Thomas Resigns Position

Daily Tar Heel editor Fred Thomas has withdrawn from the University.

Scott Goodfellow has been named acting editor by the Publications Board. Pub Board Chairman Frank Longest said Goodfellow will serve until a permanent editor could be elected "through proper means."

The Student Government Code provides that if a vacancy occurs in the DTH editorship, it will be filled by a special election.

Thomas won the editorship last spring on the first ballot over two opponents.

One of Thomas's editorials on the Michael Paul case won a first place award in the December Hearst competition, a college news writing contest. The award was a $500 scholarship.

Before becoming editor, he had served as news editor and night editor of the paper.

A junior from Concord, he is a member of Chi Psi.

Goodfellow was a managing editor before being named acting editor.

A Morehead Scholar from Coronado, Calif., he edited The Sixty-Niner, last year's freshman class newspaper. He is a member of Delta Upsilon fraternity.

Succeeding Goodfellow as managing editor is Bill Amlong. Amlong was news editor.

The new news editor is Don Campbell.

Goodfellow is a first-semester junior, and Campbell and Amlong are second-semester juniors.

Greenbacker Hospitalized After Wreck

John Greenbacker, associate editor of the Daily Tar Heel, received serious back injuries early Monday in an automobile accident near the intersection of East Franklin and Howell Lane.

The 1961 Renault in which Greenbacker was riding rolled over, said Officer Thomas Snipes.

Sam Major was the driver of the car, Officer Snipes said. No other persons were in the vehicle at the time of the wreck, in which Greenbacker also received a minor skull fracture and Major suffered bruises.

Greenbacker is now in the intensive care section of Memorial Hospital, though doctors say he is out of danger. David LaBarre, president of Pi Lambda Fraternity — of which both Major and Greenbacker are members — said he had been told Greenbacker will remain in the hospital at least six weeks.

He said, however, that he's been told Greenbacker is expected to completely recover from the accidents effects.

The car was headed toward the center of Chapel Hill when the accident took place.

The Used Book Co-op, sponsored by the Student Co-op Committee, opened up for book sales yesterday, and students flocked there like they flock to all book exchanges.

It doesn't have all the conveniences of some exchanges—the books are stacked on the floor, and runners have to wait on each student individually.

But the students like it. Because they're saving money.

Chairman of the Co-op Committee, Don Duskie, says he is "thrilled with the success of the project."

The Campus Affairs Committee has joined with the Co-op Committee in sponsoring the Co-op.

And for those students who sold their books there last week—they have something to look forward to: that postcard in the mail telling them their book has been sold.

UNC To Get Grant Addition

The William R. Kenan Jr. Charitable Trust of New York has ordered a second $1 million transferred to UNC, part of the $5 million given to UNC last year to establish new Kenan Professorships.

Each year $1 million will be paid until all of the $5 million is turned over to the University.

The Kenan Trust derives from the estate of the late William Rand Kenan Jr., an 1894 graduate of UNC. In his will Kenan designated that education should be the main recipient of his endowment with hopes that UNC would be preferred.

Chancellor J. Carlyle Sitterson stated that the $1 million will be added to the $1 million given in 1966 for establishment of endowed professorships under the salary supplement plan. When all the $5 million will have been received by UNC in 1970 it will be possible to have as many as 25 William R. Kenan Jr. Professorships here.

The first William R. Kenan Jr. Professor has already been appointed. The trustees of the University announced in early January, that Glendon Schubert will join the UNC Political Science Department this August.

Prof. Schubert is now senior scholar in residence at the East-West Center of the University of Hawaii.

Schubert, 49, a native of Onondaga, N. Y., has an A.B. and Ph.D. from the University of Syracuse, and has taught at the University of California in Los Angeles, Howard University, Rutgers, Michigan State University, and Franklin and Marshall College.

He is author of nine books and 34 articles in professional journals and other publications.

The W.R. Kenan Jr. Professorships are in addition to Kenan Professorships previously set at UNC memorializing members of the Kenan family. Kenan's sister, Mary Lily Kenan, widow of Henry M. Flagler and Robert Worth Bingham, established the first Professorships in 1917 as a memorial to her father and two uncles, all University graduates.

Additional professorships were added in 1964 through the Sarah Graham Kenan Professor of Law and the Sarah Graham Kenan Professor of Medicine. The William R. Kenan Jr. allocation is the third and largest bequest by members of the Kenan family.

Chancellor Sitterson said the Kenan funds are being used to "attract and retain in the Chapel Hill faculty" professors selected from among the outstanding scholars and teachers in their fields.

"When the supplement provided by the income from the Kenan gift is added to the base professional salary provided by the state, these professorships will be competitive with the most attractive professorships in the academic world," Sitterson said.

Coeds Selected By Mag Board

Two UNC coeds have been selected this year to represent the University on the Mademoiselle magazine College Board.

The two are Jo Ann Lauder, senior from Ruffin, N. C. and Carol Wonsavage, junior from Winston-Salem. They will join Ann Jamieson, junior from

Schools Hold Job Sessions

The following school systems will visit UNC for the purpose of recruiting prospective teachers for their public schools:

January 31: Chesapeake, Virginia, and Camp Lejeune, N. C.

February 1: Durham County Schools and Roanoke, Va. schools.

February 2: Lexington, Virginia; Cumberland Co.; Fayetteville, N. C.; and Sanford, N. C.

February 3: Chapel Hill (elementary level).

February 6: Peoria, Illinois and Onslow Co., Jacksonville, N. C.

February 7: Baltimore, Md., Chapel Hill (secondary level), and Waynesville (Haywood Co.), N. C.

February 8: Rockville, Md.; Annapolis, Md.; Burlington, N. C.

February 9: Atlanta, Ga., Wilmington, Del.

February 10: Winston-Salem. Prospective teachers are invited to sign up no in Room 103 Peabody Hall, School of Education, Teacher Placement Bureau.

Greesboro, who won a College Board Membership in 1964.

Each of the coeds will have an opportunity to contribute to Mademoiselle and help the magazine keep abreast of campus trends. They will report regularly to Mademoiselle on events of their colleges, do research for articles and help Mademoiselle fashion editors select models for college fashion features.

The Board is composed of some 1500 winners of the magazine's annual nationwide College Board Competition, a contest designed to recognize young women with talent in art, writing, editing, photography, layout, fashion design, merchandising, retail promotion or advertising.

Board members are selected on the basis of entries they submit showing ability in one of these fields.

Each coed will remain on the College Board until she graduates. During this time, she will accumulate a professional portfolio of work submitted to Mademoiselle which may be valuable to her in finding a job after graduation.

Once a student has been selected for the College Board, she is eligible to compete for one of 20 positions as Guest Editor. To win one of these positions, a Board member must submit a second entry that shows superior aptitude for magazine work.

The 20 guest editors spend the month of June in New York as salaried employees of Mademoiselle.

They help write, illustrate and edit Mademoiselle's August college issue. They

Powell Confronts State Department

By DAVID ROTHMAN
DTH Staff Writer

Student Body President Bob Powell and the president of the Harvard student government met Monday with State Department officials to arrange a meeting today between Sec. of State Dean Rusk and signers of a letter criticizing U. S. Vietnam policy.

The group yesterday held a news conference at which they released a response to Rusk's reply to the 100 student leaders who signed a Dec. 29 letter to President Johnson protesting U. S. involvement in Vietnam.

The contents of the response, drafted yesterday, were not released in time for publication of today's paper.

Eric Van Loon, one of Powell's aides, said yesterday that he and the student body president drove to Washington Friday to prepare for the talks.

Van Loon said he could not say what the response's contents were. He also said he did not know how many students would meet with Rusk today.

Meanwhile, the student group was scheduled yesterday evening to select official spokesmen.

The Dec. 29 letter said a "new mood... of doubt about the Vietnam war and the draft" is growing among college students.

More students than ever will attempt to avoid military service if the gap between their opinions and government statements is not bridged, the letter stated.

Rusk replied Jan. 6 to the original student letter.

He made these main points:

U. S. Troops are in Vietnam because "the minimum condition for order on our planet is that aggression must not be permitted to succeed." More Aggression — not peace — is the product of aggression.

NON-COMMUNIST Asia has been given new vigor, hope and determination by the U. S. presence in Vietnam.

SOME OBSERVERS believe the United States should use more force in Vietnam, others believe it should use less. The President himself feels that it is important to use an amount of pressure necessary for the U. S. national interest — but only with restraint.

NORTH VIETNAM has not been devastated like Europe in World War II or Korea during the conflict there. Civilian deaths in South Vietnam outnumber casualties resulting from U. S. bombing raids on North Vietnam.

THE VIEWS OF the Viet Cong could be heard "at any serious negotiations," although details concerning persons to be at the conference table should be negotiated with the Communists — not with U. S. foreign policy critics, who cannot stop the fighting.

The Rusk reply contained an invitation for Powell to meet with the students, as they are doing today.

Kingston Trio Will Split Up

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The Kingston Trio, who started the folk music craze and earned a million dollars a year from it, announced today they are disbanding.

The youthful singers told a news conference there is no dissension among them, but each wants to go his separate way.

John Stewart, 27, said he would form a new singing group. Bob Shane, 13, said he expected to stay in the entertainment field. Nick Reynolds, 33, said, "I just plan to spend more time with my family instead of hopping on airplanes."

Commenting on the Rusk reply, Powell told the DTH he personally didn't think "anything new was said."

"But," he emphasized, "I thought it was an honest attempt to explain our position."

He said he particularly was interested in statements contained in the Rusk reply saying the United States has not intentionally bombed civilians.

"That is not very satisfactory to the people whose homes have been damaged," he said.

Powell believes that the United States is not as eager as Rusk insists to stop the war through negotiation.

"We're not eager enough to negotiate to stop the bombing," he says.

Powell stressed in several DTH interviews that he was not necessarily representing the opinions of UNC students in signing the original letter to President Johnson.

2 Thefts Net Wire, Jewelry

Approximately 18,000 pounds of copper wire—valued at $1 per pound—were stolen early Monday morning from the University storage plant just off the Airport Road.

Orange County Sheriff Buck Knight reported that thieves, repeating a similar performance of last month, broke the lock on a door in the back of the storage warehouse and carted off a trailer-load of the large bundles of wire, which are used for telephone and electrical purposes by the University.

One abandoned rental trailer reported stolen from a Durham lot was found by sheriff's deputies on Airport Road near Carrboro.

Sheriff Knight said he thought the thieves were forced to leave it behind before they got to the warehouse because it broke down.

The other stolen trailer, however, which has a one-ton capacity, was loaded with the wire and escaped.

Last month's theft netted approximately twice as much as Monday's. The sheriff said no arrests have been made in connection with the theft.

A thief broke into Henderson's Jewelry Store on West Franklin Street during semester break, stole a handful of jewelry, rammed his car into a police car during his getaway, then escaped on foot with the lot.

Chapel Hill police said approximately $3,000 in jewelry was taken, most of it in rings valued at from $50 to $850. The theft occurred early last Wednesday morning.

Police are still investigating the theft.

Beaumont's Wife Dies

Funeral services for Mrs. Elizabeth McConnell Beaumont, wife of campus security chief Arthur Beaumont, were held Monday in Staten Island, N. Y. Burial was to be in Oakwood Heights.

Mrs. Beaumont, 52, died Thursday at Memorial Hospital here.

The Beaumonts moved to Chapel Hill in 1959 from Mrs. Beaumont's native Staten Island.

She is a past matron of the Order of the Eastern Star, and since coming to Chapel Hill she has been active in the volunteer auxiliary of Memorial Hospital.

In addition to her husband, she is survived by a brother and a sister. Her son died in 1960 when he was a UNC sophomore.

Frosh Death Ruled Suicide

An 18-year-old New Jersey freshman was found dead in his dormitory room after he hanged himself with a belt just prior to semester examinations, police said.

The death was ruled suicide by Orange County Medical Examiner Dr. Hubert Patterson.

Gregory Phillip Lister of Pleasantville, N. J., became the second student in less than a month to commit suicide on a consolidated university campus. Raymond B. McCauley was found locked in his room at N. C. State University in Raleigh Dec. 13 with a slip knot of electric cord around his neck.

Lister was discovered about 1 a.m. Sunday morning, Jan. 15, by his roommate, Jim Grano of Fayetteville. He was hanging by a belt from a heating pipe in his fourth-floor Morrison dormitory room.

The youth was described by friends as a better-than-average student who was worried about his exams.

He was an All-America wrestler in high school, and top wrestler on the UNC freshman wrestling team.

WITHIN THE drapery - enforced dimness of Graham Memorial's Rendezvous Room, Folksinger Jake Holmes and his two accompanists plucked their guitars and sang their lyrics Monday afternoon while rehearsing for last night's opening of GM's "coffee house."
