

By LARRY TARLETON

The Duke-Villanova game Friday night shapes up as the best attraction in the NCAA Eastern Regionals at Reynolds Coliseum this weekend.

Villanova, Princeton and Connecticut earned tickets to Raleigh by winning Monday night games at Philadelphia. Villanova dumped Providence 77-66, Connecticut upset Temple 53-48 and Princeton used a 34-point effort from Bill Bradley and a second-half spurt to bury Southern Conference champ VMI.

In this week's issue of the "Sporting News," columnist-referee Jim Enright predicts a national championship for Duke's Blue Devils. Through his microscope, Enright sees a UCLA-Duke championship game with the Blue Devils prevailing.

Vic Bubas' team may be the best ACC team since Frank McGuire's 1957 Tar Heels. One astute observer, the old "Gray Fox" from State, says that this year's Blue Devils will be superior to the '57 National Champions. Although we won't go that far, the boys from Duke are the national champs.

Durham do seem to have what it takes to be national champs. They have the height, speed and defense, however the road to Kansas City won't be an easy one for Jeff Mullins and Company. Jay Buckley baited them out three times in the ACC tournament, but he may find out he won't be able to shoot his sidarm hook against Jim Washington (Villanova center), Les Hunter (Loyola center) or some other top performer.

Sophomore guard Steve Vaccandak, who suffered a bruised lung in a collision with Billy Galantai in the Carolina-Duke game, was released from the hospital yesterday and is expected to see action this weekend. Vaccandak was playing his best game of the year when he was injured Friday night. The Blue Devils will need Vaccandak, the best ball-handler on the team, against Villanova who likes to press the other team into ball-handling mis-

The seventh-ranked Wildcats have used this harassing defense to compile a 23-3 record to date. Led by All-American guard Wally Jones, Coach Jack Kraft's team has been called the trickiest circus act this side of Ringling Brothers-Barnum and Bailey. Jones' ball handling wizardry has caused some opponents to label him as a "showboat," but Kraft is quick to discount this by noting that this is the way Jones has played all his life and the behind-the-back passes come natural to him.

Junior center Jim Washington is probably the most-underrated Wildcat. At 6-7 he has repeatedly outplayed taller and better-known opponents. Monday night he held Providence's John Thompson to 18 points and three rebounds. Sophomores Richie Moore, who scored 25 points against Providence, Bill Melchionni and 6-8 Al Salle join Jones and Washington in the starting lineup. Melchionni came on fast toward the end of the season to push last season's starter, George Leftwich, out of his starting position.

The top performer in the tournament will probably be Princeton's Bill Bradley, who has already been voted "Player of the Year" in some All-American polls. Bradley and four guys named Joe will meet perennial Yankee Conference champion Connecticut in other Friday night action. Former Duke aide Fred Shabel produced a winner in his first year as UConn mentor and would dearly love to meet the Blue Devils in the finals. Toby Kimball and "Big Ed" Slomcenski (6-10) lead the devastating UConn board attack. Kimball (6-7) leads the team in scoring and has a 17.4 rebound average.

MISTER COOL of the machine-like Duke Blue Devils is senior guard Buzzy Harrison. Twice this season he killed UNC with his outside jump shots. Friday he'll be trying to do the same thing to Villanova, in the Eastern Regionals in Raleigh.
