Meets Today

There will be a meeting of all Freshman Women Commuters this afternoon at 4 in the reception room of Cobb. A WRC representative will be chosen.

Another World

LONG SHADOWS saunter across the browning grass while this cozy couple talks in low tones about your-guess-is-good-as-mine. What ever the subject is, you know that these two are oblivious to the coming dusk that seems to pounce on the dying day sooner every day.

LBJ To Visit Philippines For 7-Nation Conference

President Johnson will fly to the Philippines in about three weeks for a seven-nation summit conference on the Vietnamese War. A major aim will be to press an allied peace offensive.

Announcement of the 10,000-mile trip immediately stirred speculation as to whether Johnson might visit embattled South Viet Nam itself as well as other Far Eastern nations. His arrival in the Philippines on or about Oct. 18 will put on him within 1,000 miles of Saigon and the land where more than 310,000 American troops are involved in increasingly violent conflict with Communist-led forces.

That the trip has great domestic political importance for the President seems obvious. It will be his first transoceanic journey as 'chief Executive to a foreign capital — in the midst of this fall's congressional election campaigns.

The conference was publicly called Monday night by President Ferdinand E. Marcos of the Philippines to include all countries with military forces engaged on the allied side in the conflict. The first White House reaction, which served to put the main announcement over to Tuesday morning, was to describe Johnson as interested.

Tuesday's information brought out that the matter had been talked about by Johnson and Marcos when the Philippine leader visited Washington within the last two weeks—Sept. 14-16. The project was a well-kept secret within the government but the Marcos announcement did not surprise Johnson or his chief Vietnamese policy advisers.

Then Tuesday the White House dropped its coy reaction and announced: "President Johnson is glad to agree to this invitation and will be glad to join the meeting of the other chiefs of state or government . . . in the Philippines on or after Oct. 18."

The other participating nations include the Philippines, with 200 troops in South Viet Nam and 2,000 going there; South Korea, with 39,000 troops; Australia, 4,500; New Zealand, 200; Thailand, fewer than 100; and South Viet Nam itself, with 707,000, including 320,000 regular forces.

Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said this makeup sounds to him like "an expanded Honolulu meeting" — a reference to Johnson's Hawaii talks with the top South Vietnamese leaders. "It's all part of our boys," Fulbright said. "It should be a cozy group. . . they'll be in agreement."

The Arkansas critic of U. S. policy in Viet Nam, said the Manila meeting should be more useful if such nations as Japan, India and Pakistan took part in it.

Marcos, announcing the conference in Honolulu, said the military situation would be reviewed but that the emphasis would be on political, economic and diplomatic aspects of the Vietnamese conflict.

Study Groups Begin Here

Eight widely varied study-seminars sponsored by UNC Campus religious groups and led by various chaplains will begin this week. The list of discussions, which will be based on various books, covers many of the most controversial issues among free-thinkers today.

"This is the first time in recent years the campus religious groups have cooperated in presenting such a diverse series," commented Bill Coats, Episcopal Chaplain, who is coordinating the project. This list of the six-to-eight week seminars includes several topics of decidedly philosophical or literary orientation:

"The Question of Identity," led by the Rev. Jim Cansler, meeting Tuesday evenings at 7:30 at the Baptist Student Center;

"God and Man in the City," led by the Rev. Tom Miller, meeting on Tuesday evenings at 9 at the Presbyterian Student Center;

Chancellor J. Carlyle Sitterson will be formally installed and Old East Dormitory designated a national historic landmark on University Day, October 12. The special festivities will begin when classes are dismissed at 10:30 that Wednesday so that all students can

Alumni, Faculty Give $167,000

Alumni and designated faculty members here have allocated $167,300 for special uses over and above funds from appropriated state dollars, Charles M. Shaffer, director of Development announced yesterday following a meeting of the Alumni Annual Giving Council.

The largest amount, $60,000, goes for salary supplements to selected faculty members, known as Alumni Distinguished Professors.

Other sizeable amounts were earmarked for faculty research ($28,800); faculty travel ($22,000); graduate fellowships ($17,000).

The University of North Carolina Press received $2,700 for publication of scholarly journals.

The Council gave $5,000 to the University Scholarship Fund. A special grant of $15,000 was allocated to the General Alumni Association for the improvement of record keeping of alumni.

Other grants included money to the student welfare fund, the Chancellor's Emergency Fund, a radio project for sending programs about the University and its activities to 65 radio stations in North Carolina, the University's Opera Workshop, the Established Lectures Committee, University Band assistantships, special grants to the chemistry, political science and history departments, and for other purposes.

Tom Bost, director of the Alumni Annual Giving Program, previously announced that Carolina alumni last year gave over $200,000 for "unrestricted" purposes in the University.

Marvin B. Koonce Jr. of Raleigh, is chairman of the AAG program at Chapel Hill. He presided at the meeting for the allocating of funds for the university's use.

attend the ceremonies to be held in Mmorial Hall at 11 a.m.

Sitterson will deliver the main address after his formal installation. A plaque and certificate will also be presented from the National Park Service by Deputy Undersecretary of the Interior Robert Mangan who will designate Old East as a National Historical Landmark.

The landmark designation will fall on the 173rd anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone of Old East in 1793.

Consolidated University President William C. Friday will preside at the ceremonies and Governor Dan K. Moore will represent the alumni, trustees and people of the state.

Following a tradition of University Day, the faculty will march in academic procession from the Old Well and Old East, arriving at Memorial Hall to sit as a body.

The President of Davidson College, Dr. Grier Martin, will bring a message in behalf of other colleges and universities in the state.

Other speakers will be Chairman of the Faculty Corydon P. Spruill and Student Body President Bob Powell. Powell said, "I will be at the ceremonies and I hope and urge that my fellow students will attend this special event."

University Day Regalia

After the ceremonies are over about 12:30, classes will reconvene at 2 p.m.

Dr. C. Hugh Holman, Provost of the University, has been handling all the plans for University Day this year.

Holman said, "I am sure that I speak for President Friday, Chancellor Sitterson as well as myself when I ask that all of our students participate in this ceremony."

A reception for all students, faculty, University employees and townspeople will be held the night of the ceremonies from 8 to 10 p.m. in Woolen Gymnasium.

The UNC Glee Club, under direction of Joel Carter, will furnish the music for the ceremonies and the University Band, directed by Major John Yesulaitis, will provide music for the reception.

Bob Hope Performance Listed As Part Of Entertainment Series

By JOE RITOK
DTH Staff Writer

Bob Hope, internationally renowned comedian, will perform at Carmichael Auditorium on October 27, sponsored by Graham Memorial and the Arnold Air Society.

Hope, born in England in 1903, debuted on Broadway in 1932 and in 1934 made his first radio appearance on Rudy Vallee's weekly show.

In 1938, Hope became the star of his own radio show on NBC. During that same year he made his motion picture debut in "The Big Broadcast of 1938," in which he sang what is now his theme song, "Thanks for the Memory."

Since these professional firsts, he has performed on over 1,000 radio shows, more than 200 television performances, and 51 motion pictures, the most recent of which is "Boy, Did I Get a Wrong Number."

Besides his fame as a comedian, Hope is recognized as a great humanitarian. Many of Hope's Christmases have been spent away from his family entertaining American troops overseas, often under battle conditions. He has made two trips in the last year to Vietnam and the Pacific area to entertain American troops.

Hope began visiting GIs in March, 1941, and since then has performed for over 2 million of them all over the United States, Germany, Alaska, Korea, Greenland, Okinawa, Japan, Greece, Turkey, Libya, Crete, Italy, and Cuba. He has received nearly 800 awards and citations for his humanitarian and professional efforts, including the Congressional Gold Medal from the late President Kennedy; the USO Silver Medal of Merit from President Johnson; the Peabody Award; a special Oscar; a special Emmy; Philadelphia's Poor Richard Award; the Patriot of the Year Award and the Tom Dooley Award among others.

He has given three command performances for Britain's Royal Family, in 1948, 1954, and 1962.

Honorary university degrees have been bestowed upon him by the University of Wyoming, Georgetown University, Quincy University, Mommouth College, Whittier College, Pennsylvania Military College, and Northwestern University.

Hope has written five books: "Have Tux, Will Travel," "They've Got Me Covered," "I Never Left Home," "This Is Peace," and "I Owe Russia $1200." He has a sixth in progress about his two recent entertainment tours for GIs in Vietnam.

Hope is getting ready to start on his new picture, "Eight on the Lam," co-starring Phyllis Diller. He is also preparing six variety specials for the hour-long weekly television program, "Bob Hope Chrysler Presents."

This will be Hope's first appearance at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Ticket prices and time of sale will be announced soon.

Autumn — A Good Time To Be A Child

DOGS AND KIDS seem to have this craze for chasing the campus squirrels. Here 1½-year-old Michele Miller first bounds after a scampering animal, then nearly topples backwards looking up the tree. Michele chased the squirrels while papa Miller, a Presbyterian associate minister to UNC students, voted in Graham Memorial for the town's Recreation Bond Election. Michele's mother, Evon, watched bemused when her husband came out and tossed happy Michele into the air. "Do it again," Michele burred.
