President Friday Elected Education Council Chairman

Consolidated University President William C. Friday was elected chairman of American Council on Education yesterday at the council's 47th annual meeting in San Francisco.

Friday's election placed him in what is considered the highest administrative-academic position in American colleges and universities.

Friday accepted the chairmanship in absentia. The Consolidated University was represented by Chancellor Paul Sharp of UNC, Chancellor Otis Singletary of UNC-G and Chancellor John T. Caldwell of N. C. State.

Friday succeeds Harvard President Nathan M. Pusey, chairman during the past year. Friday has served as a member of the council's Problems and Policies Committee. He has been a member of the council's board of directors since 1962.

The council is considered the leading organization of higher education institutions in the United States. Its membership includes over 1,300 colleges and universities in 50 states. Both private and state institutions are represented.

Friday, 44, has been president of the Consolidated University since 1956.

Rearred in Dallas, he attended Wake Forest College, UNC and N. C. State.

During World War II he was an officer in the U. S. Navy.

He served as assistant dean of students at UNC from 1948 to 1951, and in 1951 was made assistant to former UNC President Gordon Gray.

He was named secretary of the University in 1955, acting president the same year.

Friday holds degrees from N. C. State and UNC and honorary degrees from Princeton University, Wake Forest, Duke, Elon College and Belmont Abbey College.

The council headquarters is in Washington. Logan Wilson, former vice president of the Consol-

PRESIDENT FRIDAY

Johnson Promises 'Peace Conference'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson promised Friday to call a White House conference on peace in 1965—if he's elected. "You can't be a statesman unless you get elected," Johnson told several hundred government officials and private citizens who watched him sign a proclamation designating 1965 as International Cooperation Year.

Johnson called on his listeners, who included a number of prominent Republicans, to dedicate themselves to the cause of cooperation and peace. But he said that if they take his advice, they can expect to be labeled idealists, crackpots or worse than that by some people. Looking over his audience, he added "It is the assignment of the century for each of you."

Johnson said he is trying to promote peace and hopes his Commission on Heart Disease, Cancer and Stroke can come up with remedies "So we can live beyond 100 and participate."

Goldwater Urges Atlantic Unity

PEORIA, Ill. (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater promised Friday that, if elected President, one of his first acts would be to unify the free nations of the North Atlantic Community.

Four years of drift, deception and defeat under the administration of Democrats, the Republican Presidential Nominee said, have left the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in a state of "disunity and disarray."

In the eighth stop of a two-day train swing through Illinois, Goldwater said he would "initiate a call for a North Atlantic conclave" to unite the NATO nations "in spirit, purpose and action."

In a prepared text, he promised to name "a blue-ribbon delegation of American Citizens to meet with delegates from other NATO nations to plan the conclave."

The 15 nations in NATO, Goldwater said, have "the elements of power in the Free World... elements we need, already in being, just waiting to be put to use in ending the Communist threat."

Students For LBJ Plan Raleigh Trip

UNC's Students for Johnson announced plans yesterday for a student motor caravan to Raleigh Tuesday night for President Johnson's address at N. C. State. The caravan will leave the Bell Tower parking lot at 5 p.m. for the William Neal Coliseum and the President's eight o'clock speech.

Hurricane Hilda Heads For Coast; Thousands Flee

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Hurricane Hilda drove its terrifying 150-mile-an-hour winds late Friday toward a Louisiana Gulf Coast from which more than 125,000 persons had fled.

The massive storm—bigger in size than all New England—curved northward through a raging Gulf of Mexico at a sluggish six mph it appeared to be shifting east just enough to cause concern to sprawling, below-sea-level New Orleans.

Refugees from Hilda's expected fury choked roads leading north. Many carried their pets along, leaving a string of abandoned, ghost cities in Louisiana's Cajun country. The hurricane forced the cancellation of the Tulane-Duke game here today.

Frank G. Spiess, acting state Civil Defense Director, said 125,600 persons had left the low-lying coastal areas with the count not yet complete. It was probably the largest mass evacuation in the history of Louisiana, a state long accustomed to killer hurricanes.

Free invitations for University students are now available at the Graham Memorial Information Desk and can be picked up any time Tuesday night.

The President is coming to Raleigh at the same time Mrs. Johnson, aboard her campaign train the Ladybird Special, arrives on the first leg of a whistle stop tour through the South. Mrs. Johnson's train leaves Raleigh early Wednesday morning for Durham and a 15-minute stop. A number of University students are expected to participate in ceremonies there welcoming the First Lady.

Linda Coghill, chairman of the UNC Students for Johnson, yesterday issued a statement urging students to take advantage of the opportunity to hear the President speak and to attend the Raleigh rally.

Notice

Further details of arrangements being made here for UNC students to attend President Johnson's speech Tuesday night in Raleigh and Mrs. Johnson's speech in Durham early Wednesday will be carried in tomorrow's and Tuesday's Daily Tar Heel.

Revision Of Election Law Approved By Legislature

By JOHN GREENBACKER
DTH Staff Writer

The first step in an over-all attempt by Student Party Floor Leader Arthur Hays to modernize the Student Government Code was approved by Student Legislature Thursday night.

After nearly four hours of debate, Hays' bill to revise the General Elections Law was approved in all sections.

Most hotly debated was an article requiring an increased number of signatures on the petitions supporting a candidacy which each candidate must file with the Elections Board 12 days before an election.

Hays proposed a sharp increase in the number of signatures required on each petition in accordance with the gravity of the elected office sought.

The purpose of the new graduated scale, according to Hays and Rep. Frank Hodges (SP), is to eliminate candidates who are not serious about running.

"We are representatives not only to this campus but to the State of North Carolina as well," Hodges said. "It is important that we maintain our dignity."

Hodges pointed to the damaging publicity which the candidacy of Marxists Larry Phelps and John Salter did to the University in 1962.

"While Phelps and Salter weren't a serious political threat on campus," Hodges said, "the state as a whole took this thing seriously."

Speaking against the article was Armistead Maupin (UP), who defied popular image to defend the right of small minorities on campus to run a candidate.

Charging that the bill was being "railroaded through" and calling the legislature a "facist organization," Maupin

Students Protest California Ruling

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — A University of California campus ban on such activities as collecting money for civil rights work in the South sparked a day of demonstrations Friday by a campus crowd of about 3,500.

Dr. Clark Kerr, president of the seven-campus University of California, denounced it as "mob action" by a small minority of the 27,000 students at Berkeley and by "many non-students."

"We intend to preserve law and order at the university," Dr. Kerr said. "The rules will not be changed in the face of mob action."

In the heart of the campus, the demonstrators surrounded a campus police car as they had since 11:30 a.m. Thursday. Inside was Jack Weinberg, a non-student member of the Congress of Racial Equality, arrested for trespassing while helping collect civil rights funds.

Highway Projects Given Approval

Three highway projects totaling several million dollars were approved for the Chapel Hill area Thursday, State Highway Commissioner James MacLamrock announced.

About two miles of the Durham Road and NC 86, near here, will be widened to four lanes. Boundary and Ridge Streets will be improved and widened.

The Highway Department said construction will begin as soon as the University and Town agree on the controversial southbound radial road.

Football Horrorscope

The infallible DTH Sports Staff once again takes to the typewriters, this time with the help of Dean J. Carlyle Sitterson.

A leading Monday Morning quarterback, the Dean of the General College and the College of Arts and Sciences was secured to preserve the honor and reputation of this, the outstanding sports journal in the country.

He is no novice to football. Just last week at a dinner for Michigan State he constantly pressed Duffy Daugherty on the question of why the half-back pass wasn't used more often. After fumbling around Daugherty admitted that he had considered it.

They scored their first extra points on a halfback pass. Mr. Sitterson will now be sent ahead to universities that with little trouble. Their offense rolled up 69 points in the two games and gained the No. 5 ranking in the nation in offensive yardage.

Fullback Brian Piccolo, second in the nation in rushing with 249 yards in two games, leads the surprisingly powerful Deacon attack. Halfbacks Wayne Welborn and Joe Carazo, quarterback John Mackovic and end Dick Cameron add punch to the Deacon offense.

Tar Heel coach Jim Hickey plans to start three sophomores against Bill Tate's suddenly-Demon Deacons. Bo Wood will replace John Atherton at the tight end slot. Atherton, who has injured his leg in both of the Tar Heels' games, appears to be ready, but Hickey wants to go more slowly with him this week.

Following his brilliant performance against Michigan State, Danny Talbot will once again be the starting quarterback replacing Gary Black who is still nursing a rib injury suffered in the first game.

The other sophomore in the starting lineup will be split end Bill Darnall, who has caught four passes in the Tar Heels' two games.

Guard Charlie Davis, still recuperating from a broken jaw, is the only Carolina player who is definitely out of the contest.
