

Archaeological Meeting Slated

A meeting will be held February 12 for any students interested in learning about a summer archaeology expedition to Winchester, England. There are about 25 vacancies remaining for UNC students. A small number of local students who participated in the expedition last summer have already made plans to return again this year. Dr. John Schnorrenberg of the Art Department will be one of the heads of the expedition. Student groups from Duke and UNC-G will also be on the expedition which yearly brings together about 175 students from all over the world to work on the excavation of the Medieval city at Winchester. The expedition will last from June 26 to September 3. Students who take advantage of the University flights can make the round trip for $300. Everyone will stay in the Bushfield Camp and will receive free room and board in addition to an allowance of 10 shillings ($1.40) a day. There will also be a two-week vacation period set aside during the middle of the summer. The meeting February 12 will be held in 115 Ackland Art Center at 7 p.m. and is being sponsored by the Student Committee at UNC.

This dance group is intended to complement the Wednesday evening folk dancing program held in the Presbyterian Center at Chapel Hill.

The classes will be taught by Davis G. Onn of the UNC physics department and Dishie Delaney of Duke University. UNC students are invited to attend the classes, for which there will be no charge.

Julian Bream

LIFE Magazine has described Julian Bream as "the successor to the great Andrés Segovia himself." Nowhere is his brilliance more clearly displayed than in this performance on the lute of these 16th-century airs and dances by eleven composers. Such music as Dowland's Queen Elizabeth's Galliard and Besard's Air de Cour achieves its authentic flavor in Bream's hands. Here, in fact, in Bream's latest album, is a royal feast for modern ears—for every music lover!
