

Profile Of A Fast Break: Lewis ... To Grubar ...

Miller Leads Team To 103-76 Win

Carolina Downs Virginia

Last Saturday night in Carmichael Auditorium belonged to Larry Miller. The big junior from Pennsylvania led the Tar Heels, ranked second in the nation, to a 103-76 win over Virginia.

Miller entered the dressing-room at the half with twenty-four points. One year before Bob Lewis set a school record in memorable 49 point performance against Florida State. Throughout the second half of Saturday's game the capacity crowd was not concerned with the outcome of the contest, that was evident almost from the first minutes. They were wondering whether number 44 would add his name to the record books.

Miller didn't make it. He ended the evening with 38 points. He wasn't going for the record, he probably never even thought about it. He gave up possible shots to feed his teammates under the basket, and he sat out, along with Dean Smith's other starters, the final six minutes of the game.

But Miller's great performance wasn't restricted to the scoring totals. He led his teammates with eleven rebounds.

The game ended a 17-day layoff for the Tar Heels. Their inactivity, combined with losses suffered by Louisville, placed them in second place among the nations' teams in both national polls.

For the first 10 minutes Carolina looked like a position in the top twenty would have been unjustified, and Virginia showed why they were ranked last in the ACC with an 0-5 Conference record.

The turnovers were rapid and both teams suffered from unsure passes and inaccurate shooting.

Suddenly, North Carolina found itself. The Tar Heels began to control the boards and proceeded to run the Cavaliers right off of the scoreboard.

Carolina's defense kept Virginia, from the inside and its rebounding strength rarely allowed the Cavaliers a second shot. Time after time the ball traveled downcourt into Miller's red hot hands.

With the score UNC 42-UVA 31 and a minute remaining in the first half, North Carolina engineered the fast break to perfection. Miller scored on a layup... then a Lewis basket underneath... Miller again driving towards the basket... and finally two more Lewis points from the free throw line.

The buzzer signaled the end of the half and the Tar Heels had scored eight points without a point being added to Virginia's side of the scoreboard.

Smith and Company continued to run throughout the second half. They maintained their twenty point lead and gradually inched their way towards a thirty point margin.

Clark, Bunting, Lewis, Grubar, and Miller proved to the 8,500 home town crowd that they deserved their ranking. Gauntlett, Tuttle, and Mirken displayed the strength of Carolina's bench.

Sports Bulletins

All varsity baseball candidates will meet in Woollen Gym's room 304 at 7:30 Wednesday evening.

Carolina football and baseball star Charlie Carr has swept another award. He has won the General Douglas McArthur Trophy given each year by the Norfolk, Va., Sports Club to the outstanding Virginia high school graduate who makes a name for himself at an out-of-state college.

Carr will receive the award Friday night at the Norfolk Sports Club's annual banquet. Georgia Coach Vince Dooley will be the main speaker at the banquet and Vince's brother, Bill, the new Carolina coach, also will be on hand for the banquet.

When Carolina Coach Bill Dooley signed Tony Blanchard, son of famed Doc Blanchard, to a football grant-in-aid, it marked the second time the Tar Heels have landed a fine athlete from St. John's Catholic School in Washington, D. C.

Bob Lewis, the great UNC basketball player, is a St. John's grad. Duke's fine fullback, Jay Calabrese, attended the same school.

Where can
a young man go with

The answer, in a word, is "up."

You see, The Mead Corporation is more than a company with thousands of employees and operations the world over... just as it's more than a leader in the paper and packaging industry.

Mead is a restless, growing company... a company on the move.

Mead is a place where a college graduate can find the uncommon challenge, the rare opportunity, the space, the means and the encouragement to grow. The salary, too.

We welcome you to investigate these opportunities yourself by contacting your placement office now. Naturally, we're a plans-for-progress company and an equal opportunity employer.
