

A DTH Review

Snoopy And His Sopwith Camel Relentlessly Pursue The Baron

Snoopy and the Red Baron, by Charles M. Schulz, Holt, Rinehart and Winston, 64 pages, $2.00.

By KERRY SIPE
DTH Staff Writer

A man often reaches his ultimate glory while struggling under the scourge of war, fighting for his highest ideals, giving all to destroy wickedness and oppression in the world.

Out of history's great wars have come some of the greatest literature ever written—"War and Peace," "A Farewell To Arms," "From here To Eternity"—a long list.

In the tradition of these great war novels, "Snoopy And The Red Baron" is a full-of-life odyssey of love, guts, and tears. Packed with the warm, glowing-inside, human love of "Happiness Is A Warm Puppy," Schulz' new book has the added emotional impact of adventure, terror and romance.

The hero, ace World War I pilot Snoopy, awakened from a sleepless night to fly yet another mission, departs at dawn in his faithful Sopwith Camel to face that cold-blooded butcher of the skies, The Red Baron in his Foller Triplane.

ADVENTURE

Forced down near the little city of Pont-a-Mousson in France by antiaircraft fire or "archie" as he calls it, Snoopy ignores thoughts of personal safety and takes to the skies again to fight for God and country.

The Red Baron, the lousy kraut, in a sly, cowardly trick, gets the jump on our hero and riddles his craft with fire. Vowing to escape from behind enemy lines to get another chance at the cursed devil, Snoopy slowly works his way back to Allied territory, sleeping by day and making his way through abandoned enemy trenches by night.

ROMANCE

In Pont-a-Mousson at a small French farm house, Snoopy encounters a beautiful, young French girl who steals his heart and offers potato soup in return. Like two ships passing in the night, their paths cross, become intertwined and are heartbreakingly torn apart again.

"Curse the Red Baron and his kind! Curse the wickedness in this world! Curse the evil that causes all this unhappiness!" Snoopy cries after bidding a pain-filled adieu to the girl he will never forget.

GUTS

After an exhausting trek, he makes to the aerodrome in France. The going has been rough and his body is tired. His heart, however, is as strong as ever. It cries out that he has not been beaten. There will come another day, another time, when truth and justice will prevail. The American way will not perish from the earth. Right is on our side. "Someday I'll get you, Red Baron!"

Charles Schulz has been doing this kind of thing for so long no one is surprised when another great "Peanuts" book is released. What kind of genius it takes to make people so happy in such a simple way is known only to the genius himself. We do, however, recognize the happiness when we experience it.

"Snoopy and the Red Baron" will make you happy. Happy to be an American. Happy to be free. Happy to be alive. Happy to be right. Most of all happy to be a dog... er, human, I mean.

She does not understand ze English.... Ah, but she will understand that I am a handsome young pilot... And she? She is a beautiful French girl...

"Soup? Ah, yes, mademoiselle... That would be wonderful! A little potato soup, and I will be on my way..."

LOVE, GUTS AND TEARS — Shown above are two pages from Charles Schulz' newest "Peanuts" book, "Snoopy and the Red Baron," published by Holt, Rinehart and Winston. It is the heart-squeezing tale of a World War I fighter pilot, his war, and his loves. The book is available now for $2.00 at local bookshops.

NANCY-WITH-THE-LAUGHING-EYES — Nancy Sinatra, daughter of singer Frank Sinatra, doesn't leave an awful lot to the imagination, but does have a wink for those of us that dig shapes. Curvey Nancy is making a way for herself in motion pictures. This is not the kind of outfit she would wear in a snowball fight, but, lucky for us, she does appear this way in the new motion picture, "Last of the Secret Agents," in which she stars with Marty Allen and Steve Rossi.

Shows Not To Miss

The following shows are especially recommended for Tuesday's television viewing:

SURVIVAL IN THE SEA. Channel 4, 6:30 p.m. — The fascinating world of the underwater animals is discussed by John F. Storr who describes some special devices which protect animals from their enemies or the force of the sea.

DAKTARI. Channel 11, 7:30 p.m. — Playboy returns to wildlife reserve to manage his late father's cattle ranch with the plan to regain control of land between the reserve and local cattle ranches.

COMBAT. Channel 5, 7:30 p.m. — Saunders (Vic Morrow) is ordered to destroy an enemy-held bridge, but the only troops he can pick up are four GIs who are being held for court-martial.

RED SKELTON. Channel 11, 8:30 p.m. — Ever-popular Red Skelton has Mickey Rooney and Simon & Garfunkel as his guests tonight. In the sketch Rooney, playing a down-and-out Las Vegas entertainer, visits Clem Kaddidhopper, the fortune teller.

LYRICS AND LEGEDNS. Channel 4, 9 p.m. — "Negro Religious Music" will be discussed by Willis James of Spellman College, photographer George Pickew and historian Tristram P. Coffin.

FUGITIVE. Channel 5, 10 p.m. — In "Death Is The Door Prize" Kimball is the only witness to the fatal shooting of a teenage thief.

MISSION: IMPOSSIBLE. Channel 11, 10 p.m. — Tonight's color show is the debut of this program. Wallly Cox, guest star, portrays a safecracker and demolition expert whose mission it is to remove two stolen nuclear warheads from the Santa Costa dictator's vault.

Socks Go A Go-Go

NEW YORK (UPI)—A syndrome, as doctors will tell you, is a group of symptoms typical of a disease. So when the men's hosiery manufacturers announce they have licked the black sock syndrome you know what they think of black socks. As result, the National Association of Hosiery Manufacturers reports, there are more colored socks this fall than ever before, enabling men to use their heads about their feet—that is, they can select hose that both complement and coordinate with the latest suits and sports jackets.

Notable too is a return of patterns including the classic argyle, both in the all-over design and in an argyle panel. There also are herringbone weaves, diagonal stripes, paisleys, fuzzy Shetland weaves, embroidered clocks and, for the Mod types, polka dots. As for color, one manufacturer alone turns out 43 different shades in leisure socks. Some colors are offbeat, like blue grass, beach plum and frosty olive. Others include whiskey, hemlock green, bold blue, red, tan, grey, burnt orange.

SOCK RUNDOWN
A rundown on what some of the major manufacturers are doing: Burlington is showing mid-length hose with Lycra spandex for support to challenge the over-the-calf length. These are for the man who wants a neat, covered-up look but doesn't want socks to come to his knees. Crew-length socks in orlon & stretch nylon are in 43 shades. For men who do want socks to cover the calf there are two basic styles in a wide variety of shades and ribs. Jerks Socks emphasizes over-the-calf socks with novel features in weave, color and stung. One is a narrow rib in heather brown, olive, burgundy, tobacco, navy and oxford gray. A more pronounced rib is in 13 colors ranging from gold & red to dark shades. One bulky blend looks hand-knitted. A sock with corespun construction in 11 colors has a metallic appearance.

CUSHION SOLES
Highlights of Marum's casual hosiery include orlon-acrylic and stretch nylon anklets in offbeat colors and the Izod Line of crew socks with striped tops and cushion soles. Marum's Dior Line has expanded to include a wool-cotton blend over-the-calf in sophisticated fashion colors, a wool-nylon blend with embroidered clocks and an iridescent in dacron and silk. Marum has argyles in subtle colors, a Shetland blend and "texturalized" nylon in diagonal stripes, pin dots and panels.

Of particular interest at Intertwoven is a geometric design in colors from bold and bright blue. And for college men wanting over-the-calf socks there are new colors to complement college wardrobes including—whisky, green, bold blue and burnt orange. In leisure socks a "MacShag" is a shaggy rib crew in 20 shades. Camp & McInnes features Hazy Tones, which are subdued orlon-stretch, nylon herringbone patterns in several lengths, fisherman's knit support hose (and also in ankle length) and an orlon-nylon knit in colors from charcoal and brown heather to clay. Camp has a traditional argyle in wool and stretch nylon and an argyle panel.

At Esquire, polka dots, pin dots and paisleys set the pace in over-the-calf lengths with spandex added to keep them up. For casual wear there are washed out denim tones in such colors as scotch mist, green multi, rust, lovat & cranberry.
