

Birds Are Best

By DRUMMOND BELL
DTH Sportswriter

Before the series the Baltimore Orioles were rated underdogs by nearly all the sportswriters across the nation. Surely, the Dodger pitching and running would stymie the Birds power and rookie pitchers.

Well, the oddsmakers fell a bit short on their prediction. Baltimore's unreliable starters finished three complete games and Baltimore power won three. The Dodgers inning after inning failed to score and then proceeded to lose the confidence of their pitchers with some amazing defensive plays.

Now that the Series is over people are beginning to say that the Dodgers were in a slump, tired from the long National league pennant race, and lacking the full services of their great lefty Sandy Koufax, who couldn't pitch the first game of the Series since he was used against the Phillies on Sunday and needed the rest.

These excuses are not really legitimate. Certainly, there is some truth to these statements, but the truth is that Baltimore was a better team. Throughout the American league race the Orioles always seemed to come up with the big play. Against Boston two nights in a row they splurged for over four runs in the ninth to win. In the big four game series' the Birds played every game as if it were their last.

In the Series the Orioles again came up with the key plays both in the field and at the plate. The infield and outfield played perfect defensive ball and Bleary, Snyder, Blair, Aparicio and Robinson made sure hits outs. The pitching was a sight to behold. Backed up by a strong defense Hank Bauer's youngsters shut out the Dodgers for thirty two innings.

In the first game lefty McNally lost his control, but the bullpen came to the rescue as it had all during the regular season to shut the Dodgers out. In the last three games Palmer, Bunker and McNally pitched like experienced veterans even though none of them has reached the ripe old age of twenty-four.

The Baltimore power struck like lightning. The big inning didn't come, but the long ball proved to be the deciding factor. In the first game consecutive homers by the Robinson boys gave the Birds the confidence and impetus to win the game. In the final two games the rookies were going in after inning with the Dodger veterans on the mound. Then, Blair hit a towering home run 430 feet to left to win the third game.

In the last game a repeat of the third game was witnessed by a frenzied Baltimore crowd. Drysdale was pitching his best, and Dodger fans saw a breakthrough. However, Drysdale threw the wrong pitch to Frank Robinson, who lined the ball into the left field bleachers for the only run of the game.

In the ninth the Dodgers almost came back, but it was too late. Paul Blair hauled in Lou Johnson's fly to straight away center and Baltimore was the world champion. The pitchers, fielders and coaches were ecstatic and rightly so, for the Baltimore Orioles had shown the skeptics that they were the best baseball team the world.

The Craige D Desperadoes rallied for an 11-6 win over the Craige A Clowns. Larry Lancaster's touchdown gave the Clowns a 6-2 lead, but Dave Rutter's TD, an extra point and a safety put the Desperadoes back on top.

Old West got a touchdown by Willie Davis in the first half for a 12-0 blanking of the Old East Raiders.

Oriole's Bauer Manager Of Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Hank Bauer, the former Marine who led the Baltimore Orioles to their first American League pennant and World Series victory was named the circuit's Manager of the Year for 1966 Monday in the annual Associated Press poll.

Bauer was an overwhelming choice in the balloting by 380 baseball writers. He received 321 votes. Al Kark of Kansas City was second with 53 votes. The Orioles led virtually throughout the season, clinching the pennant 10 days before the end of the campaign and finishing with a record of 97 victories and 63 defeats. They wound up nine games ahead of the second place Minnesota Twins.

Hampered by the sore arms of several of his starting pitchers, Bauer made effective use of his strong bullpen that included Stu Miller, Moe Drabowsky, Eddie Watt, Ed Fisher and Dick Hall.

The former New York Yankee outfielder made a key personnel move before the season's opening, placing rookie Dave Johnson at second base. Jerry Air, who had played that position for Baltimore in 1965, was later traded to the Chicago White Sox for Fisher.

Johnson turned out to be one of the club's most valuable members along with outfielder Frank Robinson, who won the triple crown, third baseman Brooks Robinson and rookie catcher Andy Etchebarren.

Bauer is 44 years old and a native of East St. Louis, Ill. He took over as Baltimore manager before the start of the 1964 season and the club finished third the next two years.

Dark, who managed San Francisco for four years, directed Kansas City to a surprise seventh place finish. The A's won 74 games and lost 86, placing ahead of Washington, Boston and New York.
