

'Can't Look Past Wake,' Says Smith On Tourney

By PETE GAMMONS
Asst. Sports Editor

"We'll pretend the Wake Forest game is the finals of the tournament, and work from there," Coach Dean Smith said yesterday after learning the Tar Heels are seeded fourth in the tournament and will play the Deacons in the opening round.

"The victory over Duke was great, but we have to stop rejoicing and look to the tournament.

"Wake Forest is a good team. They had a slump but starting with the Temple game have started coming out of it and now are really tough."

With two big stars in Bob Leonard and Ronnie Watts, Smith realizes that the Deacons cannot be looked past. They bombed the Tar Heels the first time they met in Winston-Salem.

"Actually I don't really care about the drawing. I tried to go into it (the drawing) with a 'don't care' attitude, then suddenly realized that it didn't really matter because Wake, Clemson and Virginia are all tough.

"I hope Duke is the favorite, but it isn't going to be easy for anyone. This league is tough, especially this year. Three of Duke's four losses have come within the conference."

Smith will go with the same lineup he has used throughout the seven-game winning streak, although Ian Morrison and Ray Hassell will see action in spots to utilize their special talents. Bob Bennett's encouraging performances against Virginia and Duke have given him the role of top reserve at forward.

"Bob started to gain his confidence last week against Virginia," said Smith. "I told him earlier this season that he had to rebound to play, and he has started to do it."

"I now feel confident throughout my bench and I won't hesitate to use anyone."

The second-place finish and 10-4 record are history now with the all-important second stage of the season coming up in Raleigh.

Thursday's action shapes up like this:

1:30—Maryland (10-4)-Clemson (4-10)

3:30—N.C. State (10-4)-Virginia (3-11)

7:00—Duke (11-3)-South Carolina (2-12)

9:00—North Carolina (10-4)-Wake Forest (6-8)

Wrestlers Get Crushed By Maryland

By SANDY TREADWELL
DTH Sports Writer

The UNC wrestlers finished their regular season in disaster Saturday as they were crushed by Maryland, 27-2.

The loss gave the Tar Heels a disappointing 4-5-2 season record.

All but one of the individual matches followed the same pattern. In the 157-pound class, for example, Carolina's Jay Jacobson faced Al Moran who was larger, stronger and more experienced. The result was it took an incredible effort by Jacobson to scramble off the mat time and time again to avoid being pinned.

The only exception to the pattern was Co-Captain Russ Simmons (137), who rallied in the second period to take a 4-3 lead and then held on in the third period for a tie, giving Carolina its only two points.

Terps Outdistance Whole Track Field

By PETE CROSS
DTH Sports Writer

"We were simply outmanned, but I have no complaints."

Speaking was Joe Hilton, coach of the North Carolina track squad, in reference to last weekend's ACC Indoor Games. His Tar Heel thinclads copped second in the conference meet behind the awesome Terps of Maryland.

Maryland captured the Conference Championship for the eleventh consecutive time with a record total of 91 points. Their aggregate was sufficient to outscore all the other teams combined. The Tar Heels claimed second place with 18 points.

Hilton, however, was not displeased with his team's performance. "The boys gave us their best effort, and, as is often the case in basketball, the closeness of the competition isn't always indicated by the score."

The Carolina coach was very pleased with the efforts of sprinter Dale White and distance runner Charlie Little. "Both gave us real fine, outstanding performances," said Hilton, and he also announced that his pupils would be entering the NCAA National Meet.

This national invitational clash is scheduled for March 12th and 13th at Detroit.

In referring to White's and Little's conference-winning runs, Hilton commented, "Dale definitely showed his class, and I have no doubt that Charlie could have won the two-mile also if he'd had more time to rest."

Also cited by their coach were distance runners Jim Meade and Art Maillet who placed in the two-mile and 1,000-yard, respectively.

Quite handily, South Carolina was disqualified in the mile relay after beating out UNC. "They might have bumped us out of second place," noted Hilton. When the baton was knocked out of Richie Ambrose's hand during that relay, only the anchor run of Jon Levin prevented UNC from dropping into third or fourth place in the meet.

The Tar babies also claimed a second place finish in the freshman division behind Maryland. Mike Williams won the mile and John Harper claimed a second in the high jump to spearhead the Carolina efforts. Coach Hilton also cited Jon HryHarrow, Ronnie Short, Tom Carpenter and Fred McCall for their performances.

In looking forward to the not-so-distant outdoor season, Hilton was optimistic about his squad's potential. "All the boys should be back, along with some good additions," said the coach. "And Eddie Daw will be back without his leg trouble." The first meet on the outdoor slate is with Ohio State on March 22nd.

Favorites Wary Of Opener Jinx

RALEIGH (AP) — Basketball coaches tell you it's tough to beat the same opponent three times in one season.

But that's just what Duke, Maryland and North Carolina State will have to do if they are to survive the first round of the Atlantic Coast Conference championship tournament opening Thursday.

Defending champion Duke opens its title bid against a South Carolina team it already has measured by scores of 111-72 and 87-59. That second game, on the South Carolina court late last month, was close in the first half, Duke leading by only nine at the intermission. Then the Blue Devils blew the Gamecocks off the court to win going away.

N.C. State turned back Virginia 73-67 and 92-68, but off what the Cavaliers accomplished last week, the State Wolfpack could be in for a trying time when they meet Thursday afternoon.

Playing without Mac Caldwell, top rebounder and No. 2 scorer, who was felled by pneumonia, Virginia lost overtime games to Wake Forest and North Carolina, then knocked off South Carolina and Clemson to escape the cellar. It still was uncertain Monday whether Caldwell would be available for the tournament.

Maryland opens the tournament at 1:30 p.m. Thursday against a Clemson team it has beaten 67-65 in double overtime and 88-71 last weekend.

The Clemson Tigers lost two heart-breakers on successive nights in Charlotte two weeks ago, losing to N.C. State and North Carolina by a total of three points. Had they won both, their league record would have been 6-6. Instead they followed by losing at Maryland and Virginia to wind up 6-10 in sixth place.

Carolina and Wake Forest, who play the final opening round game, the only first round opponents who split during the year. Each roundly trounced the other.
