

Dodgers Lead Pirates

The close National League pennant race will get a chance to tighten up even more this week. The Los Angeles Dodgers are host to the Philadelphia Phillies for a couple of games and the Dodgers can't afford to lose.

The Dodgers lead Pittsburgh by one and one half games and are up on San Francisco by four games. The Pirates and Giants slug it out for two more games in an effort to pick up some ground on Los Angeles.

The Dodgers seem to have the edge because of superior pitching in Sandy Koufax, Claude Osteen and, if he's a mind to help out, Don Drysdale. They also have a splendid bullpen. The Pirates have a pack of guys to hit the ball, but few pitchers. The Giants are starting their traditional late-season nosedive and may be out of it.

In the American League, it is all over but the shouting with the Orioles leading Minnesota and Detroit by nine games.

Williams, Carolina Grad, Returns To Sports Office

By OWEN DAVIS
DTH Sports Writer

Carolina - graduate Jack Williams returned to his alma mater when he succeeded Bob Quincy as university sports information director August 1. Williams takes his new post after long service in the newspaper field in which he has served since 1947.

Williams, a Durham native, has worked for four North Carolina newspapers and the Atlanta Constitution since graduation from college. He has written for the Durham Morning Herald and became its sports director, has been sports editor of the Raleigh Times and the Chapel Hill Weekly, assistant sports editor of the Atlanta Constitution and most recently has written for the Raleigh News and Observer.

With this wealth of experience in the area of sports, Williams obviously has seen many spectacular player performances and experienced many thrills.

"By far and away the most exciting player I have seen is Charlie Justice when he played here in the late forties," said Williams.

When queried on spectacular players and contests he has seen, he was quick to respond. "Without a doubt the most exciting football game was the 1949 Duke - Carolina game. This was Justice's last game and Carolina won 21-20. The fans ran all over the field before the game ended and the field had to be cleared for Duke to try a field goal on the last play."

"When Duke attempted the kick, Art Winer blocked it and the game ended. For sheer excitement, it was the greatest."

While serving on the Constitution, Williams covered six Masters golf tournaments in Augusta, Georgia. "From the standpoint of color and prestige, the Masters is the most exciting thing I have ever seen. The Augusta National course is so magnificent it almost overwhelms you," he said.

"Arnold Palmer won every year (1960, 1962, 1964). I admire Palmer quite a bit. He has a certain magic which no other athlete has. If I had to choose the most popular athlete in this country today I would pick Palmer. He has certainly a great popularity with the galleries."

Basketball was also Williams' beat for awhile. He fondly remembers the prosperous basketball years for Carolina in the fifties. "My greatest thrill in basketball was the 1957 UNC CHAMPIONSHIP TEAM OF Frank McGuire. Lennie Rosenbluth was the high scorer that year and he was fabulous.

"I covered the championship team that year but missed the final playoff and had to watch it on television."

Carolina edged Wilt Chamberlain's Kansas Jayhawks 73-70 in a triple overtime to win the title.

Commenting on basketball stars, Williams said, "The greatest shooter I have seen is Rosenbluth. All-around, however, Oscar Robertson is the greatest player I have witnessed beyond a shadow of a doubt."

With the Atlanta paper, Williams watched as the city boomed tremendously in his six-year stay there. He was in the thick of the Chick Granning incident, the lawsuits of Wally Butts and Paul Bryant, and he watched the city grow until it acquired professional baseball and football teams. He also was in contact with Bobby Dodd, one of the greatest coaches football has seen.

After many years of exciting action, Williams returns to disseminate sports information from Carolina. The school is certainly fortunate to get a man with his great breadth and experience.

Coach Hilton's Harriers Are Loaded With Talent

By DRUMMOND BELL
DTH Sportswriter

Joe Hilton begins another cross country season Saturday against the University of South Carolina at Columbia. This year he will celebrate his twentieth anniversary as a coach at UNC and it may well be his finest.

Coach Joe, as his athletes call him, was himself an outstanding performer in track and field during his undergraduate days at Chapel Hill. He was a member of the Tar Heels shuttle hurdle team at the Penn Relays in 1937 and until 1949 he held the CAAU javelin record.

Besides his talents in the hurdles and the javelin, Hilton was also a fine pole vaulter, broad jumper and high jumper.

In 1963 he succeeded the late Dale Ranson as varsity track and field coach. During the past few years he has met with great success, especially in cross country. In 1963 Carolina was undefeated as well as ACC and State champions. In '64 the Tar Heels were 8-1 in dual meets, State champions and second in the ACC to Maryland. Last year the harriers finished third in the ACC and had an overall record of 6-1.

Coach Hilton has a fine team returning and is optimistic about the coming season. "I feel we have the greatest cross country team since I have been here. We have the material and the potential. Now it's up to us. We have a new course thanks to Chuck Erickson and our maintenance man, Larry Smith, has done a fine job in getting it ready for the season."

The new course is located along Finley and in contrast to the previous one is relatively flat. Last season the harriers ran in the vicinity of Navy Field and Erhinghaus. However, traffic became a hindrance to the runners and Finley should solve the problem.

Saturday Hilton had his first good look at the team under semi-race conditions and was pleased with their performance over the four mile course.

"We looked very good on the whole, and the boys finished close together which is important in this sport.

Also, none of the boys seemed over extended which was the reason for the controlled time trial."

The first of October in Columbia marks the team's first encounter and if all goes well, Hilton's potential and material should outrun the Gamecocks.
