Second I propose that the piecemeal replacement of residence hall TV sets be superceded by a systematic rotation list that would enable every residence hall to get a new TV set every fourth year. Legislation was passed two years ago directing the treasurer of the student body to "establish an ad hoc committee to inspect all existing residence hall TV sets and to classify them into four categories according to their expected life. Each year the sets in one of the categories was to be replaced by new sets (BF 36-7.

If your roommate says the Bell System helped invent hi-fi, stereo and talking movies, don't bet. You'll lose.

In the course of their studies of the nature of sound, Bell System scientists have been able to make significant contributions to all three forms of entertainment.

You might say that it was because the discoveries were there to be discovered by the first explorers to come down the trail.

When the century was still young, we realized that if the telephone were to come up to its potential, the nature of sound had to be much better understood than it was then. This led to the largest, most comprehensive study of sound ever undertaken by anyone.

To capture sound for study, Bell Telephone Laboratories developed the first electronic recorder for phonograph discs. For the first time, performers recorded into microphones.

Then, in 1925, Bell Labs perfected an electronic system that synchronized sound and action on movie film. The talkies were born.

To get better sound reproduction, they started experimenting in 1933 with ways to separate high and low frequencies to prevent distortion. The result was a single-groove, multi-channel disc—the basis of today's stereophonic industry.

Nevertheless, these contributions were by-products of the real effort, which was to make telephone service better. We are proud, of course, that they helped build and improve whole industries.

But we're prouder of the sound qualities in the telephone of today.

If you'd like to do business or engineering work you're really proud of, we'd like to talk to you.
