More Homes Added

Thirty-two additional homes have been added to the list of available housing for visiting women.

The Office of the Dean of Women announced the addition had been published to help decrease the problem many of the students have been having in finding a place for their dates to stay.

The names on the list will not be added to the lists of the various colleges around North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia until November 1. Any student who wishes to use one of the new homes prior to that time, can have the college of the girl phoned by the Office of the Dean of Women.

The list of additional homes along with the original list can be picked up at the Dean's office. The number of homes now numbers over 200 with about 50 of them designated as being within walking distance of the campus.

Mums Selling Big

Nearly 1,000 mums have already been sold for homecoming by members of the senior class, and more flowers are being ordered to supply the great demand.

Class President Jim Brame said the tremendous response to the sale of the mums prompted him to order additional flowers besides the original order for 1,000.

Representatives of the class have been selling tickets for the mums in Y-Court everyday this week. The tickets will be exchanged Saturday morning between 9:00 and 12:30 at the Naval Armory for the mums.

Sales will continue through Friday or until the additional supply runs out.

Dean To Preside

Dean of Women Katherine Carmichael will preside tomorrow at a meeting of the North Carolina Association of Women Deans and Counselors at Louisburg College in Louisburg.

Also attending the conference will be Mrs. Dershie McDevitt and Mrs. Dorothy Fulghum, assistants to the Dean; Mrs. Judith Hand; and Mrs. June Allcott.

Navy On Campus

The Naval Aviation Information Team will be on campus during the period 24-26 October 1966. The team will be located at the "Y" court from 9:00 A.M. until 4:30 P.M.

If you have any questions concerning your military obligation or Naval Aviation please contact the team and they will be happy to answer any of your questions. They can administer you the written examinations and help you make arrangements to go to Norfolk for the physical examination and final processing of your application.

-Hinton James-

Out of the sun and into the hulking animal of unborn James hall workmen scurry and plod to their own tasks. Yelling to each other from the different heights, mens' voices shove themselves about in the assorted unorganized roar of building.

A haze of red brick dust flies obliquely from the busy sixth floor where an army of brick masons toils under the warm Autumn sky.

Thick as the gritting dust, the sounds of building thwack and race about through the grey skeeton. Racous noises of whining saws and sputtering drills echo and chase each other through the hollow elevator shaft.

The army of workmen plod and pick their way through the sandy littered concrete floors. A cage of copper and aluminum rods seems to hem the sky.

Startling because of his inactivity, a paunchy bulldogged face foreman propped against the crane frame mumbled something to himself about food, then let loose with a yell that rumbled through the corridors on the red dust: "Let's Eat Dinner!"

Everything stopped. Hands dropped bricks, tools, straight edged, trowels, hammers, nails. Sacred lunch time was here

"Anybody want a sliced tomato?"

"My wife sure can't cook, but she really can make a good peanut butter sandwich!"

Luncheon conversation drops to a buzzing drone and the whole building seems to loll languidly in the noonday sun.

The new building is startling if you haven't taken the time to look at what used to be just a cleared plot. H. L. Coble Company of Greensboro has really been going to town with the new structure.

Like the stubble-bearded foreman said, "We're not going to stop and look 'til we're done and on the 10th floor."

The federal government plans a network of nearly 200,000 miles of bicycle paths and trails in the next ten years.
