

Chinese Missile Base In Albania

STOCKHOLM, SWEDEN (AP) — Swedish provincial papers circulated a report Thursday that Chinese engineers are building a base for intercontinental missiles in Albania. Roving reporters Bjorn Hallstrom claimed in an article from Dubrovnik in Yugoslavia that he had seen the base himself.

CU CHI, Viet Nam (AP)— At 18, Pvt. Edward T. Conners has a wife and a baby, two years in the Army, and a fear that is his downfall. Because of it he faces two years in the stockade. "I'm no good when those bullets fly," Conners says. "I freeze up, I can't face it out there. . . I'm sick or something."

Conners is a 6 foot-7 Tennessee who weighs 220 pounds. He trained with the U. S. 25th Infantry Division in Hawaii, and until one day last June officers thought he had all the makings of a fine soldier.

On that day, the Viet Cong opened heavy fire, and Conners' squad leader yelled to Conners to move up with his machine gun.

"I knew I was needed," Conners recalls. "But I couldn't get up there. I hid in a Viet Cong tunnel. I didn't want to leave it."

His company commander, Capt. William L. Mobley, gave the order for Conners to rejoin his platoon. Conners disobeyed, knowing what was in store for him.

He pleaded guilty to willfully disobeying the order. The court-martial ordered him dishonorably discharged, and to forfeit $50 a month, about a third of his pay. And it sentenced him to serve two years at hard labor. He has been in the stockade seven weeks and soon will be shipped to Fort Leavenworth, Kan.

His platoon is still resentful at Conners' action.

"Someone said they saw him freeze," one soldier said this week. "But if he'd fired his machine gun maybe our buddy would not have been killed."

He referred to one of the squad killed the day of Conners' paralyzing fear.

"We don't have time to study the subtleties of these matters," a legal officer with the 25th Division commented. "There is a war on. Maybe in a civilian court a different decision would be brought down. But this is the Army."

Conners joined the Army at 16 to complete his high school credits and support his wife and baby, now six months old. He says his wife Sylvia Jane has stood by him. So have his father, a trucker at Kingsport, Tenn., and his mother, a beautician.

Some of the officers who know Conners think the Army has dealt too sternly with him.

"Conners wanted to be a truck driver and stay in the Army," one said. "He is a kid who needs education and to develop some guts."

In recommending a Life Sciences and Health Institute, the consultants proposed the college strengthen and expand its program in related sciences. The report said: "With this kind of program, the Institute of Life Sciences and Community Health might provide a satisfactory base for the future development of a medical school at East Carolina College."

U. S. willingness to be flexible in its position, he added that whatever approach finally succeeds in Viet Nam, "It will not be one which simply decries what is happening in Viet Nam and appeals to one side to stop while encouraging the other."

"Such a position can only further delay the peace we all desire. The only workable formula for a settlement will be one which is just to the basic interests of all involved."

He reiterated President Johnson's statement that the question of Viet Cong representation at the negotiating table is not an insurmountable one. "We invite the authorities in Hanoi to consider whether this obstacle to negotiations may not be more imaginary than real," Goldberg said.

report to the Assembly prior to its opening Thant had argued that it was wrong to portray the Viet Nam conflict as "a kind of holy war between two political ideologies." Thant's remark was interpreted as critical of the U. S. argument that it is in South Viet Nam to oppose communist aggression.

On other issues Goldberg had this to say:

—The United States remains firm in its opposition to seating Communist China in the United Nations.

—The United States wants Thant to stay on for an extended term.

As an inducement to winning Soviet agreement on an outer space treaty the United States is willing to consider letting the Soviet Union use tracking facilities in the United States for Soviet Satellites.

Offer Welcomed

In Washington the U. S. offer to stop bombing North Viet Nam if that country reduces its military activities in South Viet Nam was described by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield as "a good first step" toward possible settlement of the Asian war.

Toronto Ex Announces Recruitment

Students interested in becoming members of the Toronto Exchange may make application beginning next Monday, Sharon Rose, Exchange co-chairman, announced yesterday.

Application blanks will be available at the GM information desk on that day.

Interviews will be held throughout the week of Oct. 3-7 from 1 til 5 p.m. daily in the Roland Parker Lounge on the second floor, GM.

The purpose of the Toronto Exchange, Miss Rose said, is "To dispell the ignorance Americans have of Canada."

"We are particularly looking for students with an interest in Canada," Miss Rose stressed.

"For that reason," she added, "One half of the ten-minute interview will be used to ask the interviewee deep thought questions. For example, 'Attention is always being drawn to American-Canadian similarities. What are some differences, and how do you account for them?'"

This year Carolina will host the 30 University of Toronto students Nov. 17-21. Activities during their four day visit will include the Duke - Carolina football game, a hayride, a square dance and several seminars on Canadian-American relations.

During the semester break in January, the Carolina Exchange members will journey to Toronto for similar seminars and social activities.

Special arrangements will be made to interview any applicants who cannot meet the above schedule, if they will contact the Student Government office.

Applicants are urged to return their applications to the GM Info desk at least 24 hours prior to the time that they plan to be interviewed.

Both graduate and undergraduate students are welcomed, according to Miss Rose.

IMPORTANT! NO ONE UNDER 18 WILL BE ADMITTED UNLESS ACCOMPANIED BY HIS PARENT.

Harlem's Dr. Powell Drawn Thru Wringer

NEW YORK (AP) — The Rev. Dr. Adam Clayton Powell was described by a New York judge recently as "a mischievous delinquent."

It seemed an unlikely epithet for a venerable pastor of the prosperous Abyssinian Baptist church in Harlem, who will be 58 in November.

But it wasn't a patch on what they've been calling congressman Powell for years in the cloakrooms of Capitol Hill, and elsewhere.

As chairman of the House Committee on Education and Labor, Democrat Powell has been:

- Damned by congressional colleagues as a legislative obstructionist, a spendthrift of federal expense accounts and a chronic absentee from his duties.
- Denounced by union officials.
- Scorned by some Negro civil rights leaders as a traitor to his race.
- The Internal Revenue service has accused him — unsuccessfully — of evading his income taxes.

Tammany Hall tried to dump him — unsuccessfully — for supporting Dwight D. Eisenhower in the 1956 presidential election.

Two wives have divorced him. His estranged third has complained that having put her on the federal payroll he proceeded to deposit her salary checks in his own bank account.

A Harlem constituent clapped a libel suit on him and has sought to have him imprisoned for non-payment of the judgment she won.

The still handsome political idol of Harlem took it all in stride.

From time to time, Powell's performance as chairman won praise from both President Kennedy and President Johnson.

Many congressional colleagues, however, never really warmed up to the flamboyant representative from Harlem.
