

Hurlers Throw Cold Water On Duke

By JOHN MONTAGUE

Let the pitchers do it. For the second time in two games this proved a successful formula for the UNC baseball team, as the Tar Heel batters were once again stingy with their run production, but scored enough to beat Duke, 3-2. Mike McLaughlin, Bill Dannemann and Bobby Cox each went three innings on the mound, and only Dannemann had any trouble with the Blue Devils, as UNC ran its exhibition record to 2-0. This afternoon, Walt Rabb's men face Duke at Durham in another practice game. Then Monday it's the real thing — at home against Connecticut.

Dannemann was touched for both of Duke's runs after two were out in the fourth, and after Gary Black's two-run double and McLaughlin's hitless pitching had given the Tar Heels a 2-0 edge.

After R. D. Carson had grounded out and Dave West had fanned, Duke second sacker Bucky Fader reached Dannemann for the Blue Devil's first hit of the afternoon, a single to right field. Catcher Scotty Glacken followed with a single to right, and the two Devils ended up on second and third when Ken Willard couldn't come up with the ball cleanly and let it skip away from him.

Pitcher Charlie Young, the Devils' second and most effective of the game, then dumped a single into shallow center which plated both Fader and courtesy runner Jim Hopkins, knotting the score. Dannemann walked John Gutekunst, but struck out Tom Taylor to end the inning. From there on, the junior righthander kept the Blue Devils well in check until Cox took over in the seventh.

It was in the bottom of the seventh the Tar Heels scored their third and deciding run. With Merle Ambler on the mound, Bill Taylor drew a walk, Black singled him to third with a sharp smash to left (his second hit of the day — both in key situations), and after Cox had fouled out for the second out, Dickie Prindle grounded to second and beat out Fader's weak throw. It was an error, and Taylor scored on it. Duke threatened in the ninth when Gutekunst reached first on an infield hit, and Biff Bracey singled him to second with another infield roller, after Taylor had skied to center. But the rally died when Sonny Odum lined to short-stop Jim Speight, who fired to Prindle to double up Gutekunst and end the game.

Black came through with the big blow in UNC's two-run second. With one out, Willard singled sharply to left, Merle Krueger forced him at second, then Taylor advanced Jon Baylin (courtesy runner for Krueger) to second with a single to left. Black then came up and whacked one over the left fielder's head. The double scored both Baylin and Taylor.

Today Rabb is expected to use Spence Willard, Bob Walker and Bill Haywood in the three o'clock game at Duke.

Blue Devils, Wildcats Have One Thing In Mind—UPSET!

KANSAS CITY Mo. (UPI) — Kansas State, the overlooked member of collegiate basketball's final big four, will have at least the psychological advantage to night in the opening of the NCAA championships. The Wildcats (22-5), the Big Eight Conference champions, were ranked only 12th in the final UPI coaches' rating. Of the three other teams battling for the national crown, undefeated UCLA (28-0) was ranked first, Michigan (22-4) was second and Duke (25-4) fourth.

But Kansas State, after unexpectedly dominating the Midwest regionals last weekend, will come bursting into Friday night's closing semifinal match against UCLA on the crest of a 13-game winning streak and with everything to gain and nothing to lose. Michigan meets Duke in the first semifinal match.

Game times were 8:30 p.m.,

Odds-makers, recognizing Kansas State's late season development and momentum, rated the Wildcats a two-point favorite over UCLA. Duke was rated four points over Michigan.

Ironically, each of the teams paired in the NCAA semifinals met once during the past season when Friday night's favorites were the losers. In those December games, UCLA edged Kansas State, 78-75, and Michigan bumped off Duke, 83-67.

So both Kansas State and Duke will be out for vengeance. And in the grudge match, Kansas State will have the additional advantage — an advantage that will extend through Saturday night — of familiarity with the court and a home town crowd.
